Tomorrow is Another Day

If ever you are sad and blue
Because everything troubles you,
Don't be mad, but say, "Tomorrow is another day."
If you are tired all day long,
Don't cry; just sing a song.
Your troubles will leave, for they never stay.
When "tomorrow is another day,"
—Naomi Rose, freshman

Garden Club Stimulates Interest in Gardens

The Women's Garden Club of Farmington gave seeds to all grade school children who were interested in having their own gardens. Many took the seeds and report their gardens are doing fine.

Mrs. Bickling, on April 21, came to the gymnasium to show the students the kind of soil to use in having good gardens, the special care to be given to certain plants, and many other interesting points. While there, she planted a flat of peppers and flat of cabbage. The cabbage went to the third grade room and they say it is up 1 1/2 inches. She gave the peppers to the sixth grade, and they are doing fine, too.

Make-up Artist Shows Assembly How It's Done

Of special interest to the students of P.H.S. at an assembly was Belharz Entertainer, a make-up artist. The program took place in the gym at 2 p. m. on Thursday, April 21.

Mr. Noah Belharz for the last 20 years has been an entertainer on the American stage as a character impersonator, reader and actor. He is famous for wonderful control of his facial expressions. Mr. Belharz' make-up changes are made in full view of the audience. A few of his outstanding numbers are: "The Hooster Schoolmaster," "Mr. Antonio" and "Speakin' Pieces."

GUESSWORK

NO—Guesswork doesn't pay when it comes to raising your chicks. Good poultrymen know they have to obtain their chicks from a high production strain. Give them the best of care and feed a quality feed.

There's no guesswork in Kellogg's Hevite or Kellogg's Attaboy Starter-Growers—only quality ingredients are used in the production of these complete feeds. Ingredients that mean healthy growth, strong sturdy frames and early egg production in your flock.

Shorthand I Course Planned For Future

Tuesday an aptitude test was given by Mr. Rohrer, teacher of commercial subjects, to pupils planning to take shorthand I next year.

Twenty-five students, the majority of whom were sophomores, met in Mr. Rohrer's room for the test.

The test will help the student in deciding if this is the type of work best suited for him.

FHS Takes Three Places In Forensic Contest

Wednesday, April 16, the oratorical contest was held at Fenton. Five schools were represented. They were: Howell, Fenton, Milford, Holly and Farmington.

Out of five contestants in the Extension group, Gordon Nelson, a senior at Farmington, took first place.

Charlotte King, a junior, placed second in the Oratory division, in which there were six contestants. In the Declamatory division, there were also six contestants. Bernice Lundberg, sophomore, was named second place.

Mr. Roy Hamilton, superintendent of the Swartz Creek High School, was the critic judge.

The contestants from our school were accompanied by Miss Steele, coach.

Band Concert Attracts Appreciative Audience

Almost seventy-five people attended the band concert given Thursday night, April 17, in the school auditorium. The audience, although small, was an extremely appreciative one, realizing that in this beginning band was excellent material for the advanced band. Thirty-one students took part. Most of these students started their study of music only last fall. Four members were absent because of illness.

Popular selections were enjoyed throughout the evening, and those favorites are as follows:

"Silver Shades," Chennette Waltz—"Merry Widow Waltz," Lehara "All Through the Night," Boulton March—"The Yankee March," Chennette "Lovely Evening," D. Von Suppe Taps.

The concert was directed by E. V. Ayres, principal and band instructor.

Mrs. Albert Beals Speaks to Home Ec Class

Approximately fifty girls were guests of the Home Economics club Thursday afternoon when Mrs. Albert Beals, president of the P.T.A., spoke to the club on Japan.

Mrs. Beals' informal talk centered about her trip to Japan, taken last summer. She discussed their food, living conditions, manners and dress.

She illustrated her comments with souvenirs such as menu folders, pictures of houses, dainty tea cups, a rice bowl, chop sticks, children's story books, fans, and a girl's kimono and shoes, which were modeled by Laura Lahne, chairman of the program.

While the Home Economics girls and visitors, Miss Biddle's and Miss Damon's Guidance classes, made a more careful inspection of the dress and other Japanese treasures, tea and cookies were served buffet style.

ROLLCALL NOW ON SALE

The last half of the "Rollcall" was sent to press April 15. It will be ready for distribution about the middle of May.

You had better hurry if you intend to buy one this year. There is a limited number.

All staff members are taking orders now.

SEVENTH GRADER WINS CHAMPIONSHIP

Junior high girls take the lead in spelling bee for school championship.

April 4, the last ten standing in the grade contest from the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades competed with each other to determine the best speller in the school.

Marjorie Schroeder, a seventh grader, won the championship on a word "interested." Sally Gildemaster was runner-up.

In case that Marjorie is sick or unable to attend the District bee, which is to be held April 25, Sally will take her place.

Better Attendance at Baseball Games Sought

At the meeting of the Student Council Tuesday special attention was given to the opening baseball game of the season, which was played Wednesday, April 23 between Redford Union and Farmington.

Suggestions were made for increasing attendance at the games. It was decided that the prices be cut and that advertisement be extensive.

Prepare to Elect Student Council Head

The end of the school year is approaching, and this means that there soon will be the election of next year's Student Council president. The council has been making preparations for this coming election, and has decided to back one of its junior members for this position. The candidate will be announced later.

The petitions that will be circulated must have at least 50 names and be signed by the voters. Only one petition is eligible for the office. As soon as plans are completed, the date of the election will be set.

Girls Get Ready For Softball Season

Softball dominates girls' sports as the spring season opens. The teams are as follows: Team I—S. Lake (capt.), E. Schram, S. Fredericks, E. Tallman, E. Stevenson, S. Koss, E. Markham, R. Wilson, I. Grant, D. Worchowski, and E. Baldwin.

Uniforms Passed Out To Baseball Players

Baseball team uniforms will be under way. The uniforms were passed out to members April 17.

There are not many old members back for this year's team; nevertheless Coach Hutson predicts a good season because of the material which has come from other schools.

The old members are Arnold Werschlin (pitcher), Charles Sullivan (short stop), and Art McCulloch (pitcher).

Softball Squad Holds First Practice Tuesday

The junior high softball season started off with a bang Tuesday night with about 20 boys reporting for practice. The first game will be played against Southfield school Monday, April 28. So far there have been four games scheduled, 2 with Southfield and 2 with Bond.

Renny Bacon and Bud Locker will compete for the junior high championship in the final round of the pin-point tournament. When this tourney is finished a softball league with fourth, fifth and sixth grade teams playing during the noon hour will be started.

Girls Learn Mechanics, Boys Study Cooking

The advanced Shop boys and the advanced Home Economics erup have exchanged classes; the boys are in Home Economics and the girls are taking Shop.

The girls are taking a general Home Mechanics course, which will take two weeks. During this time they will learn to use common tools and the use of electricity as applied to the home.

The electrical division of the girls' shop training will include the theory of heating by electricity, fuses, wiring of lamps and flatirons.

One group is now engaged in making tin can projects, waste paper, baskets, magazine racks, lawn ornaments, and lamps. The ability to distinguish between the many kinds of wood will also be taught.

Writers' Club Members "Go in to Town"

The Writers' Club was not satisfied with selling their book to their schoolmates only. They have placed posters in all the schools in the neighborhood, have sent letters to the principals of these schools and to the parents whose children have contributed to the contents of the book.

Grade News

Kindergarten

Spring makes the little folks very energetic. They love to play on the merry-go-round and the swings, which seem quite new to them.

On May 9, they are giving a Mothers' Day Tea. The program is being in progress and presents are being made.

Edna Saylor, who came from Kentucky, is now enrolled in kindergarten.

Third Grade

It seems almost too good to be true, but the children are bringing tulips, hyacinths and forgets from their mother's gardens.

Thursday brought two visitors to the third grade room, Molly Taylor and Joe Doole, both from Detroit. Ten books were to be read and reported on before the end of the year. Some who were really ambitious and read more are: Anna Marie Rush, 26; Ann Plumton, 21; Ruth Hamlin, 15; Signe Lindahl, 14; James Whitman, 17; Joan Pagel 14.

Fourth Grade

The class is concluding their study of Holland and is ready to start a unit on "King of Fruits—Apple."

"Animals Through the Year," by Buck, is another new addition to the library.

Twenty books are to be read and reported on by the fourth graders. The following have read twenty or more: Edward Brad, 20; Anna Ferrante, 21; Margaret Mias, 22; Dick Martindale, 20; Marial Meats, 26; Peggy Blaber, 33.

Tony and Geneva Saylor of Kentucky are new members in the class.

Fifth Grade

Hannah Levin of Detroit visited Thursday.

Mrs. Keyes is reading the class "The Rover Boys at School," by Winfield.

The following have read and reported on 20 books or more: Janet Pagel, Peggie Labadie, Marjorie Hunt and Marilyn Vivier.

Donald Norton, who went to Florida, recently moved back to Farmington. He told his class in a very informal talk all about his trip.

AN EGG A DAY CALLED WISE HEALTH DIET

When the latest tally was taken the average American was eating 231 eggs in a year's time, just 74 eggs short of a recommended diet. In a recent compilation of egg facts by J. M. Moore, member of the poultry department at Michigan State College, he pointed out the value of eggs in their content of vitamins and minerals. Doctors, dentists and nutrition specialists have agreed that an egg a day is wise health protection.

Michigan is not too far behind in the race for health, according to Moore. Within the state there are more eggs consumed than are produced.

battery business of supplying young chicks, the eggs and poultry for meat have an annual value within the state of more than 28 millions of dollars.

Poultry can be found on 147,000 farms in the state. Some flocks are small, but the average flock is of sufficient size to put 10 cents into every farm income dollar.

Within the city of Detroit the consumption of eggs reaches annually a total of $12,500,000 eggs, according to a recent estimate. That, says Moore, is enough to fill 3,600 freight cars.
