Governor's Office

Japanese, German and Italian residents of Michigan who are not citizens of United States and are 14 or more years old must apply at their local postoffice between February 9 and 28 for Certificates of Identification, announced Governor Van Wagener.

They must bring their Alien Registration Receipt Card and 3 unmounted photos of themselves, having a light background, printed on thin paper, 2 inches square. Pictures must have been taken within 30 days of registration, must be taken front view and without a hat.
Applicants may bring a friend to help them fill out the application. The Governor said FBI agents will supervise the registration and ask "friendly" cooperation of citizens and aliens in carrying out the program.

Michigan residents moved their clocks ahead one hour Monday, after the State administrative Board decided last week that only construction would result if the State opposed the new Federal "war time." Byron Ballard, legal adviser to Governor Van Wagener, after a study of State and Federal statutes, reported that Michigan some years ago had been put in the Eastern Time Zone by the Federal Interstate Commerce Commission at the State's own request.

"No State action can stop the new time from governing railroads, telegraph offices, bus lines and Federal agencies in Michigan," explained Ballard.
"Michigan might hold to 'slow time' for State courts and offices, but that would mean two sets of time in the State and bring confusion. The Governor opposes this time change but there seems no alternative."

After hearing State electric power firms testify that the new "war time" will conserve power for war industries, the State Administrative Board decided that "superdaylight savings" time must be adopted by the State, in conformity with Federal legislation.

Many business places and school officials said they intended to change the hours of their working days, so that employees and school children would not be leaving home before daylight.

Putting FIRST things FIRST...
NORMALLY, Michigan Bell installs new equipment to care for a number of years of growth. The shortage of materials needed for war has changed that. Now, expansion must be planned to meet short-term requirements.
As an example, when installing telephone cable to serve an area of 80 square blocks, we ordinarily would plan ahead for a 10-year increase in the number of homes, and would use a cable containing 1800 pairs of wires. That would be long-run economy. But today, for such an area, the Company installs a smaller cable, containing perhaps 400 pairs of wires.
At a conservative estimate, the saving of copper in both exchange and toll cable effected by Michigan Bell's short-period engineering policy will amount to 1,500,000 pounds in 1942!
In spite of material shortages that make it increasingly difficult to satisfy all civilian requests as promptly as in the past, we are confidently determined that every war need will be met.
