LEGION PREPARES FOR CHRISTMAS THE YEAR 'ROUND

Christmas is here, again, and you and the American Legion are now called upon to give the world's largest Christmas party. More than 11,000 posts in all parts of America are now in action, preparing for this gigantic, humanitarian service.

Our slogan is no underprivileged child shall go hungry on Christmas, nor on the remaining 365 days of the year.

The American Legion's program embraces such activities as sponsoring community celebrations, giving Christmas trees to communities, distributing Christmas food baskets, organizing community singing of carols, conducting community lighting contests, clothing ragged children, and operating "Toy Hospitals," for renovating used playthings. There are at present 4,000 "Toy Hospitals" sponsored by the American Legion in America. From these hospitals old toys are made new to fill "Old Santa's" treasure-chest for needy little ones, and at present there are some 2,000 Sons of the American Legion collecting used toys and delivering them to the Legion. They will later help to distribute them to needy children. Also thousands of hospitalized World War veterans and their families will be recipients of you and the American Legion's Christmas spirit remembrance. You and the American Legion can and will make this the greatest Christmas ever. Let's stand in peace as we did in war, as one united, and let there be "Peace on earth, good will to men!"

F. Homer Newton Installs Eight Officers of Masons

Farmington's Masons are now under the direction of a new group of officers headed by Carl C. Harrison, since the installation Monday night.

Presiding as chief installing officer was F. Homer Newton, who is the Grand Secretary of the Michigan Grand Lodge. Mr. Newton gave a short talk after the installation was completed. He was accompanied here by his brother, Charles, of Pontiac.

Mr. Harrison succeeds Charles N. Diamond as Worshipful Master. The other seven officers installed are: Edward F. Alexander, Senior Warden; James Smith, Junior Warden; Arthur Lamb, treasurer; James E. Hogle, secretary; Harold Hurkett, Senior Deacon; William F. Hogarth, Junior Deacon; and Ralph J. Auten, Tyler.

The installation was well attended and a luncheon and program were conducted afterward. These officers will preside until a year from now.

Michigan sheep total approximately one million head.

Selling Techniques Used By Goodfellows

But astonished as they were they bought the papers, and the Goodfellows had a grand time. Not all of them had as much fun as those on the main corner. There was Bayard Tupper, for instance, who met some real tough luck on a hard assignment—at Grand River and Eight Mile Road. Just a few minutes after he got there a repair crew came along and turned off the traffic-light. "After that," remarked Bayard ruefully, "it was just like trying to sell papers to airplane pilots."

Dr. Joe Norton joined Bayard, and in desperation began to look around. He spied a tavern nearby. He marched directly thereto with a dogged look on his face. Inside he must have found the spirit of conviviality which is supposed to reign in taverns, for he comes out of the place, with an average of nearly a dollar apiece for a paper sold to each person in the place.

At the corner in front of the bank Vic Blakeslee collared a five-dollar bill for a single paper—but his said that he himself volunteered the information that he'd previously figured a certain person named Smith was "good for a good one" and sent word that he'd be on the corner and his motto was, "they shall not pass." Whether he used the old saw that it was his last paper or whether he said he was working his way through college, is unreported.

Anyway, the Goodfellows, after having to increase their original paper order of 500 to 1,500, got some $180 clear out of the afternoon's work to buy things for the needy. They also got some side-aches—that is, those except the two who thought it would be nice to "look like a cop," but who couldn't see the humor. The other Goodfellows thought it was nice, too—until their sides began to ache so much. They'll never forget that cop smoking his pipe.

Christmas vacation at the University of Michigan began last Friday afternoon. Among the thousands who left the campus to return home for the holidays were six students from Farmington: Floyd A. Bond, William N. Gray, Bruce Johnson, Virgil R. Owens, Carl C. Lehmann and George E. Penhale. They will resume their studies on Jan. 2.
