

"Industrial Medicine" Course Is Announced

"Industrial Medicine and Surgery," a weekly course to help practicing physicians meet the responsibilities which increased industrial activity has brought to the Detroit area, will begin in the Wayne County Medical Society Building, 4121 Woodward, at 10:30 a. m., October 2, as one of the 31 courses to be available this year through the continuation School of Wayne County.

The work will consist of ten weekly lecture-demonstrations by Detroit's outstanding authorities in the field. Enrollment will be unlimited. The other courses, all weekly, vary in starting date, in place of meeting, in accommodations for enrollment, and in length.

The Continuation School is sponsored by the Wayne County Medical Society, the Wayne University College of Medicine, the hospital of Wayne County, and the Detroit Department of Health to furnish post-graduate study opportunities. Dean W. J. Stimpert of the College, and its chairman, chairman and registrar of the School.

A course in "Applied Anatomy" consisting in lectures and laboratory work will meet at the College with Wayne faculty members in charge. Other members of the College faculty will co-operate in teaching the 29 courses offered at the University.

The hospital work will include bedside examination as well as lectures and class demonstrations. Some courses will meet at the William J. Seymour Hospital, in Elmhurst, seven at Grace Hospital, six at Receiving, four at Harper, and one each at Henry Ford, Highland Park General, and Mt. Carmel Mercy.

FARMINGTON MAY HAVE RED CROSS WORK UNIT

Under the direction of Mrs. F. Lenz, arrangements are being made to organize a Red Cross work unit in Farmington. Opening on October the twelfth, it will meet in the City Hall on Wednesday and Thursday of each week. Later in the month the meetings may be increased. The unit will do sewing for hospitals; refugees, and soldiers in our army, making dresses, overalls, layettes, pajamas, etc. Soldiers' kits, containing needles, thread, writing paper, pen, hankies, chiefs, and other conveniences will be made up by donations.

Sewing machines are needed for use in the workroom, and a typewriter.

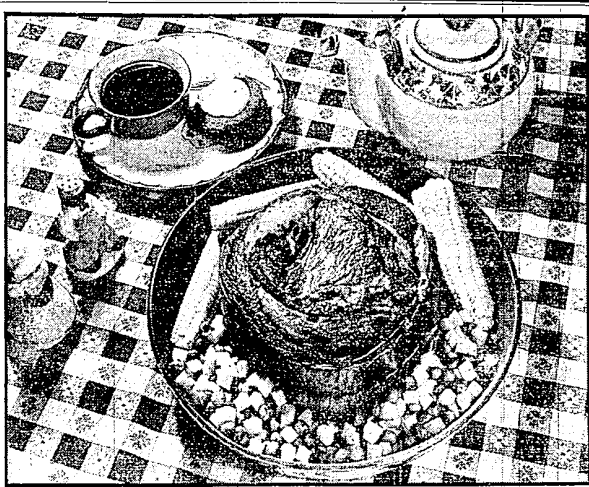

Anyone who has these articles to lend may get in touch with Mrs. Lenz by calling 23. A volunteer to take charge of the completed garments would also be welcome.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lamb and daughter Marietta were Sunday guests of Mr. Lamb's sister, Mrs. Lily Angell and family of Northville.

Paul Schreiber attended a meeting of Phi Delta Kappa, educational fraternity, at Grosse Pointe Wednesday afternoon. A dinner was held in connection with the meeting and the principal speaker was the state head of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Items of Interest to WOMEN

BAPTIST LADIES TO MAKE QUILT FOR CHURCH HOME

At the last meeting of the Women's Union it was decided by the members to make a quilt for the Baptist Children's Home. The ladies will also give home-canned vegetables and fruits.

The Detroit Baptist Association held its annual meeting at the First Church in Dearborn on Thursday, October second. There were morning, afternoon, and evening sessions, the Women's Union meeting being held in the afternoon. Several members of the Farmington Baptist Church attended.

On Friday, October the third, a party for young people will be held at the church. The entertainment is being given in honor of John Bedson, who will be inducted into the army on October the fourth. Beginning at 7:30 p. m., there will be games and refreshments for all who care to attend.

EVANGELICAL CONFIRMATION IS OCTOBER 4

Confirmation Services will be held in the church on Saturday, October the fourth, at 9:30 a. m. It is expected that a large class of boys and girls will be present.

At the meeting of the Ladies' Aid last Wednesday, the members heard a talk on defense saving bonds and stamps, explaining their worth as an investment and as an aid to the country's National Defense program.

Each Thursday a sewing and quilting meeting is held at the church, for work on the various articles to be sold at the church bazaar. Ladies who come in the morning are requested to bring their lunch, and coffee will be provided.

Try Michigan's Apples For a Grand Fall Dish

Next time you're planning a dinner that will really bring forth compliments, serve baked ham with delicious Michigan apples. An easy dinner to prepare . . . and economical, as baked ham is always used right down to the last piece in grand "left over" recipes.

Baked Ham With Apples
Place ham, fat side up, on rack of roasting pan. Add 1 cup apple juice or cider. Bake 325 degrees for 20 minutes to the point. When cooking time is up remove from oven and carefully peel off the skin. Score fat with knife, marking into small squares. Dot with cloves. Make a syrup of 1 cup brown sugar and 1 cup apple juice or cider and pour over ham, return to oven and bake several times until ham is nicely glazed.

Apple Garnish
Take whole peeled and cored apples and cook in a syrup of 2 cups sugar to 2 cups water until apples seem transparent, but have not lost their shape. Remove with tongs with cranberry relish and place around the ham; or divide the syrup and color one-half green (using a vegetable color) and cook half the apples in this, then color the other half of the syrup red and cook remaining apples in this color. (Mint and cinnamon flavoring can be added if one desires.) Alternate the red and green apples around the ham.

Blind Trainer of 'Seeing Eye' Dog Is Real Adept

LOS ANGELES.—One of the most skilled trainers of "seeing-eye" dogs for the blind is Otis Gathright, who is blind himself.

Gathright uses a special technique and trains a dog in about four months. He has trained 10, and now is at work on Prince, a tawny German shepherd that he rescued from the pound as a pup.

"Prince first had to learn that I was blind," said the trainer. "I would step on him purposely and then have someone else avoid him as he lay down. Thus he soon caught on to my condition."

"I use a close chain, with which to teach Prince to stay on my left side. The I can carry my white cane in my right hand and hold the dog with my left."

Pride spurs the dog to learn his job. The dog learned that his work is to look after the blind master. Only about 1 in 50 German shepherds is fitted for the task, Gathright said.

GARDEN CLUB WILL BEGIN YEAR'S PROGRAM

On Tuesday, October the seventh, the first meeting of the Farmington branch of the Women's National Farm & Garden Association will be held in the Baptist Church community hall. Interest in the Garden Club has grown steadily during the last few years, until now, with membership limited to seventy-five, there is a considerable waiting list.

Hostesses on Tuesday afternoon will be Mrs. Dickie, Mrs. Dobany, Mrs. Durgan, Mrs. Edwards, and Mrs. Fournier.

The program will consist of a general discussion on the subject "Fall Coloring in the Garden," and the description by one or two members of the different triumphs and disappointments they experienced in the growing of their gardens this year.

The program for the November meeting has also been arranged, and will cover the subject of table and flower arrangements for Thanksgiving and Christmas.

WINDOW GARDEN IS INTERESTING WINTER HOBBY

An interesting hobby through the winter and early spring, and one which pays dividends in decorating the home, is a window garden. This can mean anything from a few flower pots to an elaborate stand, depending on how much time you want to spend on it.

There are a great many foliage and flowering plants which take kindly to indoor life, if treated properly; in the latter category are many varieties shunned by the amateur gardener, although they are just as easy to grow as the usual geranium or begonia. Chinese hibiscus, jasmine, freesia, heliotrope, fuchsia, and scarlet sage all have lovely flowers, and will bloom beautifully, provided they are never in a temperature below sixty degrees. Other hardier flowering plants, which can stand a temperature as low as fifty degrees are carnations, murguerites, single petunias, violets, and chrysanthemums. Many other annuals make good window plants as well as those mentioned. They can be sown now from seed or, if you want quicker results, can be transplanted from the outdoor garden just before frost. Plant them in the window boxes or pots, keep cool and shady for two weeks, and cut down the tops. They will grow quickly and bloom well. Water them thoroughly at the time of planting, and keep the plants moist as long as they are growing and flowering. When resting they do not need as much water.

The window garden should be placed in front of a window having southern, south-eastern, or eastern exposure, since plants, particularly those which flower need all the light they can get. A fairly uniform temperature should be maintained.

As grace is first from God, so it is continually from Him, as much as light is all day long from the sun, as well as at first dawn or at sunrise.—Jonathan Edwards.

Baking Bread Not A Lost Art

Baking bread or canning food for winter are not lost arts in Michigan, at least among the thousands of white the University's home economics extension work of Michigan State College.

More than 2,600 groups with nearly 30,000 rural women enrolled and an ultimate contact amount of more than 75,000 rural women indicate the extent to which the home economics information is being used in communities throughout the state. Dickinson county groups last year numbered 24 and held 291 meetings. Miss Edna V. Smith states home demonstration leader. These thirty Upper Peninsula women made 94 slip covers, refinished 117 pieces of furniture, made 95 rag rugs, knitted 263 articles, cured 15 chders, refashioned 23 spring cushions, put new upholstery on 64 pieces, as well as contributing to Red Cross and community welfare projects.

The women estimated savings of $536 in their projects. Radio may play lively tunes and the children work at their school home studies, but the typical rural Michigan housewife remains on the job," comments Miss Smith. "Even the men tend to hold in home carpentry to fix steps of build cupboards."

"Someone once pictured rural homes as places where the families sat around idle after the work was done and just listened to the silence. So-called city comforts are evident on many Michigan farms; family life is a happy one and hard work and ambition remain a rural characteristic on the majority of farms."

U. of M. Literary College Plans Centennial

First classes of the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor began 106 years ago September 25. While the University was actually established in 1837 and branches of the institution operated in several Michigan communities as early as 1838, the University proper in Ann Arbor did not offer instruction until 1841. On September 25, of that year, the University's first two professors opened their classes to a student body of seven.

These classes were the beginning of the present College of Literature, Science, and the Arts, the largest and largest of the University's 13 teaching units. This College now enrolls nearly 5,000 students each year, while the University as a whole has an annual enrollment of approximately 18,000. The Michigan College of Literature, Science, and the Arts has been a pioneer in the field of liberal arts education and since its earliest days has been one of the foremost institutions in the country. It took the lead in the founding of high schools, in collegiate courses in science, in the training of teachers, and in coeducation.

To review the achievements of the College during its first hundred years and to survey the problems and future of liberal arts education in the United States, a celebration of the Michigan centennial has been planned for Oct. 15. A full day's program will bring to Ann Arbor many alumni of the College and a number of outstanding American educators.

Golden Rule Circle To Meet at Buschings

There will be a meeting of the Golden Rule Circle of the Methodist Church at the home of Mrs. Busching on Thursday, October the ninth. Luncheon will be served at one o'clock.
