

Lawrence Tech's Yankee Doodle is representing Michigan in the National Gliding Meet at Elmira, New York, which concludes July 15.

This is the sailplane which caused a furor at the Detroit City Airport recently when it landed safely after dodging among power airplanes. It is similar to those used by Germany for the invasion of Crete.

The ship is being flown by Bill Putnam (in cockpit) and by Earl Chapman, Lawrence Tech aeronautics professor who is standing along side of it.

Lawrence Tech students, who hold the National Intercollegiate Gliding Championship, completely designed and constructed the sailplane in the Lawrence Tech laboratories.

CALL FOR NUDIST COLONY HAD IT ALMOST RIGHT

It was not a misnomer, after all, when one of the long distance telephone operators at Duluth recently received a call for a "nudist colony" at Grand Marais, Minn. The operator wondered if the calling party was joking, but she accepted and passed the call in the usual manner. The call went through without delay, but it turned out that the calling party wanted "Bear Skin Lodge," which is on a rural trip out of the Grand Marais, exchange.

Poor Lumber Handling

Negates Treatment Benefit

Poor and lax methods of handling the treatment of cut lumber to prevent wood-staining during curing is held responsible for the appearance of discolorations in treated green lumber, according to A. F. Verrall, of the United States department of agriculture, as a result of studies conducted in co-operation with the Southern Forest experiment station.

During the last 10 years, Verrall states, the use of effective chemical treatments to protect lumber from fungus stains during the air seasoning period has become general, particularly in the southern states. Occasionally, however, mills report severe staining of treated lumber.

For the most part, these failures are due to poor handling practices and not to the failure of the treatments. Too long storage of logs, allowing for infection of pine logs particularly with fungi carried by the Ips beetles, and infection of hardwoods at the ends with fungi carried by ambrosia beetles, and too long an interval between the milling operation and the chemical treatment appear to be practiced.

Protracted periods of weather unfavorable for drying, Verrall continues, may cause general failure of chemical treatments, but this cause appears to be a less frequent one than poor handling practices.

Invalid Writes Letters To Bereaved Families

Most everybody called her "Cousin Martha," and she liked it. A New England woman with a trained mind and an intellectual face, she was invalided when only a little past middle life. Thus it came about that she spent her days as well as nights abed, scarcely able to move her body. Happily, her eyesight was unimpaired, and her patriotic hands were scarcely ever idle.

During her waking hours "Cousin Martha" was usually reading or writing. She began to write letters shortly after reading the daily paper, which she spread out on the bed and consulted often. For a long time no one knew what it was that kept "Cousin Martha" busy writing innumerable letters, though there was much speculation. But one day the secret came out.

Every day that saintly shut-in read the obituary notices in the paper and straightway set about to write a note of sympathy to the bereft family. "It is all that I can do," she explained, when her secret was known, "and little enough at that. But it may help somebody in time of loss and sorrow."

Imagine the effect of such a letter, beautifully written, reflecting a sturdy religious faith, coming into a home from which a loved member of the family had gone out.

Writing Dogs Properly

It is pretty safe to say that the many thousands of puppies that die or develop rickets or malformed limbs before they are three months old would have grown into healthy dogs had they been properly weaned. No set time can be given as to when to wean puppies. This depends entirely upon the condition of the puppy to be weaned, but it is usually considered sometime between the ninth and the twelfth week.

Many people consider it is all right to abruptly change from a milk diet to a diet composed entirely of solids. This is incorrect and the stomach rebels. The best way is to make the weaning a gradual process, when the puppies are three to five weeks old. This gradual supplement should be done with any one of the nutritious and palatable milk foods on the market. Then gradually add more and more until at the complete weaning the puppy's stomach will be adjusted to receiving a more solid food.

For Health and Fun—Swim!

This picture might have been taken at any one of a hundred attractive Michigan resorts. North or South, East or West, you'll find a welcome everywhere in Michigan.

Every boy and girl in Michigan should learn to swim. With thousands of lakes and hundreds of miles of sandy beaches, Michigan offers a matchless opportunity to swim and grow strong.

When you start on your vacation this summer, take along the bathing suits. Almost anywhere you go in Michigan there'll be a chance to swim in clear, cool water, and tan in the friendly sun.

You may have acquaintances near the place where you're going. They'll be glad to hear your voice on the telephone. You can call up, as so many people do, to find out the water temperature at the beach. And even when you're hundreds of miles away, you can keep in touch with home. It's only minutes away by telephone.

State Parks along the shores of the Great Lakes offer the bather smooth, firm beaches, many of them patrolled by life-guards.
