Don't Soak Vegetables

Fresh vegetables should be washed quickly but should not be allowed to stand in water. Vegetables are especially valuable as a source of vitamins but water will extract the vitamins before they are served. The outer leaves of cabbage and lettuce contain more minerals and vitamins than the inner bleached leaves contain.

Vegetables should be cooked as short a time as possible and should be served promptly. The cooking water will contain minerals and vitamins and should be used in gravies or soups. Soda destroys some of the food values of vegetables.

Vegetables: cooked or baked in their skins are better food than those which are cooked after peeling. This cooking method also saves time and labor in preparing the meal. Peas should not be shelled until they are needed.

Tender cuts of meat should not be overcooked and should be cooked in an open pan. Less tender meat cuts should be browned, covered and cooked slowly in a minimum of water, and only until tender. Eggs should be cooked at low temperatures.

Service Notes

Camp Wolters, Texas
September 13, 1945
Dear Editor:
This very belated letter is to convey my sincerest thanks for your courtesy in sending me your splendid paper each week.
Truly I am unable to express just how surprised and very happy I was when I received my first copy.

Received a copy today and read the account of my brother, Dick's, getting credit for a year of good service, also the letter to my mother from Bill. I am sure you can't possibly realize the amount of pleasure and comfort things of that sort bring to a soldier's life.

As you have probably heard many times this Army life is rugged and the boys are kept on the go pretty much with little time for outside pleasures and being able to read about the happenings at home and about the boys who are in the services certainly keeps up the old morale.

Have no complaint with Army life whatsoever; have never felt better in my life and for the food, have to say it is excellent and plentiful. At the same time must say I have failed to see any waste that I had previously heard was so prevalent in the Army camps. Understand that the mess sergeants are allotted so much food each month and it has to do, but they arrange a well balanced and diversified menu and everyone here thinks very highly of it.

Will close now and try to get a few lines off to one of my brothers before lights out.
Thanking you again, I remain,
Frank L. Sulikins.

W. Glen Smith of the U.S. Navy is now a First Class Aviation Metalsmith, and is to be home within a few days for a twenty day furlough.

His brother, Sergeant Eugene M.
Smith is now in Australia in the best of health. He spent over six months at Guadalcanal.

David Edwards left last Monday for Fort Custer where he will be inducted into service.

Russell Page left last week Wednesday to report for training with the United States Navy at Great Lakes, Illinois.

Corporal Bud Auten is now located at the Army Air Forces School of Applied Tactics, near Orlando, Florida.

Private Wilfred Richard Pratt recently spent a furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E.

Pratt, 25024 Greening Boulevard.
Private Pratt was recently transferred and is now stationed in Maryland.

Roy Johnson, 20200 Purling-brook, is home from Great Lakes Training Station, after completing boot training.
