AT THE REDFORD THEATER

Crammed with audience entertainment values, Universal's new service comedy, "But Abbott, Lou Costello and Dick Powell in 'In the Navy,' which opens Friday for a four day run at the Redford Theater, will probably go down in cinematic history as one of the laugh hits of this generation. Highlighted by brilliant performances and adorned with new songs, the offering promises to surpass in box office returns even the record-breaking figures piled up by "Buck Privates."

Heading the big cast playing in support of the three stars are the Andrews Sisters, Betty, Maxine and LeVern; Claire Dodd, Dick Foran, Butch and Buddy and Shemp Howard. Deserving special mention are those sensational exponents of the dance, the celebrated Condos Brothers.

Universal has spent with lavish hand in providing the picture with a mounting in keeping with its expensive player roster. Other exceptional elements are likewise merged to put this one at the top of the "must see" list of films. Several new numbers written by long ago "Oceana Rohn" are sung by Dick Powell, the Andrews

Gene de Paul and Don Ray, as well as a favorite tune out of the Andrews Sisters and Buddy, Dick Foran and Abbott and Costello and huge choral ensembles. Two of the major musical moments are backgrounded against the Andrews' rendition of "Gimme Some Skin" and "Hula-Ba-Laua," both of which follow the currently popular boogie-woogie trend.

In the "Hula-Ba-Laua" sequence, the singing comedienne are surrounded by forty gorgeously costumed hula dancers and fifty Hawaiian singers and musicians.

Arthur Lubin has directed the vehicle with a clever hand, maintaining his plot action at fast pace in spite of plentiful injections of song-and-dance routines. Powell portrays a radio crooner. Worthy of the adulation of the nation's femininity, he disappears from his New York haunts and secretly enlists in the Navy. Arriving in San Diego to enter the Naval Training Station, his trail is picked up by Miss Dodd, newspaper camerawoman. She starts a game of tag with him that eventually leads to Honolulu. Abbot and Costello portray gobs who are in love with the Andrews Sisters and constantly in trouble.

Scouts Planning For New Season

Fall and winter plans for Cubbing, Boy Scouts, and Sea Scouts for Farmington and the Southern part of Oakland County are fast taking shape reports Neighborhood Scout Commissioner John W. Hunt of Oakland Road, Farmington.

During the summer months, Mr. Hunt has attended Clinton Valley Council commissioners' meetings which were attended by officials from the regional office of Chicago. More leaders, additional equipment and greater efficiency throughout the organization was constantly stressed at these meetings in order that the scout organization as a whole will be able to carry out its part of the tremendous defense efforts.

Scout Commissioner John Hunt reports that already enthusiasm has started in the Southern District for scouting and has received an offer from Mr. C. Howard Riemer of Walnut Lake to present to the five boys receiving the highest number of points during September, October and November an achievement medal to each boy. The point system will include points for attendance, advancement etc. and is open to all Boy Scouts in the Southern District. This is the second presentation Mr. Riemer has made to the Southern District, having donated a splendid Troop Trophy Cup with a Scout statuette mounted on the cover to be awarded each month for troop advancement in the district. It is the finest Troop trophy offered for advancement of any district in the Clinton Valley Council. Plans are being made for a District Committee meeting to be held in Farmington in September when the new Field Executive of the Clinton Valley Council will be introduced.
