Tighten Jars When Hot
Jar covers should be tightened while the food in them still is hot, and this rule applies to any method of canning. Tightening covers after the food is cold breaks the seal and permits entrance of unsterilized air which carries bacteria and fungi spores. Non-acid vegetables can be preserved by the water bath method of canning, but a pressure cooker will save many regrets. If vegetables, other than tomatoes, are canned by the water bath method, they should be cooked for 10 minutes when the can is opened and before the food is tasted.

"EVEN MY HUSBAND ADMITS I USED MY HEAD!"

"Honey, Jim said to me the other night, 'you sure were smart when you chose our Servel. Picking the one refrigerator with no moving parts was a stroke of genius. We know that it will last us for the duration' cause it has no moving parts in its freezing system to wear or need replacement. And it's been mighty economical to run, too."

"Of course Jim was right about our Servel. With food such a problem these days, it's a real comfort to know we'll be able to take proper care of what we do get. But Jim was wrong about me. Naturally I didn't say anything—but I actually chose a Servel Gas Refrigerator in the first place because it didn't make any noise!"

Whatever your original reason for selecting a Servel Electrolux Gas Refrigerator, you can be doubly glad you've got one today. For you're assured low-cost, trouble-free noiseless refrigeration for the duration, and a long time after.

SERVEL ELECTROLUX GAS REFRIGERATOR

Life-giving serum is just one of many drugs and foods supplied our armed forces that need the protection of constant, dependable refrigeration. Servels are providing this protection for military supplies in all parts of the world, wherever our fighting forces are taking the field.

CONSUMERS POWER

Strip Crops Check Erosion, Retain Moisture in Ground
Strip cropping is an important practice on sloping fields. The reason commonly considered first is that strip cropping slows down or prevents erosion. Productivity cannot be maintained if the top soil is carried away by runoff water.

There are two great benefits from slowing down the rate of speed of surface water. First, the rate of erosion becomes much greater as the speed increases, and second, the amount of water lost from the field also is much greater.

Conservationists point out that no matter how fertile any soil is, crops cannot be grown on it successfully without a good supply of soil moisture. It is estimated that 400 pounds of water are required to produce each pound of dry matter in a corn crop, so a 100-bushel yield per acre will take 5,000,000 pounds of water.

There are frequent periods during the summer when the rainfall is too short to keep the corn jumping, and unless there is abundant soil moisture, growth slows down or stops during dry periods. Strip cropping slows down the runoff of rainfall, so considerably more water soaks into the ground. This supply is available in subsequent dry weather.

State Controls Liquor
State monopoly of liquor selling brings in more revenue per capita from alcoholic beverages than open license systems and is considered advantageous as a means of social control by liquor administrators in the 17 states which control sale of liquor through state liquor stores.

The six states ranking highest in per capita revenue from liquor sales in 1940 were monopoly states, which reported per capita receipts of $1.09 to $2.49. The states were Maine, Michigan, Montana, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Washington. Only five monopoly states ranked below the typical state in per capita revenues. Two of the five, Alabama and North Carolina, have half to three-fourths of their populations under local prohibition, the federation said.

The revenue average for monopoly states over the four-year period was about 50 per cent higher than the revenue average for all "wet" states. Average proportionate increase in revenues during the period was more pronounced, also, in monopoly states, which obtain about 40 per cent of total state and liquor revenues from liquor stores.

Paints Over Paper
A case in point is now on the market which can be easily applied over wallpaper—provided the paper is on tight. One coat of paint usually covers.

Neighbors and friends of the Neighborhood Bible School are cordially invited to enjoy a treat that is being planned for the Bible School session next Sunday at 11 a.m. It is hoped, too, that a visiting preacher of radio fame will be present to speak at the Sunday evening service at 8:00.

Bobby Broquet of Detroit, who has been visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Broquet, returned home Friday evening.

Glenn Stevens of Detroit is now the guest of his grandmother, Mrs. Frank Broquet.

In spite of thunder showers about twenty-five persons attended and enjoyed the hymn sing at the Neighborhood Church Monday evening. At ten o'clock daughters-in-law of "Grandma Ault" served slices of birthday cake in honor of the occasion.

Little sixteen-month old Marlon Lee Johnson made an interesting picture and created much comment at the Neighborhood Bible School Sunday morning when calmly and gracefully he handed in pennies in honor of her mother, Mrs. Edwin Johnson's, birthday.

Staff Sergeant Forrest D. Ault, with his mother, Mrs. Emerson Ault, was a guest Thursday evening at a dinner given by Mrs. Robert Watson, of Detroit.

Mrs. Lewis Graham and children gave another of their popular wicker roasts at their home Saturday evening.

Staff Sergeant Forrest E. Ault, who has been visiting relatives here for ten days, returned to his duties Sunday afternoon. It was understood that he would join his comrades at Palm Beach, Florida.

Boy Scout Troop L.V. 2 of the Pierson District, with their Scoutmaster, William Barnum, went for bike ride Monday morning to Waterford, where they enjoyed an outing taking their lunches, and in general having a good time swimming, fishing, etc., returning home about four o'clock.

Miss Mae Tallman was the weekend guest of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Willard, Mayfield Avenue, at their summer cottage.

Mrs. Ruth Phillips and daughter, Donna Jean of Unoluntown, Ohio, were guests of Mrs. Edwin Johnson from Monday to Friday of last week.

"The power men—public and private in this area and throughout the country—should be proud of the job that has been done in providing power supply. Power has never been too little or too late. There is today no shortage of power. This is in sharp contrast to the situation as to many other vital necessities. I do not know of a single plant which is being delayed by lack of electric power supply."

(An address delivered Feb. 26, 1943, at Chattanooga, Tenn.)
J. A. Kautz, Director
Office of War Relocation Administration

Electric power is playing an important role in the nation's war production. This country alone has more horsepower than the combined total of all our enemies. Here in Detroit and southeastern Michigan, the power supply of The Detroit Edison Company totals more than a million-and-a-half horsepower. More than half of this enormous power pool is being used directly in war production. During 1942, power for war production totaled over TWO BILLION kilowatthours.

The combined generating capacity of all Detroit Edison power plants totals 1,855,000 horsepower. Insofar as one can be sure of anything in time of war, there should be no shortage of electricity in this section, and all war plants will continue to get electric power to meet peak production. The Detroit Edison Company.

ELECTRICITY IS NOT RATIONED. BUT ITS PRODUCTION REQUIRES COAL AND RAILROAD TRANSPORTATION. DON'T WASTE IT!
