CLARENCEVILLE
Mrs. Mary Rutla

We are herewith making an appeal to those who are able and yet have never donated blood to the Red Cross. Won't you please step forward and volunteer to give in June when the Red Cross Unit visits Farmington? So many of the men and women who have given three, four or five times are physically unable to do so again, or this correspondent at 1124-M. will be glad to make an appointment for you. Let's keep Clarenceville in their pitching.

The Diddams of Sunnyside had Detroit relatives as their guests Easter.

Speaking of your crowded transportation facilities, here's one for the book—a relative of your correspondent, a member of the U.S. Navy, stood up on a plane on the way over the Atlantic from his base in Africa.

Mrs. Robert Gordon of Cambridge and children spent Easter vacation with relatives in Belleville, Ontario.

Ethel Pink spent the weekend with her parents, returning to Ypsilanti Normal to resume her classes on Monday morning.

The Fred Baileys entertained a number of relatives on Easter. Mr. and Mrs. Marsh, son Ronald of Detroit, and Private Eileen of the WAC were guests of the Baileys' home.

The Clarenceville churches were crowded to capacity on Easter Sunday, which speaks well of our community. The newly decorated and furnished Methodist and Adventist churches make quite an addition to our Grand River frontage.

Tech. Corp. Chauncey Laubach and Mrs. Laubach, after spending a few days with Mrs. Laubach's parents, the Ray Meads, left for their home in Bethlehem, Pennsylvania, to remain for the balance of Corp. Laubach's furlough from service with the Medical Corps in the Army. Corp. Laubach reports weather in the Aleutians seldom gets colder than 15 degrees above, but the wind fairly blows you off the face of the earth.

Mr. and Mrs. Hocking, Mr. and Mrs. Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Bolitho, Mr. and Mrs. Riddell and Mr. and Mrs. Belser attended the Scout forum in the Rockham Building, Detroit, Tuesday night. We're still hearing about what a hit the 10th Grade made with their Cabaret Party with Bob Shunatona's orchestra furnishing the music.

Obituaries

T. D. Irving
Thomas C. Irving 64, of Tulsa, Oklahoma, died Sunday, March 26, in a Tulsa Hospital after an illness of nearly four years.

Mr. Irving was born in Detroit, the son of the late Thomas L. and Alice S. Irving. As a boy, he attended Farmington High School, when Harry McCracken was superintendent of schools. He began an automobile career in Henry Ford's factory at Detroit, going to Tulsa in 1915. He has been associated with automobile concerns since that time.

For a number of years Mr. Irving and his wife had lived in their country home east of Tulsa, but moved into the city because of Mr. Irving's illness. He was a member of the Masonic Lodge, and a 22nd degree Mason. He was also a former member of the Elks.

Surviving are the widow, Mrs. Bess Irving, a nephew, Lemuel Irving of Farmington, and a niece, Mrs. Clayton Hollis of Ann Arbor.
