A General That Smiles

Some of the pictures the news photographers are sending back from France are so realistic that they almost tear your heart out. They serve the needful purpose, however, of making us home-fronters realize, at long last, that the war our boys are waging is not something dreamed up in Hollywood.

Among them are pictures of General Eisenhower—chatting, grinning and in such sincere fellowship with his Yanks, washing his face in a tin wash basin up front—just being himself, "like."

Somehow they make us trust him all the more—particularly after remembrances we have of frozen-faced militarists thrusting out their granite chin, apparently forgetful of the humanness of us all.

Our Freedom

I look at a bird in a tree, and say "That is the way to live." The bird flies wherever it wishes, harming nobody, building its nest, raising baby birds, hustling for food, singing, rejoicing.

I would not want to be a bird in a cage, even with free birdseed.
People have a right to every possible bit of this same sort of natural freedom.

People who do not harm others should have absolute minimum amount of restraint by others.
We should be free to dream, create, invent, originate, initiate, grow, expand and give full expression to our natures insofar as they are good.

Every fibre of every real American's soul tells him this. Every fibre of his soul rebels against the kind of regimentation which has been tried in some parts of the world.

The End Of The Beginning

It is truly the beginning of the end for Hitler, Tojo and their gangsters. But it is just the end of the beginning for America's industry, whose amazing production for war is in the valiant hands of men now inside the Germans' vaulted fortress.

Industry is rightly looking to the next big job, which begins when hostilities end. It wants to keep the production level high. It knows that jobs in manufacturing, although they provide but 25 percent of all employment, stimulate millions of other jobs—in business, agriculture and mining.

There must be jobs which will make the spending—which in itself makes more jobs. In other words, there must be incentives. These will lead to newer and better products at prices people are willing to pay, while business improves the quality of its goods, produces them more efficiently, distributes them less expensively.

Meanwhile, where are government's plans for reconversion to peacetime production, for sound and sane termination of contracts? And where the assurance that wartime restrictions will be lifted at the proper time? Without knowledge of government's plans, and the assurance that business should have for the future, it cannot reasonably make its own plans for the better America to come.

Grown Leisurely
Late spring pigs can be grown leisurely with plenty of pasture. They can hog down corn in the fall, glean stalk fields, clean up after cattle and be ready for market the following March after the hog runs are over. If the spring pig crop appears to be excessively large, the newly bred sows and gilts can still be sold on the market.

Raspberry Pruning
The only pruning required for red raspberries consists of post-harvest removal of canes which have borne and of thinning the canes and shortening those which are excessively long at the dormant pruning.

Temporary Licenses
Only six states—Delaware, Maine, Nevada, Pennsylvania, Washington and Florida—grant temporary licenses to doctors awaiting examinations.

Pig Iron
In 1941, 2,325 pounds of coal was needed to make 1 ton of pig iron.

Farmington
"God" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science Churches throughout the world on Sunday, July 2.
The Golden Text (II Samuel 22: 32,33) is: "Who is God, save the Lord and who is my strength, and my refuge, is in God. God hath spoken open; twice have I heard this; that power belongeth unto God."
Among the Bible citations is this passage (Psalms 62: 7,11): "In God, is my salvation and my glory: the rock of my strength, and my refuge, is in God. God hath spoken open; twice have I heard this; that power belongeth unto God."
Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (228): "There is no power apart from God. Omnipotence has all-power, and to acknowledge any other power is to dishonor God."

Salted Almonds
Salted almonds make satisfying appetizers. They are crunchy, have good flavor, are convenient to serve and eat and last but not least, almonds are not rationed.

The indispensable man in this war isn't the general. No siree! And it isn't the admiral either, important as he may be. Our nomination for the honor, and such it should be, goes to the man who, armed with a rifle, cold steel bayonet and a pistol, meets the enemy face to face in actual combat. It is kill or be killed—no pleasant alternative to choose. You either vanquish this other man, or you become the victim of his rifle or bayonet or perhaps an enemy shell or grenade on which your name has been written.

Eye-witness experience as an observer at Camp McCoy, Wisconsin, where some 10,000 men are being trained today for infantry duty overseas, prompted the above observation. We offer it in all sincerity, and with full appreciation for the sacrificial service performed by men in other branches of military service. The impression is reinforced by personal experiences of the writer during World War I, both in this country and in France. Yes, we have met the doughboy before, although our own branch of the service was the horse-drawn artillery, assigned to an infantry division.

As we reported last week, seeing is believing. Sure, you are patriotic. You're doing your part to help win the war. But until you can see for yourself just what this war means in terms of personal sacrifice by the young man in the infantry, you are aptly unable to grasp its real significance.
What are you going to do tomorrow?
Well, brace yourself for this experience, all in a day's work for the American doughboy. First call is at 5:40 a.m. Breakfast follows shortly afterwards. Then you spend a few hours practicing bayonet drill in which you ram cold steel into a stuffed dummy or parry the thrusts of an associate as he practices on you, a makeshift foe. It means plenty of hard, hard physical exertion. You undergo judo training that is designed to help you out-fight

Looking Back Through The Enterprise Files

TWENTY FIVE YEARS AGO (July 4, 1919)
Warner - Martindale
Last Saturday afternoon at three o'clock in St. Matthias Church, Detroit, occurred the marriage of Howard Malby Warner, son of ex-Gov. and Mrs. Fred Warner and Miss Charissa Laura Martindale, both of Farmington. Rev. H. C. Atwater performed the ceremony in the presence of the relatives and near friends of the bride and groom.
Annual Meeting
The annual meeting of Farmington School District No. 5, will be held a week from Monday evening, July 14, in the old building. The present school board consists of F. M. Warner, F. H. Nichols, J. J. Webster, D. L. Dickerson and Fred Summa.
Postal Difficulties
The situation in the Detroit postal service is getting more serious each week and unless Congress acts promptly in increasing pay of employees it may be necessary for everybody to go after their mail. Now boys and girls in their teens are carrying the mail in residential sections and while the little folks are doing their very best, they have neither strength or experience to render satisfactory service.

TEN YEARS AGO (July 12, 1934)
Earth Turned For New School
The new school building planned by Our Lady of Sorrows Church is soon to be under construction, with the first turning of earth Thursday for the structure. Within a short time, excavating for the basement of the building will be under way, by steam shovel.
Much Damage Done By Storm
High winds, accompanied by driving rain, struck Farmington and vicinity Friday afternoon. Although trees were blown down in Farmington and window glass was shattered, fruit orchards in the locality escaped serious damage.

500 To Gather For Conference
Farmington will be the scene of a gathering of 500 men from all over southeastern Michigan on Sunday, July 22, when the quarterly meeting of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul, Particular Council of Detroit, will take place. The Society is a men's Catholic organization which cares for children and for the poor.

FIVE YEARS AGO (June 29, 1939)
Move To Stop Free Shows
A determined movement to put a stop to the outdoor weekly free movie show in Farmington is under way by the various factors in the community. The show has been the object of continuous criticism and protest from various quarters in recent years.
Band Prepares For Concerts
The Farmington High School summer concert, so popular last year with Farmington residents, will be continued again this summer, according to Alvin Banner, director of the band. There will be a total of six concerts presented during the summer, from the band shell located just north of the high school at the west end of the athletic field.

Pass Building, Zoning Codes
New homes or buildings in Farmington, on which construction is started after July 17, will come under the regulation of the Building Code and the Zoning Code, both of which were given their final readings and passed at a meeting of the Farmington City Commission Monday evening.

rounds of mortar, plus your clothes and shoes.
Yes, all this, mister. And it weighs only 92 pounds!
For an afternoon's diversion, you may undergo the following:
It's required of every man in the infantry—private or officer—before he is permitted to enter actual combat dangers.
It is called infiltration training, and mister, is it mean! You must crawl over a simulated no-man's land, packed with shell holes filled with mud and criss-crossed by barbed wire.
Live machine gun bullets whiz over your head, in fact, observers can view each bullet's path, as it is marked by trails of red fire. This tracer shows you exactly where the bullet travels.
You crawl on your belly, head down, inching your way toward the enemy trench. Inside a watch tower overlooking this no-man's land is an officer. He has a map on which is located his minefield. He presses a button, and off goes a dynamite blast, shooting mud and dirt and smoke high into the air, with the sound and force of an artillery shell.

Firing of many infantry weapons must be done on ranges where there is plenty of room for practice shooting.
That involves a nice, long hike there and back.
And the pack of your back—brother, you haven't seen anything! You must carry a rifle, bayonet, pistol, gas mask, field glasses, raincoat, first aid kit, on trenching tool to dig your own fox hole, a shelter hat with poles and pins, blanket, canteen and cup, meat can, knife, fork and spoon, cartridge belt, three grenades and grenade launcher, anti-tank grenade, ammunition bag and six

Millions of young Americans are today fighting in foreign lands to preserve in their own land the independence which dates from July 4, 1776.
They are fighting for the right of small nations to live in peace, safe from the rule of the strong. They are fighting for the right of every individual of every race to independence of thought, of belief, and of proper action.
We at home must help to win this fight. Unless we win a victory for all men, our own victory will not be secure.
