

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of my loving husband, Joe Graham, who passed away one year ago, July 13, 1940. The evening star shines on the grave. Of one we loved but could not save; He bade no one a last farewell. He said goodbye to none. His kindly heart has ceased to beat. His stay on earth was done. The flowers placed upon his grave, May wither and decay. But our love for you who sleeps beneath, Will never fade away. God grant your soul eternal rest. And peace to all who loved you best.

Loving wife, Maurice and Mildred.

Another Theory Doubted

By Science After Years

Does the ether of space, that odd medium in which the earth and everything on it were once supposed to exist? A century ago, the theory of an ether school books described this mysterious medium in such definite terms that many who are now middle-aged, but who have not kept close track of science since leaving school still believe in the ether as faithfully as they believe in the existence of their noses. Today, however, science suspects that the earlier school books were a bit too certain about the ether, says the Scientific American, for there never has been any really watertight, final, experimental evidence for its existence. It can be attributed to the fact that it sounded substantial and taught it to the youth—those middle-aged men of today. Thus it came to have almost the same standing as if they had actually seen something, weighed it, felt it, tasted it, smelled it, or heard it.

He Hears It Now

City Councilman Leroy H. Haskett of Edenton, N. C., complained at a council meeting that the low rumbling siren, situated on the waterfront, couldn't be heard by the residents of North Edenton, where he lives. A committee was appointed to look into the matter.

It was much merit to Haskett's complaint. The council then decided to have the siren removed and put atop a new water tank directly behind Haskett's home. Haskett is uncertain about his satisfaction.

OAKLAND COUNTY FARMERS BOOST CREDIT CO-OP

Farmers of Oakland County helped to swell the loan volume of the Pontiac Production Credit Association up to July 1 this year to the largest 6-months' figure—$244,760.00 in this credit co-op's history, according to Fred J. Beckman, Secretary-Treasurer.

A large share of the $244,760.00 loaned during the first 6 months of this year, he said, went to finance seasonal operations of Oakland County farmers.

Some of the increase, the secretary said, can be attributed to farmers purchasing labor saving machinery because of the shortage of farm help.

Reports from all over the nation the Production Credit official said, indicate that some time during July some farmer or stockman somewhere in the United States will receive the two billion dollar to be loaned by a Production Credit Association.

Since the Pontiac Association was organized by farmers in the spring of 1934 it has loaned $2,172,133.00 to finance general farming and livestock operations in Oakland, Livingston and Macomb Counties.

Bobby—A He-Man

By ALICE DUANE
(McClure Syndicate—WNU Service.)

IT WAS an exciting day for Bobby Boynton when his father came home. Bobby was standing in the middle of the roadway in front of Grandmother's house, lifting with the sturdy strength of an eight-year-old the front body of a little yellow car and swinging her high over her head while she shrieked with delighted yells: "A breath-taking man in a khaki uniform with a shiny wide brown belt and hat with a shining visor and something silver on the front swooped him up in strong arms and called loudly: 'Louise! Louise!'"

Then Mother came running out with a funny crying sound, and Bobby jumped up and down, yelling, "My Father's a captain in the army. He's just come home."

After that they went to the Fort to live. Mary Lou, who was a sort of second cousin of Bobby's and whose Daddy was only a lieutenant, went there to live, too. One night, when he was lying awake, Bobby heard his Father mentioning his name to his Mother.

"It's a shame, Louise," Father was saying, "the way you've been bringing that boy up to be such a daisy. Why, he doesn't know how to swim, or play football, or anything a boy his age should be able to do. He just plays hour after rates with a three-year-old baby—and a girl, at that!"

Mother's voice was low, and Bobby couldn't hear her answer, but Father said, "Well, I'll take hold of him and teach him to be a regular he-man."

It was the next Saturday that Bobby's father took him to the riding hall and began to give him lessons in horsemanship riding. Bobby went without question or comment, but he understood that this was the beginning of his training to become a "regular he-man." He watched wistfully for every sign of approval from his father.
