THIS WEEK IN DEFENSE

After a period marked by readjustments to guarantee the essentials of civilian life, the Office of Emergency Management has intensified its efforts to supply more of the vital industrial materials to defense.

The Supply Priorities and Allocations Board, taking a long-term view of the emergency, approved a 10,000,000-ton expansion in annual steel capacity even though the construction will require 1.3 percent of present steel production for the next two years.

Refrigerator Production Cut
To conserve steel, aluminum, brass, chromium, copper, nickel, iron, tin, zinc, malle, neoprene and rubber, the Priorities Division ordered domestic mechanical refrigerator production for August through December cut 3.2 percent below average monthly factory sales in the 12 months ended June 30, 1941.

1914 Planes in September
The latest progress in production was furnished in OPM's announcement that military aircraft manufacturers delivered in September 1,914 planes—an increase of 60 over August and of 454 over July.

On the recommendation of the Personnel Coordinator, the Priorities Division issued for October a new formula for a 10 percent overall cut in gasoline deliveries on the Atlantic Coast. For individual States the amount deliverable is expressed in various percentages of the May-July 1941 average; for individual accounts within each State the amount is expressed in percentages of October 1940 deliveries.

Main Street on Saturday Night
(Christian Science Monitor)
Main Street and Saturday night are still happily close to the heart of America. No longer does one see the rows of horses hitched to the mailings and posts; gasoline relieves Dobbin of the trek to town. But the tradition of Saturday night lives vigorously. There is trading in dog, eggs and butter are still a bartering commodity in thousands of smaller communities. Neighboring and visiting are high on the priority list of reasons for the weekend trip.

Oil For America
(Toula County News)
As an example of how American industry responds in an emergency, on its own initiative the Socoy-Vacuum Oil Company recently increased the use of tank cars and barges, in place of its tankers which were taken over by the government. While this involves higher costs, it helps relieve the oil situation in the East, as this company is now moving more than 15,000 additional barrels of oil a day, and expects to greatly increase that figure soon.

Looking Back Through The Enterprise Files
TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO (Friday, October 20, 1916)
Entertained By Mrs. Doyle
About 35 members and friends of the Unity club met with Mrs. Adelaide Green October 11, and were delightfully entertained by readings given in a most pleasing manner by Mrs. A. P. Doyle, of Chicago. Mrs. Doyle is a favorite with the ladies' societies of North Farmington, having entertained them on several occasions. Mrs. Nettie Hulet, of Detroit, was also present and added much to the entertainment by her pleasing rendering of several familiar songs.

Dillman, highway commissioner, ten feet are to be added on each side of Grand River to Brighton, and one ten foot strip from there to Howell.

Letters To The Editor
Dear Sir:
Having received the last two issues of the Farmington Enterprise, I wish to thank you very much for sending it to me. I enjoy reading the Enterprise, it gives me the chance to keep up with what is going on around home. Again I wish to thank you. Sincerely, Pvt. George D. Davis, Btry. "I" 9th C.A. (A.A.), Camp Davis, North Carolina.

Dear Sir:
We must first be made good before we can do good; we must first be made just, before our works can please God—where we are justified by faith in Christ, then come good works.—Lattimer.

Naval Recruiting
A state wide campaign is about to get under way in Michigan, for the voluntary enlistment of men for the Navy. This is the first organized campaign by any military arm of the government to fill its present day needs through voluntary channels. The Navy department, by following this democratic procedure, has led the way to more unified action. By this method the Navy department will be able to get the type of man desired. A man who voluntarily devotes his time and energy to his job. It is the democratic way of building a military force, a force built on sound morale and unity. Today the Navy is getting the right type of man, one who will help build the force we so urgently need. Under this system the Navy will get the quota it has outlined. It will get it through the voluntary enlistment of those men who want to join this branch of the service. The plan has been followed in other states and has been successful in every way. To those who think that conscription is the only answer to building a military force, the Navy has proof. This is the democratic way . . . the American way, and America will answer for.

Do You Know Your Library?

"Know Your Library, Week," which is being celebrated October 13-15, affords the people of Farmington with an excellent opportunity to get acquainted with their library. Our library is too apt to be taken for granted. Many say it is a grand thing to have in a community, but they do not avail themselves of its services. No great improvements can be made in our library as long as people stay away and remain ignorant of the opportunities available there. This is more than just another commemorative week, it is a reminder to all that your library is available every week for your greater interest and education. This is just a week in which you as an individual can get better acquainted with your library. But it is to be used the year around. Set this week aside to familiarize yourself with the adventure, education and enjoyment tied up in the material available from your library, and then make it a regular trip on your schedule. You will find that your interest will go a long way toward building a better community library.

What is a Stop Sign For?

Apparently that is an unanswered question to many people. They seem to know all about it when you ask them, but put them in a car and show them a stop sign and its no different than a blade of grass to them. Just drive down the back streets of Farmington or out on one of the nearby highways, you'll find a lot of people who think that stop signs are just for the other fellow. Maybe tomorrow you will pick up a paper and read where two fellows thought the same thing; result: 2 dead, 3 injured. Stop signs are more than attractive yellow posts that decorate a four corners. They are a warning to you that a dangerous intersection is ahead. It is not smart to tear right through them, because it may be pretty embarrassing in a hospital bed or before a judge. There is no time to stop either, as a long detour is mighty poor economy. If everyone would observe and follow the precautions placed on the road for the protection of the driver, you would not have to read of tragic deaths on our highways. Drivers must be reminded over and over again that these signs are for them. They are not there to trick people or to hold them up, they are there to aid him. Don't forget to stop at the stop sign—that is what it is there for. It is worth a life.
