

Farmington Men Asked How to Reduce Accidents

and one burned-out headlamp. Often it is not touched but it causes another car to be demolished. This latter cause is slowly being removed, but I can think of no satisfactory way of slowing down the reckless driver.

Norman Barrens, fireman: "I think it would reduce the number of accidents if the signs designating through highways, speed limits and the boundaries of the city were much larger. When driving into Farmington from Detroit it is possible to reach almost the heart of the city before realizing you should slow down. If dangerous junctions like the cut-off and Farmington Road and the Eight Mile Road and Farmington Road were marked more clearly, I think there would be fewer accidents at those corners."

Men have their troubles the same as women, but they have far less to say about them.

FORTITUDE OF GERMAN PASTORS, PRIESTS, IS TOLD

The greatest religious regeneration of modern times is being witnessed today in Germany, where the Christian church is fulfilling the precepts of its founder by resisting, alone in the entire nation, the persecution of Jews and other minorities.

Rabbi Leon Fraum, of Temple Beth El, Detroit, told members of Farmington Exchange Club Wednesday noon. Willingly going to jail regularly every week after his regular Sunday sermons in which they teach the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man together with tolerance and compassion for all races and creeds, the speaker said that the Christian pastors and priests of Germany are presenting to the world a thrilling example of human fortitude and readiness to suffer in order to bring about on earth the triumph of the ideal of love, rather than of hate.

The ministers preach the gospel knowing full well that Storm Troopers are in the pews waiting for the speaker said. Arrest is the result of preaching on such subjects as the parable of the one lost sheep, which emphasizes that God holds precious each and every individual, this being in contradiction to the Nazi creed that the individual counts for naught, and that the State is the only consideration.

The persecutions are not the work of the German people as a whole, Rabbi Fraum said, but by a small group of gangsters who have fastened their grip upon the nation. Five years ago, in a moment of desperation, resulting from hunger and misery, the German people were willing for the moment to listen to any suggestion that seemed to offer a way out and avoid chaos. Thus, they allowed Hitler to seize control. As proof that the German people as a whole are not prejudiced, the speaker cited the fact that after five years of severe pressure from the Government, there still exist in Germany many Jewish business places, indicating that the German people, despite the pressure, would not stop trading with the fellow citizens with whom they had done business for generations—unless, as in some instances, Nazi Storm Troopers were actually at the door with guns or catraps, the latter to record evidence against the German that he had defied the Government.

The plundering and persecutions of the past few days have been occasioned, the speaker said, because the Nazi regime faces a desperate necessity. Like all gang chiefdoms, the Nazi leaders must constantly provide their gangster followers with new plunder in order to "hold them in line." Catholic church properties are likely to be raided next, the speaker said, as is evidenced by attacks already made in that direction.

CHRISTMAS SEALS WILL GO ON SALE THANKSGIVING DAY

Meeting the challenge of a slight but significant, uptrend in Michigan's tuberculosis rate, the Michigan Tuberculosis Association this week continued preparations to "put 60,000,000 tuberculosis Christmas seals into homes of Michigan residents on Thanksgiving Day. Calling attention to the challenge thrown out by the White Plague, Dr. John Alexander, famed chest surgeon of Ann Arbor's St. Joseph Hospital and newly-elected president of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association, declared that Michigan is now facing an unlooked for obstacle in her fight to control tuberculosis.

"Instead of the expected decrease in the number of tuberculosis deaths in Michigan last year, there was an increase, attributed by some to the rigors of depression," Dr. Alexander said. "The increased tuberculosis death rate for 1937, continuing the uptrend of the rate for 1936, provides better than anything else that while the fight against the White Plague is a winning one, the battle ahead presents a sternly serious problem."

Emphasis was placed on the fact that back of the whole anti-tuberculosis campaign of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association and its affiliated organizations is the conviction that Michigan people contribute when they buy each year the tuberculosis Christmas seals. Briefly outlining the principal points of the campaign to control the White Plague in Michigan, Dr. Alexander pointed out that through health education the Association believes important facts about the disease to people in every corner of the state; that through modern case-finding facilities—the tuberculin test and the chest X-ray—the spread of tuberculosis germs is prevented to a great extent.

"In buying and using penny tuberculosis Christmas seals," said Dr. Alexander, "Michigan residents are providing assurance that their homes will be protected from the menace of tuberculosis."

Epworth League Notes

By Carl Smith

Hugh S. Johnson in his editorial lapses (I get a lot of it from columns like his), tells how many times that he revisits his columns before they go to press. He said sometimes before he up four or five copies before he was satisfied. Hugh doesn't have anything on me. This column has been at least ten trips to the waste basket. This was one of them but I turned my back and picked it out again and sent it to the Enterprise.

I suppose I shouldn't spend so much of my time and space writing about such nonsense but it just had to come out (you know how we writers are). With such events as the hayride last Saturday night when everyone ate too many hot dogs and got sore stomachs from that chocolate that I made and Dorothy Johnson's very inspiring talk on World Peace I should be content to write on them alone. But I'm not.

Mr. Himmelspach will be in charge of next Sunday's meeting and he suggests that you bring all of our friends with you. It is an open meeting to young and old. Mr. Himmelspach plans to show you motion pictures in technicolor of his trip through Europe. This will be your chance to let your friends meet the rest of the league. See you in church, Sunday is the day—10:30 is the time.

The Rev. Henry Lewis, rector of St. Andrew's Church, Ann Arbor, will preach in Christ Church, at Cranbrook, Sunday afternoon, at the four o'clock vesper service. Mr. Lewis is bringing with him the organist, Mr. Thomas Kinkead, and the choir of St. Andrew's, who will take over the music of this service. Mr. Kinkead will play Franck's "Fantasia (A major)" and "Fantasia," by Beethoven. The anthem is to be "I Will Lift Up Mine Eyes," by Rogers.

"HOLDS THE LINE" TO REACH GIRL ON DISTANT SHIP

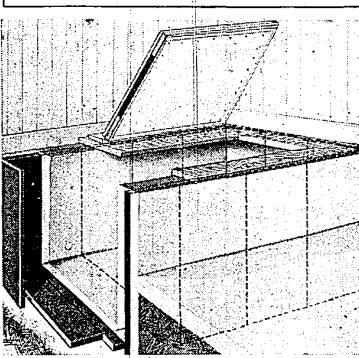

Not long ago, Theodore Swann, Birmingham, Ala., industrialist, decided that he would like to talk by telephone with his daughter, who was traveling on the liner Empress of Britain, which was then two days out of Cape Town, South Africa, en route to Bombay, India.

Mr. Swann was greatly surprised when the long distance operator asked him to hold the line. Within three minutes after placing the call, he was in conversation with his daughter, hearing her as distinctly as if she were in the same room. A few days later, he talked with her again while the ship was off the coast of Java.

DAIRYMAN CAN MAKE OWN COOLING TANK

Milk can be quickly cooled, and kept cool, in homemade insulated cooling tanks like the one pictured above. Farmers can easily and economically construct their own cooling tanks with farm tools and ordinary experience.

Insulated on bottom, all sides and cover, the cooling tanks are adaptable to water flow, ice cooling and electric refrigeration. With this type of cooling tank correct temperatures are secured with any method of refrigeration and in winter the insulation also provides protection against freezing. The satisfactory control of temperature made possible with this cooler enables farmers to meet important requirements of milk ordinances with a small investment.

The type of insulation used in the construction of the tank illustrated can be obtained from lumber dealers everywhere.

*Note: VLIIT means vaporproofed low temperature insulation.

The value of humor in education is just beginning to be recognized, says Prof. Beryl Parker, of New York University, who believes that for small children laughter and learning may well go together. Many adults of today can recall some stern-faced preceptor to whom this suggestion would not even have been amusing. But if an educator can make the multiplication tables entertaining or get a giggle out of grammar, he should receive an honorary degree of Doctor of Human Kindness.

Valerie Walters Barely Escapes Serious Injury

Valerie Walters, the eight-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harley Walters, of 34623 Oakland Avenue, is only slightly injured today only through the best of luck. Tuesday night she carelessly ran into the street and struck the side of an automobile being driven by Clyde Bessy.

Bessy was driving extremely slow, or the slight injuries that Valerie suffered might be much graver. She was on the way to the store and was crossing Grand River in the middle of the block near Warner, according to Deputy Sheriff Joseph DeFriend. Bessy was released.

THANKSGIVING SUPPER

A Thanksgiving Supper will be held at the Baptist Church, Friday evening, November 18. Following the dinner a program will be held. Special music has been arranged with the Schenck trio of Detroit as a feature. The musicians have played over most of the Detroit radio stations and are well known in this area. Clifford Huffman, 14, of Pontiac, will give several numbers on the piano accordion, and community singing will be held.

The speaker of the evening is Rev. Fred Keadal, who is well versed on the present situation in Germany. Though his subject is not known, it is probable that it will concern European conditions.

It is requested that all children under High School age be accompanied by their parents, or some other responsible person. A free will offering will be taken to cover the expense of the dinner.

A Buying Guide

Before you order a dinner in a restaurant, you consult the bill-of-fare. Before you take a long trip by motor-car, you pour over road maps. Before you start out on a shopping trip, you should consult the advertisements in The Enterprise. For the same reasons!

The advertising columns are a buying guide to you in the purchase of everything you need—including amusements! A guide that saves your time and conserves your energy; that saves useless steps and guards against false ones that put S-T-R-E-T-C-H in family budgets.

The advertisements in this paper are so interesting, it is difficult to see how anyone could overlook them. . . fail to profit by them. Just check with yourself and be sure that you are reading the advertisements regularly—the big ones and the little ones. It is time well spent . . . always.
