WHEN THE RAIDERS COME

CHUNGKING, CHINA—Filing quietly into one of Chungking's air raid shelters, a long tunnel carved from the solid rock of a cliff, Chinese civilians seek safety from enemy bombs and come prepared for a long wait. Many bring their most precious belongings with them, like the boy (left, foreground) who carries a heavy photo enlarger, for safe-keeping.

Hi Everyone!
This is probably quite a surprise but I should have dropped you a line a long time ago.

You have probably heard a lot about Africa from others but I'd like to add my little bit. Having seen almost all of North Africa I do know that it is pretty country but I'll be glad when we get somewhere else for a change. I've seen just about every large town in this part of the world but would have enjoyed seeing them through the eyes of a civilian instead of under the present circumstances. Each one has been more interesting than the other but these Arabs think that all Americans are millionaires and have their prices accordingly. Yesterday we were in a large town and paid the small price of eighty cents for one little cateloupe. You can figure how far our money goes. The one thing we can do without paying a fortune is swim and I spend as much time as I can doing it. We have the nicest place for that I have ever seen. Hope everything is going good and you are all well.

Yours,
Corporal George W. Wagner.

The following letter was recently received by Mrs. Jerry Froot, from Private Glen G. Vance, now stationed overseas.

July 29, 1945

Dear Alice:
I received your last letter dated June 26th. I received it on the 27th of July. The reason it took so long to get to me is that I have moved around so much. I am now stationed in a town somewhere in Sicily. I may have missed the mail. I suppose you have read the news of what has happened over here. I imagine it sounds as good back home as it is over here.

Many things have happened this past week that I can't mention, all good for our fight to win this war.

Well, how is Jack getting along with his Army career? You mentioned in your letter that you were down to see him. How do you like that country? I imagine it's pretty warm down there. By the way, what's the name of the camp he's in? Well it's about time for "lights out," so have to end this letter quite abruptly.

Love to all,
Glen.
P.S. I am getting the Farmington Enterprise as usual.

Legumes Praised as War Emergency Soil Remedy

CHICAGO.—Legume crops as a source of fixed nitrogen for farm soil were recommended by the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee in view of the fact that the supply of commercial nitrogen is being largely diverted to munitions factories.

"But," says a statement issued by the Committee, "legumes by themselves are not a cure-all for soil ailments. Moreover, it takes more than one season for the benefits of legumes to be realized. Many farmers think that by growing a good stand of legumes they can keep their land perpetually productive. The fact is that if legumes are to be really effective they must be accompanied by an intelligent plan of soil management."

"The soil-building value of alfalfa, clover and other legume crops lies in their ability to take nitrogen from the air and deposit it in the soil. It lies, too, in their ability to provide the soil with extensive amounts of organic matter."

"These values are lost, however, if legumes remove more plant food from the soil than they add to it. For legumes are heavy consumers of potash and phosphorus. Four tons of alfalfa, it is estimated, will draw 178 pounds of potash and 43 pounds of phosphorus from the soil. "It is evident that unless legumes are accompanied by adequate applications of fertilizer high in potash and phosphorus, they will actually rob the soil of these essential plant foods while they are increasing its have to wait.

It is expected that there will be an increase of approximately 100 students this term, which will give the Clarenceville schools an enrollment of 1,050 children. It is also expected that there will be a decrease of children over sixteen years of age due to the fact that many of these children are able to secure working papers and have secured employment. Moreover, school officials feel that the parents of these children should give this very serious thought because after the war is over these children will find that there will be a greater need for high school trained boys and girls than before, and it might be too late for them to complete their education.
