AT THE REDFORD THEATER

James Cagney's newest starring picture, "The Fighting 69th," will be the next attraction at the Redford Theater, where it will begin its engagement on Friday. In "The Fighting 69th," he shares starring honors with Pat O'Brien and George Brent, with a featured cast including Jeffrey Lynn, Alan Hale, Frank McHugh and dozens of others.

Cagney's name on the star list usually guarantees a good rousing action story, and "The Fighting 69th" is no exception. Cagney is a DITCHES MAY BE USED FOR PIKE SPAWNING GROUND

For improvement of pike fishing in Houghton lake, the state or some other agency may have to set aside some of the lakeshore drainage ditches for spring pike spawning, the conservation department's Institute for Fisheries Research reports.

W. F. Carling, of the Institute's staff, is continuing this spring the study of great northern pike born a year ago. Continuous filling in of shallow, marshy shoreline for cottages has robbed the pike of much of its spawning territory, he reports, and residents now plug the extensive drainage ditches for fear the fish will be stranded, or will leave the lake to go down the Muskegon river.

A system of furrows set in one drainage ditch running into the lake's North Bay permitting observation and counting of spawners showed that with more than 400 pike using the ditch, and depositing an estimated 1,000,000 eggs, only 7,200 young pike returned to the lake.

First runs up the ditch last spring were observed April 2 when the ice melted enough to permit them. First spawning was noted April 11. The return to the lake began April 16 and continued to May 30, when the water level began to go down. First fry were observed May 5 and fry continued coming down to the lake until July 23, when the ditch dried up. Largest of the fry was a nine-inch specimen taken July 10.

Of the spawners returning to the lake, 338 were tagged, and 20 per cent of these tagged fish were caught by anglers later.

OPEN SEASON ON QUAIL AND DOVE DOUBTFUL

Hunters inquiring about the possibility of an open season on quail and mourning doves at present find little encouragement in the situation as pictured by conservation department ornithologists.

While some areas in southwestern Michigan in some years may have a quail population that would support limited hunting, it is believed that adjusting hunting pressure within proper limits and preventing trespass would be difficult. Game division ornithologists point out that Michigan is on the northern edge of the quail range, and that the quail population fluctuates greatly, being much affected by severe winters and food and cover conditions.

Abundant sentiment against quail hunting has been evident for many years among farmers and bird lovers who prize the birds for their seed and insect eating habits, and as an interesting companion on the farm.

Mourning dove shooting could not be legalized by the state until federal regulations banning it were relaxed. Popular sentiment is much the same toward doves as toward quail.

"IS IT TRUE?" Daisies never tell dear, do you believe that's true? Do pansies say, remember all my love for you? That roses breathe of passion, and Violets subdue? That clover leaves are lucky? Do pussy willows mew? Do you believe a lily should hang her head in shame? Because a saucy tulip had set her heart aflame?

Do you believe Sweet William and fragrant Mignonette Will always love each other or will they soon forget?

Are cosmos really fairies just dancing in the rain? Do daffodils and foxglove go strolling down the lane? A butterfly once told me as he slipped the morning dew That flowers were like people, do you believe that, true? To my little grandchildren.
