This Is Our Fight!

It is the desire of everyone to hold down the cost of living during the war days.

One way in which all can help is by spending less and putting the money into War Bonds.

Civilian goods simply can't be produced in the volume to maintain our usual living standards. If all of us compete on the market for the limited supply of things offered for sale, prices will be forced upward rapidly.

Hence we can protect ourselves and help our country by buying Bonds to the utmost of our ability. In later years we'll have the Bonds, and when the country again needs civilian purchasing power, we'll have the money.

Today we face an obligation, an obligation to pay, and an obligation to our young men and women. If we do not meet voluntarily this war obligation, what then? The alternative can be but one thing, forced loans and forced labor. If voluntary financing fails, make no mistake, compulsory financing will follow quickly. But the fear of forced buying and even capital levies is to put the case upon a gross material basis. The fear should be in the loss of that freedom of choice which we are defending and which we promise to our vanquished foes.

Great news, indeed, if the announcement should come around October 1, that Tokyo had been successfully bombed, that Italy was training her guns on Germany, that Allied soldiers were marching against Berlin from the mainland. But the best substitute for such a morale-building event for us, and most destructive of enemy morale, will be the announcement that the hearts and will and sinews of the American people are in this war to the finish.

A September war bond proudly pocketed by 40,000,000 Americans will chill the zeal of the war lords of Japan and Germany. And it will create a fighting spirit at home, a determination to win completely and quickly, that will carry us surging forward in our resolve to build, post war, a better world in the tradition of free America.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SOCIETY
 New High School Auditorium Farmington

"Matter" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science Churches throughout the world on Sunday, September 19. The Golden Text (Isaiah 48:13) is: "I am the Lord: that is my name: and my glory will I not give to another, neither my praise to graven images."
 Among the Bible citations is this passage (Gal. 6:7-8): "Be not deceived; God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap. For he that soweth to his flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption; but he that soweth to the Spirit shall of the Spirit reap life everlasting."
 Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p.167): "The flesh lusteth against the Spirit." The flesh and Spirit can no more unite in action, than can cocaine with evil. It is not wise to take a middle and half-way position or to expect to work equally with Spirit and matter, Truth and error."

Victory Gardeners Set Record Twenty-million Victory Gardens

—two million more than the goal set last spring—were grown this year, Claude R. Wickard, Secretary of Agriculture, said in a recent radio address. The Secretary said the Victory Gardens total about four million acres and will produce eight million tons of food, in speaking of the goal of 22 million gardens for next year. Wickard said, "Last year at this time we were concerned over the possibility that we would not have enough garden seed and fertilizer for all who wanted to grow gardens—our best information is that we shall have an ample supply of (Continued on Page Four)

ALL ARE WELCOME

If you crave a bear-skin rug for your living room floor, take a tip from this peripatetic columnist.
 Oh! up the family musket and start bitch-bliking, or mashing by dog team, for the most northerly part of Michigan's vast Upper Peninsula—the slender, scenic Keweenaw peninsula with its wilderness of mountains and forests—all closer to the Arctic circle than Quebec, Canada. Yes—burr's bar, up that!

When you finally reach Keweenaw, the mossy and playful black bear may greet you on the lonely streets of Copper Harbor. Make sure that the sports calendar is right, as proclaimed by the state conservation commission, and that the 1943 deer season has been officially opened! Then instead of watching capricious bears maul over garbage cans in a quest for food, or feed from the hospitable hands of Joseph Matthews, elderly proprietor of the Beauty View general store which is Copper Harbor's sole retail establishment, just fire your gun and bag your bear. That is, of course, if you're not too excited or too ashamed to shoot.

It's going to be "as easy as pie" to get your bear this Fall. For unless the county board of supervisors relents under a steady fire of criticism from the county road commission and the commercial resort owners, the season will be lifted soon in Keweenaw.

"Don't leave any food outside at night," Donald Dow warned us, the first night we pitched a tent at the Fort Wilkins state park, right next to many Hops Lake. "We'll be glad to attach to your tent by the food, and you will have trouble." Dow is caretaker at the park; resides summer and winter at the Fort with his wife and two children.

My wife, who was nicknamed "Toot" years ago because of her petite size, looked at me in dismay. I had bid a gallant farewell to John W. Rice, publisher of the Houghton Mining Gazette, announcing jointly our expedition to the Fort. "Darkness was falling, and we had to retreat ignominiously or otherwise. We were stuck."

Dow continued with more cheer: "A few days ago a mother and her two children were followed by a bear while they were picking thimble-berries in the park, near Lake Superior. The rat in to the lake to escape. Of course, the animal was hungry and wanted their berries. This story was broadcast over the radio."

"Last summer a family arrived late in the day, just as you did. I told them also not to put food outside. We've camped all through Yellowstone Park," replied the husband, so I assumed they were experienced campers. The next morning when I visited the park, noticed the campers had left. Later I heard the story. They had put a portable cupboard upon an outdoor table. It contained all their food, including some bacon and their dishes. A bear had been attracted by the smell of bacon. He knocked the cupboard to the ground, banged it around until it broke open, and then devoured the meat. The family, panic-stricken, had fled at daylight.
