CIVIC THEATRE WILL SHOW AIR CORPS FEATURE.

A special feature at the Civic Theatre on Friday and Saturday this week, June 12 and 13, is the government subject, "Winning Your Wings," starring James Stewart. "Winning Your Wings" runs exactly 15 minutes. It is splendidly done, extremely entertaining throughout, and is easily one of the best subjects the government has produced and the industry's War Activities Committee has approved. The feature has been used in cooperation with the Air Corps Cadet Drive, and any young men in this area who are desirous of obtaining entry into the Army Air Corps should see "Winning Your Wings."

This feature is being run in addition to the regular double feature attraction, "All That Money Can Buy" with Walter Huston and Edward Arnold, and "Sealtime Gai" with Judy Canova and Tom Brown.

EXTRA!
MAN EATS
DOG FOOD!

"He must be crazy," you say. Why? Dog food is edible and it is certainly cheap.

"But," you insist, "price isn't everything." And you're right—it isn't. While it may be possible to save a few cents a month by buying cheap, tough, inferior cuts of meat, the saving is lost if one purchase is so poor you can't eat it.

When you buy quality meat, you take no chances. You get full nourishment value and full enjoyment.
