DOROTHY'S DIARY

MONDAY—Have George's boss and wife to dinner. Make hit by serving Tamale Pie, which reminds them of trip they made to Mexico.

Tamale Pie
Have 1 lb. beef, 1 lb. veal, 1 lb. pork, 1 lb. smoked ham, 1/2 cup milk, 1/2 cup oil, 1/2 cup butter, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 cup corn, 1/2 cup green pepper, 1/2 cup onion, 1/2 cup tomato, 1/2 cup chili powder, 1 No. 2 can corn, 1 small jar stuffed olives, 1/2 cup water. Four cups meat and 1 C hot water. Pour into baking dish, bake one and a half to two hours. Remove cover for last half hour.

TUESDAY—Spent from 10:30 a. m. to 12:00 noon in cellar, all because I read a magazine article saying cellar steps should be painted white for safety. Painted ours from top down, and found basement door locked when I reached the bottom. Sat on up-turned box by furnace, listening to telephone ring three times, and doorknob twice, until George came home and released me. G. very amused until he discovered I hadn't been able to get lunch ready.

WEDNESDAY—Worked at Red Cross rooms.
THURSDAY—George spends evening nailing wooden horsehoof given him as good luck emblem, over living room door. Falls off ladder three times while doing so, and just as task is completed, horsehoof falls off nail, striking him smartly on top of head. Decides to take a chance with luck he is having, and throws emblem into furnace.

"Color and Succession of Bloom in the Flower Garden," by Stuart Orloff and Harry Raymond. Offers a new language for growing your own vegetables, and fruits if possible are legion. Looking at it patriotically, there is first of all the fact that if enough people read their own foodstuffs sold for private consumption will be released for use by our armed forces, or to send abroad to our allies.

"Labor and material will be released, to be put to use in essential industries, and farmers can play land formerly coupled with plant defense crops, such as soy beans, peanuts, etc. There is at present an acute shortage of the latter crop, valuable for the oil it gives.

"Not Peace But the Sword," by Vincent Sheean. Background for war, vividly told by the author of "Personal History." Mr. Sheean has traveled widely in Europe, Asia, and the book contains many firsthand impressions of world figures.

"Lost Sunrise," by Kathleen Norris. A novel with two heroines, one of whom married for love, the other to save her sister from disgrace. Written in Mrs. Norris' best style.

Women's Groups To Hold Meetings At Same Time

The Golden Rule Circle and the Sunshine Harmony Circle of the Methodist Church voted last Thursday to discontinue their separate meetings, and hold only the monthly meeting of the main organization, the Women's Society of Christian Service. The decision was made in order to give the members more time to devote to Red Cross work.

No Material Available To New Organizations

So many organizations in the county have begun Red Cross work that the headquarters at Pontiac will be unable to supply material to any new groups in Farmington for two or three weeks. This will not effect work at the sewing rooms, or in the groups already organized.

Correction

The Farmington branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association at its annual meeting voted twenty-five dollars for the Red Cross War Relief drive, not twenty dollars, as stated in last week's Enterprise.

DEFENSE GARDEN
WILL SUPPLY
TABLE NEEDS

One of the chief studies of the Conservation department of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association is the defense garden, and it urges home owners to plan now for next spring.

The reasons for growing your own vegetables, and fruits if possible are legion. Looking at it patriotically, there is first of all the fact that if enough people read their own foodstuffs sold for private consumption will be released for use by our armed forces, or to send abroad to our allies.

"Labor and material will be released, to be put to use in essential industries, and farmers can play land formerly coupled with plant defense crops, such as soy beans, peanuts, etc. There is at present an acute shortage of the latter crop, valuable for the oil it gives.

From the purely selfish viewpoint, a defense garden will pay dividends to you and your family.

With food prices constantly rising, home grown vegetables through the summer, and home canned foods for the winter, will make quite a difference in your budget. The actual work of planning and caring for a garden is excellent for both health and morale. Members of the family may grumble at first, but it will do them good to get busy with the spade; there's nothing more health-giving and no better way to a good appetite than garden care.

Puddings

Appropriate for mid-winter menus these delicious puddings introduce a new solution for the dessert problem.

2/3 cup milk
1 2/3 cups flour
2 tsp. baking powder

RED CARDINAL
IS ONE OF OUR
LOVELIEST BIRDS

The loveliest of all the birds who winter in this part of the country is the brilliant plumage of the red cardinal, also called the Redbird or Virginia Nighthawk. He has a song as attractive as his plumage, and numbers of these birds were shipped in cages to Europe, before the law stepped in to protect them; only the male has this dangerous beauty, the female being a dull buff, with only a hint of red about the wings and tail.

During the years before their slaughter was forbidden, cardinals naturally grew very shy of human society, but recently they have grown more friendly. They are seen everywhere, and will come close to the house if you put out food for them.

Originally, natives of the southern states, cardinals are gradually spreading farther and farther north. At present this region is just about the limit of their northern range.

They prefer hedges or evergreens as locations for their nests, and usually raise two broods a year. The male is a good family man, and takes charge of the first brood while his mate is sitting on the second lot of eggs.

Hit Them Where It Hurts
.... BUY BONDS!

Make no mistake—this is a life or death struggle. Men are dying in your defense. Dying that America may be safe!

Give our fighting men the guns, the planes, the tanks they need! Bonds buy bombs. Every dime, every dollar you put into Defense Bonds and Stamps is a blow at the enemy. Hit them where it hurts—buy bonds! Bonds cost as little as $18.75 up—stamps as little as 10 cents up.
