"Substance" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science Churches throughout the world on Sunday, September 12.

The Golden Text (I Cor. 10:26) is: "The earth is the Lord's, and the fullness thereof."
Among the Bible citations is this passage (Hebrews 11: 1, 3): "Now faith is the substance of things not seen. Through faith we understand that the worlds were framed by the word of God, so that things which are seen were not made of things which do not appear."

Conclusive passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (4:48): "Question.—What is substance? Answer.—Substance is that which is eternal and inseparable of discord and decay. Truth, Life, and Love are substance, as the Scriptures use this word in Hebrews. The substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen." Spirit, the synonym of Mind, Soul, or God, is the only real substance."

Looking Back Through The Enterprise Files

TWENTY FIVE YEARS AGO (September 13, 1918)

Some Seventy Cars Held

While there was a very perceptible falling off in the number of automobiles going through this village last Sunday, as compared to that day a week previous, there were, perhaps, many more than will venture out next Sunday. A crowd of young men started to organize a movement to stop cars, obtaining names and addresses of drivers. No violence was reported, and it seems a good method to take in curbing Sunday driving.

Horse Mired Three Days

James Beatty, who lives on the M. T. Crawford farm, missed his horse last Sunday, and a search for the animal, which is a valuable one, was unavailing. The search was continued, however, and on Wednesday, hearing a whinny back in the woods, followed the sound up and found the horse about a mile from the house mired nearly to its neck, having apparently been there without anything to eat for three days, and but for the sound of the horse's distressful whinnying he would probably never have been located. The horse was in a pitiable condition when rescued and it is uncertain what the consequences will be.

TEN YEARS AGO (September 14, 1933)

Winery Plan O.K'd

Major factors have been satisfactorily settled and work will start shortly on the conditioning of the old D.U.R. power house at Farmington Junction for the winery which is to be located there. M. R. Twomey, head of the company, informed the Enterprise Thursday. Already engineers have been out to the plant armed with blueprints of proposed alterations, preparatory to the beginning of work to put the building in shape.

Enrollment in High School Up

Larger classes this year in Farmington High School, with an exceptionally numerous Junior Class, mark the opening of the school year which began on Monday morning. A total of 224 pupils, 29 more than last year, are already enrolled in the four top grades.

NRA Meeting Monday Evening

Farmington's NRA activity will reach its climax next Monday evening in a mass meeting at Farmington Town Hall, designed to bring together all elements of the population as part of the nation-wide movement toward economic recovery.

FIVE YEARS AGO (September 8, 1938)

Workers 'Busy Making Alterations

Workmen are in the process of erecting the safety equipment in the Farmington State Bank. When the building program will be completed bank officials are not certain.

Labor Day Week End is Very Quiet

That the Labor Day week end last week deserves a niche in the Hall of Fame is the contention of Deputy Sheriff Joseph DeVriendt. Drivers in this vicinity aided Oakland County and the whole State in making the holiday one of the quietest in past years.

Large Vote is Expected

One of the largest turnouts in recent years for a Primary election is expected at the Farmington City and Township and Livonia Township polls Tuesday, September 13. In Farmington 90 new names have been added to the roll and in the City 73 registrations were added.

as far as I know, the press is still running!"

Guck chuckled as he detailed, as a perpetrator of wags and humor, how the story had caught on. Although the Keweenaw natives had agreed that Dewey was their presidential choice (Guck admits he still has a Williams button around somewhere), the account of Grandfather Dewey's printing press at Eagle was purely and intentionally fictional, as the Dewey family at Owosso has since verified.

George Dewey, the grandfather, was a native printer and laborer, and on this day the joke is being taken seriously by some of the Keweenaw natives who insist that the bridge just couldn't be put together. Why, it would be 30 miles long!

"A few years ago Guck conceived the capricious idea of building a bridge from Eagle Harbor to Isle Royale. He proposed facetiously that the structure should be built with WPA money and labor, and on this day the joke is being taken seriously by some of the Keweenaw natives who insist that the bridge just couldn't be put together. Why, it would be 30 miles long!"

In a mellow mood of reminiscence, the ex-Chicago newspaper publisher told us about Ping Foster.

Ping, a hunting guide for many years, and once a publisher of the late William G. Rice's publisher of the Gazette, was caught red-handed with eight partridges in his possession at Otter Lake before the season opened one fall.

St. Clair Willson, the game warden, took Ping to Justice of Peace Little's court on Isle Royale, where he was charged with poaching. When Judge Little, haughty as the chief justice of a supreme court, asked Ping how he was going to plead, guilty or not guilty, Ping rises and announces the packed courtroom: "Your honor, I plead insanity!"

Later it was revealed that the unconventional plea had been suggested to the uninformed woodsman by Mr. Rice himself, who had once been a lawyer and who incidentally, paid Ping's fine of $5 a bird. It was Bill Rice's $5 a bird.

When a retired metropolitan newspaper publisher, fortified with savings from a $50,000 a year salary, selects a scenic end-of-the-road as Eagle Harbor to spend his summers, his creative talents must find a public outlet or expression. If you read in the press one of these days that the Native Sons of Eagle Harbor propose to put 10,000 unemployed miners to work, after the war, digging tunnels under Lake Superior, or that, under Lake Superior, you'll know that Guckish Homer Guck is at his typewriter again, the pre-
