IT MAY BE SWEET BUT—NOT MAPLE SYRUP

Although the compounds sold at this season as maple syrup have not changed from the maple and berry dyes, the records of the Department of Agriculture would indicate, according to Commissioner John B. Sweeney, that the advent of the auto has changed the style of the confidence men who prey upon the sweet tooth of Michigan's lovers of buckwheat cakes and maple syrup.

As far back as records are available, the department has had to contend with the wily individuals that at this time of the year mix a bit of light and dark sugar with a bit of flavoring and in many instances, cash in on the demand for maple syrup. In other days, a roan horse and a mule were the tools of the trade.

"It is a peculiar thing," said Commissioner Sweeney, "that many people feel that they are to be beaten in dealing for maple syrup and this attitude of taking advantage of the confidence men who prey upon the sweet tooth of Michigan's lovers of buckwheat cakes and maple syrup. A peculiar angle though, it sometimes has been that we have been unable to prosecute because the container was not labeled, or else was labeled as syrup. To assure one's self of obtaining maple syrup, be certain that the container has a label stating that the product is maple syrup, with net contents and the name of the manufacturer."

"It is well to check, if the manufacturer is unknown to you, the name and address before purchasing the syrup. If you desire to purchase maple sugar cakes, do not accept those marked 'sugar cakes' but insist upon those with proper markings. The department would appreciate the cooperation of the public in insisting upon properly labeled maple products; making it possible to eliminate the sugar and water salesman and thus regain the confidence of the public in one of Michigan's finest products."
