Soap as Lubricant

In the metal industries, which is a field for soap use, few housewives would ever think of the soap acts as a lubricant to reduce friction. To prevent corrosion, and to produce a smooth, accurate finish, the association estimates that more than 11 million pounds were used during 1942 in the production of cold drawn steel bars. In making cartridges, the brass cases are dipped in a soap solution which lubricates their passage through a die. These are only two of many uses for soap in metal industries, which have increased greatly during the war.

Green Helps Passengers

Professional color consultants have been of valuable aid to airlines. It is said that they have found that yellows and browns can cause nausea in cases where the individuals are sensitive to color, while greens and blues help to avert the unpleasantness. It is reported that one color consultant advised an airline which was one of his clients to use green sheets, and to avoid serving coffee because it was brown.

Mildew-Proof Paint

Mildew-proof paint, largely used by the armed forces to keep clothing, shoes and equipment mildew-proof, is now said to help in eliminating troublesome yeast mold in breweries, bakeries and other plants. "Industrial Finishing" suggests that another interesting possibility might be the manufacture of paints for swimming pools and boats that would be algae-proof.

Deficient in Phosphorus

Phosphorus is the most commonly deficient mineral nutrient for wheat in Illinois soils.

Women in Industry

In June, 1943, more than 310,000 women were reported as factory workers in the aircraft industry, including airplane, engine, and propeller plants. More than another 100,000 were reported in office and other nonfactory jobs. This industry too has an additional woman force of undetermined number, similar to that in ammunition manufacture, helping to make airplane parts in plants working on a contract or subcontract basis.

CONGRATULATES FIRST ASHORE

SOUTH PACIFIC—Soundphoto—General MacArthur is shown as he shakes hands with first Lieutenant Frank Henshaw of Alton, Texas, the first man to land on Los Negros Island in the Admiralty group. The men landed from destroyers last week and quickly took the airport.

Renovate Japanese

Japan was a mere miscellany of medieval agricultural islands in 1854, when President Fillmore of the United States and Commodore Perry lifted the lid off it. For 223 years no Japanese had been permitted to leave the islands' atmosphere of feudalism.

Not until 1870, after the great fish or "renovation," were feudal castles abolished and common people allowed to use their own family names instead of their masters'. Warriors were encouraged to cut off their topknots of long hair and stop wearing swords on peaceful strolls in the streets. When the lid finally came off, Japan began to expand with explosive force.

Paid With Cocoa Beans

Aztec soldiers were paid in cocoa beans. Their generals beat Napoleon to the realization that an army marches on its stomach, in the same currency civilians paid their taxes—to at least one Aztec king who, tradition says, was very fond of the beverage made from the bean. But, because of spoilage, the king could not hand his wealth down to his son. It was good to buy his slaves with. And the rest of it he drank, for he would not take any other beverage. As late as 1860 cocoa beans were still common currency in isolated communities of Central America.

Father of Medicine

Birthingplace of Hippocrates, the "Father of Medicine" in 460 B. C. Cos became famous among Romans as a health resort.

Under-Processed
Darkening of canned food at the top of the jar indicates under-processing; either boil the whole can for immediate use or discard the darkened pieces and use or reprocess the remainder. Rusty pink canned pears look poisonous, but are not; pears, apples and quinces in some districts have this color after heating and, unless there is cloudiness, may be used.
