DESTRUCTION OF RAGWEED TO BE CONTINUED

State Highway Commissioner Murray D. Van Wagoner said this week the highway department's newly initiated policy of destroying ragweed along right-of-way would be continued through growing months this fall and launched again with the first growth next Spring.

Van Wagoner said the eradication campaign would be continued through growing months this fall and launched again with the first growth next Spring.

The original order to maintainance crews to clear the weed, which irritates hay fever sufferers, from 9,000 miles of trunkline right-of-way brought a flood of commendatory and critical comments from hay fever victims.

Most of the criticism was directed at the so-called inadequacy of a program which would clear the roadsides of the weed but not kill it to grow in adjoining fields.

Officials said the ragweed pollen was carried also from neighboring states.

Maintainance officials were convinced, following conferences with experts, that passing automobiles stirred the pollen along right-of-way and gave hay fever sufferers visiting Michigan for relief immediate contact.

Pontiac Bull in World's Fair Holstein Herd

Miss Princess Mabel Lad, 4-year-old Holstein bull owned by Pontiac Hospital of Pontiac, posed for this picture at the foot of the Persisphere and Trylon at the New York World's Fair. Selected as a representative of Holstein breeding, this bull is featured in the Holstein herd in the Borden's World of Milk.

The Dutch herd of The World's Fair is made up of more than 150 purebred—thirty cows, one bull, and representative calves of each of the five breeds, Ayrshire, Brown Swiss, Guernsey, Holstein-Friesian, and Jersey.

The purchases on display in the Dairy World of Tomorrow were selected by the Dairy Breed Associations from herds throughout the United States and Canada.
