SECONDARY ROAD PROGRAM ENTERS FINAL PHASE

State Highway Commissioner Murray D. Van Wagoner told the Upper Peninsula Road Builders' Association this week that the state highway department and county road commissions were entering the final phase of the first Federal Aid Secondary Road program.

The commissioner spoke before the annual meeting of the Upper Peninsula Road Builders at Escanaba. He said that all the money available from the Federal government for the fiscal years 1938 and 1939 had now been spoken for and projects would be under contract by the end of the year.

Reviewing the results of the program, he said that when it is finished, improvements would be made in all 14 different counties. In some of the counties there will be several different projects.

Under the program, the Federal government made available a total of $20,000,000 for secondary road improvement. The state highway department used 27 per cent of the money on secondary trunklines while the counties are using the remaining 73 per cent on county roads.

The state matched its share of the money and the counties their share.

A total of 334 miles of county roads will be improved under the program and 13 new bridges constructed. The improvements include 70 miles of retread surfacing on a new grade and 60 miles of gravel surfacing, 55 miles of grading and drainage, 51 miles of oil aggregate surfacing, 21 miles of 20-foot concrete pavement, and 8 miles of 10-foot concrete pavement.

APPLE CROP IS MOVING BETTER, SAY GROWERS

The apple crop is moving better this year than ever before—that is the consensus of opinion in both the wholesale and retail trades, not only throughout this district but in the entire state. And in many cases other states report that the increased activity can be largely attributed to the advertising campaign now temporarily suspended awaiting the outcome of the suit in Berrien County Circuit Court, questioning the constitutionality of the Apple Tax.

The Grocers' Spotlight, publication of the independent grocers of Detroit, which led a movement making the entire month of October "Michigan Apple Month" in Greater Detroit, reports that retailers are working harder to sell apples and consumers are buying more apples at this time of year, than ever before in history.

Newspapers in Wisconsin and Iowa, and wholesalers in those states, send word of many wholesalers and direct buying retailers, who never have bought Michigan apples before, but this year have already used five, ten or fifteen carloads, and are steadily buying more. This they attribute to the superior quality of this year's Michigan crop, and to the enthusiasm aroused by the current advertising campaign.

In Chicago, Michigan's largest market outside of the state, the wholesalers and retailers, both chain and independent, want to put on a tremendous Michigan Apple Show in a loop hotel, with forty or fifty exhibits, at least 2,000 bushels of fruit on display, and with the promised cooperation of radio stations, newspapers, meat packers and other interested organizations. In return they wish a measure of financial support from Michigan, which has had to be denied pending outcome of the constitutionality suit.

In Detroit November 10 in a great exhibition that will last a month at the Institute of Arts.

The famous Little Ince Hall Madonna by Jan van Eyck that journeyed half way round the world from Melbourne, Jan Vermeer's Milkmaid from Amsterdam, most popular works at the New York show, the Louvre's Vigée LeBrun from San Francisco, will be among the treasures that may never again be brought together under one roof.

Other loans are from the Louvre, Paris; the Royal Museum, Antwerp; the National Gallery, London; the Rijksmuseum, Amsterdam; the Royal Museum, Brussels; and world-famous foreign private collections. They include some of the most important and cherished works of Watteau, Hogarth, Hals, Rembrandt, Steen, Bosch, Breugel and Pragonard, and all the other foreign-owned paintings shown at the two fairs except the Italian pictures from San Francisco, which are to be returned at once to the Italian Government.

Detroit is the first city to get any of these pictures, which after the close of the exhibition at the Institute will be separated again into the two collections, which will be shown at the country's museums separately.

The Detroit Institute has been requested to take custody of the New York pictures for the duration of the war, in full charge of lending them to other museums. Dr. W. R. Valentiner, director of the Institute, was director-general of the Masterpieces of Art show at the New York World's Fair.

To cover the expense of insurance and transportation, an admission fee of 25 cents will be charged at the exhibition. Because of the great educational opportunity that may never again come to the city of Detroit, school classes accompanied by teachers will be admitted free.

Hunters Warned Not To Dress Up For Banquet

The Oakland County Sportsmen's League will hold a "Hunting-Shirt" banquet in Pontiac, November 6, at 7 p. m., at the Elks Club, announces Howard M. Warner, Farmington chairman of the league.

Sportsmen who attend in "dress" clothes are liable to a forfeit, declared Mr. Warner. Hunting shirts or hunting costumes of any kind must be worn.

The league announces that the dog quarantine which was placed on the County during the past year will not be in effect this Fall. A sharp reduction of 51 per cent in the incidence of rabies in Oakland County for the first seven months over the same period last year marks a successful campaign carried on by the association. No petitions were necessary this year to get out of quarantine.

Pierson School Team Loses To Walled Lake

The first football game Pierson School played with Walled Lake was a close hard-fought game. Pierson got the first touchdown but due to lack of experience they could not hold the lead and lost thirteen to seven. In the second game last Tuesday the boys met a heavier, more experienced Clarenceville eleven. They could not gain many yards but managed to win by a passing attack and got a touchdown, the game ended with a score of twenty to six. In spite of these defeats the team hopes to win the game at Farmington this week.

Old British Ships

One of the sights of the Thames, the famous old training ship Arcturion, is giving place to a more modern vessel, the four-masted steel bark Peking, which has been acquired by the Shattesbury Homes and Arcturion Training Ship Society.

The Peking, like the old Arcturion, will be moored at Greenhithe, where there is doubtless a long life of usefulness before her in training youngsters for the navy and merchant service. She was built in 1911, while the old Arcturion dates back to 1849. She was in the navy during the Crimean war and was the last British fighting ship to go into action in the Peking's history so romantic at that, but the German company to which she belonged has owned many famous sailing ships among them the Pamir and the Perma. And the Peking was one of the best of them all.
