TWO BIRDS WITH ONE SPADE

First, let's talk about Victory Gardens because the season is here for them and because they can be a double-edged sword against the Axis. And here's how: When you're digging in your backyard, wherever your Victory garden is, remember the scrap drive, too. If you come across the rusty bell from Junior's bicycle, or an old rubber tire, or a lost horseshoe, turn 'em in for scrap.

CAN IF YOU CAN

According to the U. S. Department of Agriculture and the Consumer Division of the OPA, home canning this year must help save the nation's fruit and vegetable crop and help feed our nation and our Allies. Every jar of home-canned food means one more commercially-packed for the armed forces and the Allies, and leaves more freight space for war materials.

Housewives are expected to increase home-canning 51 per cent over last year. For it the War Production Board has removed restrictions on the manufacture of certain types of metal lids used to seal jars.

MEET A MEAT TREAT EXTENDER

There's a meat treat called Savory Stew appearing on American tables these days. It's tasty, economical and makes a little meat extend a long ways.

Just write your question on a post card, and mail it to station WCAR in the River Building, Pontiac, and then listen to the program to get an answer to your problems.
