WITHHELD PARCELS
TO BE OFFERED AT SPECIAL SALE

Certain lands which were either withheld from the recent auction sale re-offering or which were not sold at the re-offering sale will be offered at a special public auction sale to be held Friday, February 7, at the Masonic Temple building, in Pontiac. The sale will begin at 9 a. m. and run until noon and will be resumed from 1 p. m. until 4 p. m.

An analysis of sales during the week of January 20 shows that 4,625 parcels were offered and of these 4,178 were sold. The amount of the sales was $78,101.25.

Most of the parcels involved are located in the Village of Oak Park and were originally withheld at the request of the Village, because of the contemplated airport, but were subsequently determined to be unnecessary for airport purposes. These parcels are being offered at the request of the Village of Oak Park. Another group of parcels are being offered at the request of the City of Huntington Woods.

There also will be re-offered certain parcels not sold at the re-offering sale. Lists of all the parcels to be offered at the February 7th special sale are available at the Pontiac Sales Office.

450-MILE PHONE CALL WAS
MARVEL OF 52 YEARS AGO

Fifty-two years ago, the Scientific American discussed the marvel of long distance telephone service. The specific occasion seems to have been the inauguration of service between Philadelphia and Portland, Me., a distance of 460 miles. In its issue of November, 1888, the Scientific American said:

"Words spoken in Philadelphia can now be heard in Portland, Maine, a distance of 460 miles. The American Telephone and Telegraph Company, of New York, and Vice-President and General Manager Ed. J. Hall, Jr., are the organizers of this service. It is to be congratulated on the successful opening up to telephone service of this vast and wealthy territory. What was at first looked upon as a splendid feat is now being recognized as one of the successful and progressive moves in recent electrical history."

General Prosperity Can
Come Through Culture

If the monetary value of famous paintings were the most important consideration, then we might wisely lock up our country's best pictures and forget about art until peace and leisure come again. But this is not so. The vitality of a nation's culture depends, not on its proud ownership of masterpieces, but on its constant exercise of the human mentality as exemplified in the great works of art.

Two examples to illustrate the different attitudes to the great art of the world. Oswald Garrison Villard tells (in his "Fighting Years") of asking a noted collector whether he was not afraid of something happening to his paintings as he moved them each year from his town house to his country estate, albeit they were moved in a steel car. The collector answered: "Oh, no, they are insured."

Without minimizing the debt we owe the famous collector in question, through whose expenditure the American public has access to these masterpieces, we may point out that he was thinking of the old painting primarily as valuable sources of pleasure.

On the other hand, consider the living use of traditional art which is being made by a Canadian artist. He is engaged on a study of the relation of advanced mathematics to commercial design, checking his findings by such things as the curves of Greek vases or the curves in Leonardo's spirals. This work can contribute to the manufacture of finely designed articles; thus to such prosperity as comes of quality manufacturing; thus to success in competitive markets; thus to dollars in the pockets of our workmen.

The new form of surgery and pain control was introduced before the New York Academy of Medicine recently by Dr. Byron Stoeckel of the Neurological Institute of New York. It has been used successfully in cases of cancer, facial neuralgia and other diseases which cause severe pain.

Dr. Stoeckel, who has performed more than 100 successful operations, emphasized that nerve surgery does not cure disease. It merely eliminates the pain resulting from diseases. It is used mostly in instances which are still beyond the hope of surgical aid.

British Flag on Capitol Building

The British flag is permitted to be flown on the Capitol building at Williamsburg, Va., because it is the Great Union, which preceded our present British Union Jack. Prior to the selection of this historic emblem there was a consultation of historians, heraldic experts, lawyers, architects and officers of the United States Flag association. Before the flag was hoisted the following statement was obtained from the United States Flag association: "We can see no objection whatsoever to flying the obsolete British flag from the cupola of the Capitol of Colonial Virginia which has been reconstructed as a replica of the British Capitol of 1795. As the British flag of 1795 was flown from the cupola of the original building, it is, in our judgment entirely fitting that it should be restored."

Reel Life Not Real

Thanks to the screen, most of us think of bananas as the most popular of the drowsy tropics. A recent picture depicted the hero lounging around the tropics and reaching up to pluck mellow, ripe fruit from the trees. To real life and in the real tropics bananas don't ripen evenly on the plant. They have to be cut green and left to ripen in the shade. If they ripen on the plant the pulp splits and the pulp sours. Indeed, the banana is one of the most delicate and scrupulously cultivated crops on earth, writes Charles Morrow Wilson in the Scientific American.

And to the normal hardships of flood, drought and hurricane there has been added of late a further and more terrifying threat to this $300,000,000 a year industry, the sinister disease known as sigatoka.

Defective Vision

Defective eyesight heads the list of nine physical shortcomings which cause rejection of 70 per cent of men of military age for active service in the Canadian overseas forces, reports the Better Vision Institute. A substantial number of recruits, rumored to be about one out of every 30, are being rejected for color blindness. Although many men with varying degrees of color blindness can get by with traffic lights and carry on ordinary civilian activities without being handicapped, the mistaking by a lookout of a barrage flare for one which warns against a gas attack might have disastrous effect upon a whole corps of troops.

MOVIES OF MEXICO
ADVENTURE SERIES

"Mexico, Tourists' Paradise," a natural color motion picture tour, to be presented Tuesday evening, February 4, at 8:30, by the celebrated world traveler, Van Wormer Walsh, is the first of a series of five weekly motion picture vacation trips being offered by the World Adventure Series, the public lecture course at the Detroit Institute of Arts, Woodward at Kirby.

"Vacations are such an important period in one's life that we feel they shouldn't be planned haphazardly," said George P. Pierrot, Director of the World Adventure Series, in commenting on the new series of motion picture vacation tours. "Therefore, we are bringing to Detroit the foremost traveler-lecturers, men who are right at home in the territory about which they are speaking. These men are famous not only for their highly entertaining shows, but also for the authentic, worthwhile information they include in their commentary that accompanies the motion pictures."

"This series should be most attractive not only to people who are planning vacations, and to people who have already visited the places pictured, but also to the thousands who must make their vacation trip through the vicarious means of motion pictures."

The complete Vacation Series follows: Tues., Feb. 4, 8:30, Van Wormer Walsh, "Mexico, Tourists' Paradise"; Tues., Feb. 11, 8:30, Karl Robinson, "Alaska and the Pacific Northwest"; Tues., Feb. 18, 8:30, Branson De Cou, "Flaming Canyons of the Southwest"; Tues., Feb. 25, 8:30, Branson De Cou, "Touring California"; Tues., Mar. 4, 8:30, Burton Holmes, "Touring Ten South American Republics."

Reservations are now being accepted by the World Adventure Series either for single attractions or for the entire series, tickets being sold at a reduction.

Sharptailed Grouse
Released at Higgins Lake

More than 50 sharptailed grouse, the "round up" game bird of northern Michigan, in the opinion of many hunters, have been released this winter near Fletcher settlement in Higgins Lake state forest, southeastern Kalamazoo county, the conservation department's game division disclosed this week.

This is the third year's planting in the Fletcher area, where game men have found evidence the birds are establishing themselves. Second year's planting is to begin soon on the Molasses river area in Gladwin county, the most southerly Michigan region into which sharptails have been introduced. Stock for these plantings is live trapped in western upper Michigan, where sharptails first spread into the state from Wisconsin 20 years ago. For some other plantings, stock is imported.

Plans have been completed for the purchase and release of Wisconsin birds in other areas but no shipments have been received so far this year.

WARM WEATHER HELPS DEER
Both the deer herd and the forage supplies of the deer yards in the big Cusio state game area are benefiting from the comparative mildness of mid-January weather. A. M. Stebbins, Cusio wildlife experiment station manager, reports.

After being confined to the yarding areas by the heavy snows of early winter, the deer scattered again in the latter part of December, he says, explaining that the temporary dispersal makes more food available to the herd now, and relieves feeding pressure in the yards.
