

Efforts Made to Get Jobs For Furloughed Workers

A determined effort is being made by the Public Works Administration to assist furloughed IWA employees to obtain other employment. Regional PWA Director, D. R. Kennicott announced this week. Acting at the suggestion of John M. Carmody, Administrator of the Federal Works Agency, Mr. Kennicott said, the Chicago Regional Office is taking steps to call attention of employers throughout the Region to the availability of this personnel.

Many of the employees were furloughed when PWA Regional offices at Omaha, Nebraska and Fort Worth, Texas, were closed recently and their work consolidated with that of the Chicago Regional Office, due to approaching completion of the PWA program and dwindling administrative funds.

Administrator Carmody pointed out that the Public Works Administration has recruited its personnel with a great deal of care over a period of six years, and added, "Some staff employed has carried on one of the largest programs of public works in the history of the world. The experience undoubtedly has been of inestimable value in the professional and special training of the persons who have done this magnificent job."

"They came out of industry. They want to go back. I think we can count on industrial executives to help them."

Patrol Boat Seizes Unlawful Fish Nets

Their patrol boat locked in South Haven harbor, enforcement officers of the conservation department keep busy.

Commandeering a commercial fishing boat, the crew recently confiscated over three miles of illegal-mesh chub nets which had been set off the Manitowish Islands in Lake Michigan. The 17,000 feet of nets are worth approximately $1,000. They carried no identification.

AT THE REDFORD THEATER

Starring Garry Cooper, and with Andrea Leeds and David Niven heading an unusually important cast, Samuel Goldwyn's new adventure drama, "Real Glory," which will begin its showing at the Redford Theater on Friday, unfolds a thrilling and exciting tale of the Philippine Scouts and their heroic bravery at the conclusion of the Spanish-American War, when the Philippines were overrun by insurrectionists and religious fanatics.

The central theme of "The Real Glory" revolves around the exploits of the scouts, who became a constabulary on the island and rallied to their support loyal natives and peaceful Moros. The Moros, a tribe of unorthodox Mohammedans, had retreated to the hills and jungles of the Sulu Kingdom to wage a fierce religious war against the remaining American troops.

Henry Hathaway, who directed Cooper in "Lives of a Bengal Lancer," directed "The Real Glory," and the supporting cast is headed by unique players, among them: Broderick Crawford, Reginald Owen, Kay Johnson, Vladimir Sokoloff, Russell Hicks, and Henry Kolker. For the first time in his career, Cooper plays the role of a doctor, who comes to this distant outpost for medical expertise. He remains to help the Army quell the rebellion and establish lasting peace. Miss Leeds in the role of an American visiting her father, also stays on—not to win the war, but to win a trip to the altar on the arm of Gary.

For weeks a corps of 500-odd workmen, most of them skilled craftsmen, labored to complete a replica of a regular army post in the Philippines for this Goldwyn picture, and the results are startling. The space, occupied by the set comprised six acres, and 10,000 square feet of asphalt were used for a lagoon 400 feet long and six feet deep, containing 1,500,000 gallons of water. This vast body of water was set up for a minute for a pumping plant was set up to maintain a natural current in the stream and a six-inch head of water tumbled constantly over a six-foot waterfall. Ralph Angel, Goldwyn's construction chief, supervised the job, working from official War Department photographs made during the Philippine occupation. He didn't miss a detail.

THE ETERNITY OF GOD

The stately pine tree seems to me The symbol of God's eternity. In its towering height His strength is seen, His deathless love, in its overgreen.

Its spreading boughs the Everlasting Arms. A place of shelter when "storm" alarms I look again at this towering tree, And the way of redemption seems clear to me; Its pointing upward to Heaven's gate. Where the "God of Love," and "Forgiveness" wait.

—Mrs. Robert Fredericks.

"Years, as they come, bring blessings in their train.—Horace.

LOWER PRICES BOOST POPULARITY OF PORK IN MEALS

Pork in Michigan households gains more and more popularity at least with those who pay the food bills this winter, for low prices make the meat an attractive purchase.

That lends home economics staff members at Michigan State College to make a few suggestions on best uses and methods of preparation.

Cuts of pork are easy to roast because the meat usually is tender and because the natural fat usually is sufficient to make the meat self-basting.

Especially the pork loin is easy to handle because it can be purchased in a size suitable for serving almost any family. Fresh ham makes another easily prepared meat and even shoulder is easy to carve if the bone is removed to be replaced, perhaps, by a savory stuffing. With apples plentiful, the usual accompaniment of apple sauce makes another easily prepared dish.

Thorough cooking is required at an even temperature. Pork should never be served if steaks, chops or roasts still show a trace of pink in the juice. There might be a trichina parasite present, but sufficient heat can kill the trichina.

Proper temperatures for roasting range between 325 and 350 degrees Fahrenheit. Roasting time should be 25 to 30 minutes a pound, at though a stuffed shoulder weighing about four pounds will require about three and one-half hours. A roast-meat thermometer says pork is done when the inside temperature of the meat is 182 to 185 degrees.

AIRCAMEAS MAP FORESTS

Comparison of aerial photographs taken of Michigan in 1920-32 for the department of conservation with those taken in 1938-39 for the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, shows the rate at which forest cover is closing up in burns and other openings. Areas showing marked change may be located for study in the field.
