more immediately useful enterprise to develop which will produce copper from mine waters.

Invitation To Produce

Mr. Henderson and Materials Director J. H. Landis told that mine operators will be paid premiums for all copper, lead, and zinc, in excess of quotas, produced from February 1 on. (Quotas are to be fixed near the greatest reasonable output at established market prices.) The Director of Industry Operations, raised a raffle to A-1 to rush materials for the Texas smelter that will take tin from Bolivian ores and from Far Eastern stocks received since the war started.

In further action on materials, WPB informed aluminum-working plants it is vital to war production, that they themselves sort the scrap of aluminum, which grinds lenses, were also put under allocation.

Further along in the industrial process, Industry Operations gave top ratings for repairs in mills which roll, draw or extrude copper, or copper-base alloys. WPB ordered plumbers and heating manufacturers to simplify iron, brass, and bronze valves to save metal. The sale of copper and copper products by mills, warehouses, and foundries was limited to ratings of A-10 or higher.

The Power of Regulation

WPB ordered nonwar processors to get ready immediately to sell their raw silk to the Defense Supplies Corporation (requisition is the alternative) and took control of all raw silk to see the war effort is in the best possible way. The civilian clothing trade was warned that WPB could allocate supplies if speculative inventories are built up and disturb fair distribution. Arrangements were made to furnish woolen manufacturers with rayon to educate them in blending the synthetic with wool.

Besides its activity in heavy industry, the Office of Price Administration slashed at prices of drugs and chemicals of concern to every household. With ceilings imposed late last week on aspirin and citric acid, OPA added maximum limits on salicylic acid and vitamin C. Mr. Henderson quoted top fair prices for nicotine sulphate, which kills vegetable-destroying insects. WPB contributed by conserving vitamin use, and freezing all supplies of agar.

OPA also put a ceiling on domestic oil storage tanks, and on cast iron soil pipe, which is needed for defense housing and factory construction. Asphalt and asphalt products were brought under the petroleum roof, at higher prices than the voluntary agreements had permitted; all types of rayon grey goods not already covered were brought in; "dollars per dozen" maximum prices were set for Nylon stockings.

Other OPA actions and interpretations affected iron and steel scrap, mercury, lead, petroleum products, poplin, waste, comb cotton yarns, cocoa, coffee, pepper, tires, and Douglas fir plywood.

Flint: "This is no time for petty politics. America is on fire. It is our duty to put out the fire."

Saturday Arthur Vandenberg: "The Illegitimate Normandy was not sunk by an enemy at sea. It was sunk by an enemy at home—which is definitely more ominous—and that 'enemy' was either sabotage or negligence."

Foremost in the Republican limelight is Secretary of State Harry F. Kelly. Kelly was not caught in the draft in the World War, but he may be in this one. The "Draft Kelly for Governor" campaign, launched several months ago, is gathering momentum.

Kelly is from Detroit where much of the Van Wagoner political strength has centered. He was wounded while fighting in France. As secretary of state he has talked comparatively little; like Coolidge he has built a reputation of being a man of strength as well as a man of action.

Many Republican strategists in the winter hot-stove league believe Kelly is a logical choice to head the 1942 ticket.

Kelly's pronouncements, made in a recent series of public addresses, include these remarks: "We stand behind the administration 100 per cent in the prosecution of the war but we also support the party whose principles we hold sacred."

"This is a time of trial and sacrifice for America, and as in every such crisis, we turn to Lincoln, the man of the common people, for help and guidance."

Americans have always been opposed to dictatorship and oppression of any kind by the government. We stand for liberty, knowing that when man has been free, the world has gone ahead, and when man has been enslaved, the world has gone backward."

At the next election we shall continue to maintain the two-party system and the Republicans are going to fight to win."

Mentioned by Lieutenant governor, as a running mate for Kelly (if Kelly chooses to run and wins the nomination) was Howard Nugent of Bad Axe, a speaker of the house, Elton R. Eaton of Plymouth, successful editor-crusader against "boss control" and a former state legislator; Don Vanderwerp of Fremont, who is credited with starting the Kelly bandwagon months ago and who is serving his third term in the state senate over which the Lieutenant governor presides; and Dr. Eugene B. Keyes of Dearborn, the dentist-physician darkhorse who outran a field of prominent veterans two years ago.

Because Keyes surprised political class two years ago by soaring out of the blue, like a blazing comet, hot-stove leaguers have already coined a 1942 slogan: "Kelly and Keyes." But the public is notorious for its short memory; 1942 is a brand new year.

Muri DeFoe, former state liquor commissioner, recently attended the state convention of supervisors in Lansing. Returning to Charlotte, he wrote of political life in the state capitol, offering these pungent observations in the Charlotte Republican-Tribune:

"Governor Van Wagoner's friends are trying to switch Secretary Harry Kelly (R) to become a candidate for senator with their back-curtain support, and if successful in this they don't care who is named against Van Wagoner; many folks think this was the technique that gave Michigan to Willkie.

"That Frank McKay, now in Florida, really wants to see Van Wagoner defeated; that the Republican party will be just a memory if it loses; that Elton Eaton (Plymouth) is almost certain to be the primary for a top post, probably governor on an all-out anti-boss platform, which if true will certainly disturb the politicians who have been trying to avoid any major primary battle, and particularly the knockdown-drag-out campaign that Eaton would put on; that Vern Brown disappointed many of his friends when he eliminated himself from the governorship contest."

All this speculation leads to a few conclusions:

1. The American people are united in a grim determination to oppose the war whatever the cost. But they do demand efficiency. If this requires scrapping a few public officials, the latter will be retired overnight. Mad voters are apt to favor a change.
2. If this trend of public opinion continues, Governor Van Wagoner may take another lesson from F.D.R.'s notebook and sacrifice a few favorites to appease the multitude. Departments may be "reorganized"; new "reforms" proclaimed with great flourish; more Republicans given positions in the war program.
3. The two-party system of government, providing a ballot box accounting of what is being done and is not being done, should contribute to a greater war efficiency regardless of the November election outcome.

How About This "High Cost Of Living" In 1942?

Even though your income now is likely higher than it was in 1929, does it SEEM as if you have less of your weekly income left after you make your necessary purchases? If you are a Farmington shopper, you will not find this so.

Here are a few items picked at random from the files of the Enterprise for the first two weeks of February, 1929 . . . showing the prices for these items at that time, compared with prices advertised in the Enterprise during the first two weeks of February, 1942.

1929 PRICES	1942 PRICES
Sirloin Steak 38c lb.	Sirloin Steak 35c lb.
Percales 29c a yd.	Percales 33c a yd.
Kitchenware	Kitchenware
Covered Kettle $1.19	Covered Kettle 89c

From the above prices, it can be seen that persons shopping through the Enterprise advertising columns bought all the above items for LESS during the first part of 1942 than they did in the same period in 1929 with the exception of yard goods.

YET—the average wages in Farmington are HIGHER now than in 1929.

Thus persons shopping through the advertising columns of the Enterprise have more left for the "extras" of life in 1942 than they did in 1929.

Shop and save in confidence in the advertising columns of The Enterprise.

What is heard is soon forgotten . . . What is read is long remembered.
