BILL WHITE MARKS SEVENTH ANNIVERSARY

"Bill" White is celebrating his seventh anniversary of the establishment of his business in Farmington this week. Mr. White, who operates the Hi-Speed gas station here, first opened business in Farmington at the gas station just north of the Enterprise office and remained there until the fine new station at the corner of Cass and Grand River was opened.

The station is one of the few stations still remaining open to give 24 hour service. You may get service on your car any time of the day or night, as well as a wash job, which Mr. White thinks is the best washing your car could ever have. There is a telephone in the station for the convenience of customers.

To celebrate this anniversary, a glass jelly dish, with chromium plated handle and spoon will be given free to every customer with a purchase of $1.00 or over.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS
Ships of the Destroyer type comprise the bulk of our fighting ships in the American Navy. Their average displacement is about 1800 tons, and they are fast, powerful, and hard hitting. They have been particularly effective in convoy duty and gave a good account of themselves in the Coral Sea engagement. They cost approximately $3,600,000 each.

Every Navy shipyard is turning out Destroyers in record time. They are essential for our two-ocean Navy. Purchase of more and more War Bonds will mean more and more of these vital units for the Navy. Buy every pay day. If every citizen invests at least ten percent of his income in War Bonds we can do the job. U. S. Treasury Department

Choose Best Diet for Potato Crop

How potato leaves reveal plant food hunger is indicated by above illustrations which show: 1—A healthy growth; 2—The effects of nitrogen deficiency; and 3—Typical signs of potash starvation.

Whether feast or famine is to be the result at potato harvest time is an event that can be foretold during the growing season.

Potatoes, like other crops, require a properly balanced ration of plant foods. Their diet should always include nitrogen, phosphorus and potash in greater or lesser amounts.

When any of these elements is lacking, the growing crop shows definite symptoms of distress. To enable the potato grower to detect these signs so that he can apply correctives and provide his soil with adequate plant food, the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee has listed these symptoms:

Nitrogen hunger. The young plants are runty and listless. Leaflets lose their healthy green color and take on a pale green or yellowish-green hue. Leaves later show a tendency to "fret" and curl at the edges.

Phosphorus hunger. Plants are spindly and slow growing. Leaves are darker in color. Foliage is crinkly and leaves fail to expand normally.

Potash hunger. Potatoes are heavy potash consumers. Without it they cannot live. With potash deficiency the leaves lose their smooth surface, are undersized and become droopy. Older leaves become yellowish and eventually develop a brown or bronzed color, starting from the tip and edge and gradually affecting the entire leaf. Sometimes the lower leaves dry up.

Rats in Tests Eager Workers

Joy of Learning Seems to Be Adequate Pay for Their Efforts.

NEW ORLEANS—The better nature of a white rat has been disclosed. It will work for nothing.

Dr. S. Rains Wallace of Tulane university revealed that not only is the profit motive of secondary concern to a rat, but it will learn quickly if not rewarded, has a good memory and probably enjoys continuous labor. It appeared, however, that a rat has little use except in obtaining "working mazes"—a wholly commercial endeavor—and outside of that is just a rat.

"Most previous experiments have been based on the assumption that an animal learns much faster when he is rewarded for his success," said Dr. Wallace, who has been putting rats in mazes for three years.

Rats Enjoy Learning.
He found that the pure joy of learning itself tended to furnish ample compensation. The rat also probably finds added reward in long periods of running instead of pausing now and then to rest.

"Such an idea," Dr. Wallace said, "has not been seriously regarded before."

Removal from the maze is considered as a form of punishment by the rat and he tends to slow down a bit and make mistakes when he realizes he is about to be forced to knock off work awhile. Dr. Wallace plans to make more investigations along this line.

If not rewarded at the start of experiments, rats may learn more quickly. This, Dr. Wallace said, may be "because the reward makes the rat too emotional to concentrate."

The ability of rats to remember the intricate maze was considered remarkable. Many rats kept out of the maze for three months made only one error when they were returned. Practically, it was possible to make seven errors. Dr. Wallace thought this retention of memory was due to the "restricted social life" of the rats in the laboratory.

No Human Link Seen.
He didn't care to discuss the possible application of his findings to human beings.

"All I can say is that we have found a number of things about learning in rats which are not in accord with most modern theories," he said. "If they are applicable to human behaviors, they should upset many of the notions upon which our thinking is based."

Regardless of the application, it was conceded that no human would find pleasure in working for nothing as does a rat.

Two weeks before the test the rats became acquainted with laboratory technicians through handling. Despite all precautions, however, some rats can't take it and have to be discarded. Dr. Wallace recalled the case of a female rat, known only as B-10, who insisted on jumping out of the maze and otherwise getting off the beam.

"We couldn't get her to follow the maze," he said with a note of regret. "She had to be retired."

We Don't Advertise Bargain Bait

There's a quaint idea around that it's smart business to advertise tough, low-grade meat at a low price and then try to sell the customer a better cut at a steep price.

Maybe the plan works. We wouldn't know, for we don't believe in that kind of advertising.

We don't believe in even stocking inferior meats. We sell low-priced cuts, but you can bet they're good quality. For a real bargain, try our Thrifty-Cut pot roast at 29c lb.
