Cranbrook School to Offer Scholarships

Cranbrook School of Bloomfield Hills, Michigan, announces its sixth annual competition for the selection of several outstanding boys to receive scholarships at the school for the 1941-1942 term. The competition is limited to boys who will be ready to enter the 9th, 10th or 11th grades in September 1941, although Cranbrook offers instruction from the 7th through the 12th grades as well as a year of post-graduate training.

The scholarship examinations will be ready to enter the 9th, 10th, April, but all boys who wish to compete must file their applications before Friday April 4th. Candidates may take the examinations in their home cities under the supervision of examiners approved by the school. In addition to the results of the tests, the committee awarding the scholarships will consider each candidate's previous school record, character, leadership, special cultural abilities, health and athletic ability. After the winners have been selected, the amount of the scholarship to be granted to each boy is fixed to the mutual satisfaction of the boy's parents and the school.

No boy will be granted more than $1,000.00 for the school year, the average grant being about one-half the school's annual fee.

Cranbrook School is a college preparatory school whose graduates have entered more than sixty colleges and universities throughout the United States. The school is located in Bloomfield Hills, a residential suburb of Detroit.

HIGHWAY DEPT'S 15TH BIENNIAL REPORT SUBMITTED

The eighteenth biennial report of the Michigan state highway department, covering the fiscal years ending June 30, 1939 and June 30, 1940, was submitted to Governor Frank Murphy this week by G. Donald Kennedy, state highway commissioner.

The story of the highway department during this two-year period, according to the report, was one of retrenchment in new construction, decreasing maintained costs, sharp decreases in Federal assistance, and increases in amounts returned to local road units.

The report reveals that Michigan highway travel, which was found to amount to nearly 10 billion vehicle miles in 1930, reached approximately 14 billion vehicle miles in 1940, or an overall increase of about 36 per cent in 10 years. It was stated that, generally speaking, the traffic growth was uniform on all parts of the state's system of roads and streets.

Containing 256 pages, the report gives a complete picture of Michigan's highway plan. In addition to a summary of the eighteenth biennial, there are chapters devoted to highway and bridge construction, maintenance of highway facilities, highway finance, traffic control and protection, highway research and planning, and administration.

In addition, there are complete statements of receipts, disbursements, road mileage and payrolls representing the statistical record of the department's operations during the biennium.

The report shows that during the seven years ending June 30, 1940, a little more than $105,000,000 had been encumbered by construction contracts or expended through the State Highway Administration in carrying out this program. The projects involved 3,879 miles of highway, 172 highway bridges, and 76 grade separations as well as other auxiliary construction such as truck improvements at the Straits of Mackinac.

He that can have patience, can have what he will.—Franklin.

Michigan needs no "Peter Piper" when it comes to packing pickles, for the state grows and processes nearly one-third of the cucumbers eaten in the United States.

But to keep growers and processors informed, another of the annual technical schools for pickle and kraut packers is scheduled at Michigan State College to run February 13, 19 and 20.

Greater interest than usual is anticipated, says H. L. Spaton, member of the college horticultural department who arranged the program. Reason is that the pickle crop was likely in 1940, so a more sizeable crop is desired for 1941. A year ago the school attracted 150 from 18 states and Canada.

Bacteriology, entomology and climate are on the first day's program. Soil tests, salting methods, and a tour of the campus also are scheduled on the first day, with an evening meeting offering motion pictures on "The Romance of Spices."

Wednesday's subjects include more technical details, such as processing methods, studies of acids and sugars and spices. A banquet program is offered the visitors in the evening.

Additional kraut and pickle packing problems are up for comment and discussion on the third day. Twelve guest speakers appear in the three-day event, members of the college staff who appear on the program number 11 and are from departments of bacteriology, horticulture, entomology, soils and chemistry.

Motion made by Hamlin and supported by Otis to adjourn. Carried. All yeas.

Wildlife weather crisis as recorded near Houghton lake by area manager George Egbert: Wednesday, blustery with temperature about freezing. By Thursday night the temperature was down 60 degrees to 27 below zero. Friday, mild with a light drizzle, followed by a night of 10 below.

For better fire protection of an area remote from any town or conservation station, CCC crews are constructing a shed for storage of forest fire fighting equipment in the Escanaba River tract, 25 miles north of Ralph, in the upper peninsula.
