MAN IN BARREL IS LUCKY-- TO STILL HAVE BARREL.

He can't talk about my trip, and it's not less than eight or ten newspaper articles about it." A Pittsburgh, Pa. Scout wrote that "the trip to the Fair and the opportunity of living a week in the Fair Grounds has been the greatest experience of my life." The Fair looked like a fairyland at night. One week at the Fair can educate a person more than months of hard study."

WAR ON BEETLES SHOWS RESULTS THROUGHOUT STATE

Agricultural Commissioner Elmer A. Beamer expressed satisfaction with Michigan's seven year fight against Japanese Beetle upon receipt of the 1939 report of the Division of Japanese Beetle Control of the United States Department of Agriculture. The dangerous insect, the report disclosed, is being restricted to the Detroit area, six trapping points, Escanaba, Nuytogo, Plymouth, Detroit, Alport, Highland Park and Pontiac submitting negative reports.

During the 1939 season, the Michigan Department of Agriculture cooperating with the federal agency and local governments placed 6,475 traps, which gathered 136 beetles. The largest number of traps were placed in Detroit, 5,250 traps capturing 115 beetles. Other points at which beetles were located through trapping were Birmingham, Dearborn, Grosse Pointe Farms and Melvindale.

BOY SCOUTS PLAN FOR PARTS IN WORLD'S FAIRS

The Boy Scouts of America will have an active part in the New York World's Fair and the Golden Gate International Exposition at San Francisco this year. The Scouts' participation at both Fairs in 1939 was successful, both from the standpoint of the boys and their leaders as well as in the judgment of the officials of the enterprise.

Once again the Movement will maintain its own Boy Scout Service Camp on a two-acre site adjacent to the Federal Building at the New York Fair. Here provisions are being made for 160 Scouts and Scouters to camp each week. Living as Boy Scout Troops with their own boy and adult leaders. This represents an increase of ten more campers per week.

"Thirty-two States Represented." Last year 2,801 Scouts and their leaders lived in the New York World's Fair in a tented village of their own. They came from more than 700 towns in 32 states, the District of Columbia and the Canal Zone. Their helpfulness to fair officials and fairgoers and their conduct won praise from many quarters.

The Scouts combined their camp experience with an "unusual" educational adventure, seeing the numerous exhibits at close range and rubbing elbows, figuratively speaking, with persons from all over the world. They became official ambassadors of the Fair itself. Upon returning home many were guests of civic organizations to whom they told of their personal experiences at the largest Fair the world has ever had.

Each Scout camper will devote about one-third of his time in his service capacity which will not compete with those seeking gainful employment. Last year the Scouts proved themselves almost indispensable as guides in assisting school teachers who visited the Fair with approximately 500,000 children during May and June. They also served as aides at the administrative office, for the National Advisory Committee, at first aid stations, in the press and treasury offices, the special events department and such exhibits as the state pavilions, Temple of Religion, Medicine and Public Health and the Children's World. They were teachers, orderlies, color guards and guards for special programs for foreign government groups.

An average of 100 old pairs of shoes are having their "faces" lifted each week at the shoe repair project of the Michigan National Youth Administration at 2340 West Lafayette Boulevard in Detroit. The sponsors of the project—the Detroit Department and the Salvation Army—will materials, including new old shoes, and products not only sold and here but in many cases entirely rebuilt, are distributed by these agencies to needy people in the city. Twenty-five jobless young men working on alternate shifts are receiving valuable experience in shoe repair work under the expert supervision of an instructor furnished by the WPA Education Division.

ation also is indicated by the fact that Michigan has a lower cost per acre in 1939 for soil treatment than any other state."

OLD-FASHIONED TAFFY PULL GETS SCIENTIFIC AID

Even the old-fashioned party idea of a taffy pull needs to hand out compliments to modern science. For such a device as a sugar cookery thermometer is a far better guide for candy than the best cook.

So suggestions of other uses need no offend even the experts. Several splatters recommended by home economics staff members at Michigan State College deal with temperatures.

A cook to turn out a more perfect roast, utilizing a special thermometer, for controlled temperature in deep-fat frying proves an advantage.

Even in the refrigerator, temperature control is an aid in keeping foods in better condition. The products, broth and desserts usually need temperatures under 45 degrees, about as cold as the coldest part of the refrigerator storage. Uncooked meats and salad greens can stand higher temperatures, but safekeeping of all perishable foods means under 50 degrees.

On more than a million American farms, wheat is an important source of cash income. These growers have participated in recent production which has enabled the government ever-normal granary plan to place 300 million bushels in reserve above domestic requirements.

'Mother Knows Best' Doesn't She?

Guiding their inquiring minds and dynamic activities . . . choosing their food, clothes, entertainment and health needs . . . the well-informed modern mother knows what is best for the welfare of her offspring. And it is safe to say that an incalculable share of her accurate information has had its beginning in the advertising columns of this newspaper.

Many of the advertisements today bristle with ideas. They are more than catalogs. In the true sense, they are education! Scientific minds contribute to their contents. Their recommendations are based on deep thought. Their words are carefully chosen; their diction studiously formed for clarity and understanding.

Through advertisements the mother of today learns authoritatively about new methods in the care of children's teeth. About antiseptics and hygienics. About body-building and health-giving foods. About new comforts as well as new styles, in juvenile wearing apparel. About books and schools and vacation camps. . . . The advertisements pour innumerable hints and suggestions into her store of knowledge. They make her a more capable manager of the home and guardian of the family exchequer.

"Mother knows best"—is this expression heard about your home? Is it just an admonition? Or, is it founded on facts. Reading advertisements will to help make it so.
