GOVERNOR THROWS SWITCH

Gov. Murray D. Van Wagoner congratulates D. E. Karn, vice president and general manager of Consumers Power Company, after throwing a switch which gave the signal to put the company's new and biggest electric generating unit "on the line." Located in the Bryce E. Morrow Plant near Kalamazoo, the new unit has a capacity of 50,000 kilowatts—more than enough for a city of 100,000 persons. It feeds into the Consumers statewide transmission system.

Gov. Van Wagoner expressed satisfaction that there has been no lack of electric power for defense production in Michigan. Left to right in the picture are Col. Robert T. Phinney post commander, Fort Custer, Mr. Karn, Gov. Van Wagoner and Justin R. Whiting, president of Consumers.
