When June has passed and July will arrive, orchardists and canners alike will busy the hatchet and join hands to celebrate the cherry harvest with the National Cherry Festival, the three-day event in Traverse City which annually attracts nearly half a million persons to the cherry capital.

This year the festival will be held Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, July 17, 18, and 19.

With growers demanding three cents per pound and packers non-committal on cherry prices, the Grand Traverse region is anticipating a normal-cherry production this year, the exact tonnage depending largely upon the size of the "June drop" in the orchards.

Although danger of late frost is almost negligible, growers must still worry about hail, orchard parasites and pests and prices.

As usual, the festival will open with the arrival of Queen Barbara Brown of St. Ignace, daughter of Senator and Mrs. Frontis Brown, on the coast guard cutter Escanaba. When she lands at Municipal Pier, Queen Barbara will be greeted by her subjects and proclaimed queen. Her actual coronation, however, will not take place until the following night. Governor Luren D. Dickinson will be asked to crown the queen.

Before the festival opens the queen will turn in a big job of publicizing the cherry in a national way. On July 8 she will be in New York to carve an immense cherry pie which will contain a thousand individual cherry pies to be distributed among underprivileged children. All this is a part of National Cherry Festival day at the New York World's Fair. From there she will go to Washington with a big pie for the president.

So, prices, pests and parasites will be forgotten during the three days that cherry cheer holds sway in the Grand Traverse region.

SUMMER PLANE CRUISE TO BE HELD JUNE 24-29

A parade of "wings over Michigan" will be seen and heard by residents of this state when private pilots of eight cooperative states arrive for the National Summer Plane Cruise, June 24-29.

The cruise, an outgrowth of Michigan's rapid advancement in the aviation field—with special emphasis on the private flying sec-

DON—Is being sponsored by the Michigan Department of Aeronautics at Lansing, of which Colonel Floyd E. Evans is director. Colonel Evans, well-known for his part in assisting Michigan's famed "Dava Patrol" of fighter plane pilots to its present status, is acting as executive chairman for the cruise.

The flyers, about 150 to 200, will arrive in Michigan from South Bend, Indiana, and Toledo, Ohio, in two divisions. They will arrive at Lansing and Grand Rapids, respectively, remaining overnight before their embarkation for Traverse City.

The two groups will be feted by Lansing Visitors 445 of the 40 and 8 program for this year's dairy month was an elaborate event, every detail carefully worked out and synchronized, perfectly by those in charge. Producers, processors and dealers of fluid milk joined hands with the ice cream, butter and cheese manufacturers; then, to make the picture complete, both the independent and the chain store people came in.

"In all my experience in the agricultural field," he continued, "I have striven to bring about better cooperation between the various branches of each part of the industry and between the commodity groups themselves. I think the Dairy Month program one of the finest pieces of group cooperation it has been my experience to witness. I am glad to have been a member of the state committee, and wish to commend other members, especially Clarence L. Bolander, of Iapker, chairman; Harry K. Armstrong, representing the chain stores; and Willis R. Keasey, who acted for the independent stores. Many thanks should go to Michigan State College for their contribution of our Dairy Queen, Miss Jean Bradley. And finally, to Miss Linda Ware, juvenile movie and radio star, who added much to the success of the program, should go the heartfelt thanks of all Michigan."

The "wings" will depart on the morning of June 25th for the northland, the western division flying to Ludington, the eastern wing to Cadillac. Arrangements have been completed at the latter city for a luncheon meeting by the Chamber of Commerce, Rotary and Kiwanis clubs and a scenic tour.

The two "wings" will arrive at Traverse City about 5 p. m., where they will be feted that evening by local groups. An elaborate ritual is promised as the cruise unfolds. Patrons are inducted into the "Paul Bunyan Clan", fun organization of the cruise, which will seek to impress the visitors with Michigan's atmosphere of pioneer legend.

Michigan's advanced network of airports and landing fields will be at the disposal of the nation's flyers. The success of the venture bids fair to bring back additional hundreds of air-minded tourists to Michigan next year.

Doesn't She?

Guiding their inquiring minds and dynamic activities . . . choosing their food, clothes, entertainment and health needs . . . the well-informed modern mother knows what is best for the welfare of her offspring. And it is safe to say that an incalculable share of her accurate information has had its beginning in the advertising columns of this newspaper.

Many of the advertisements today bristle with ideas. They are more than catalogs. In the true sense, they are education! Scientific minds contribute to their contents. Their recommendations are based on deep thought. Their words are carefully chosen; their diction studiously formed for clarity and understanding.

Through advertisements the mother of today learns authoritatively about new methods in the care of children's teeth. About antiseptics and hygienics. About body-building and health-giving foods. About new comforts as well as new styles, in juvenile wearing apparel. About books and schools and vacation camps. . . . The advertisements pour innumerable hints and suggestions into her store of knowledge. They make her a more capable manager of the home and guardian of the family exchequer.

"Mother knows best"—is this expression heard about your home? Is it just an admonition? Or, is it founded on facts. Reading advertisements will to help make it so.
