

WEST POINT PARK

By L. A. Ault

Mrs. Marvin Peterson, assisted by her mother, Mrs. Axel Edwards and her sister, Mrs. Sisko, from Detroit entertained the Sunshine Sisters at her home on Hubbard Ave. last Wednesday afternoon. Rev. Lester Ault from Washington, Pa., was present by invitation and gave a talk, dwelling chiefly on the subject "Why Men Don't Attend Church These Days."

The next meeting of the Sunshine Sisters will be held in the Neighborhood Church on Wednesday afternoon, August 30th, and at that time it is hoped to have present, participating in the program, neighborhood girls who will have returned to school before the time comes for another meeting.

In honor of the birthday of her son-in-law, Jack Oman, Mrs. Austin Ault entertained a number of guests at dinner last Thursday evening. Places were laid for fifteen. Mr. Oman received a number of handsome gifts and many cards of congratulation.

In honor of her husband's birthday Mrs. Clinton Ault gave a small party at her home on Mayfield Ave. last Thursday afternoon. The guest list included a few relatives only.

Mrs. Arthur Brush entertained with a Stanley Brush Demonstration party at her home on Shady-side last Friday evening. As usual with these affairs the party was a success socially as well as otherwise.

Mrs. Russell Ault entertained with a hamburger fry on the lawn of their home on Shady-side Ave. Tuesday evening of last week. Mr. Ault himself presided over the out-of-door fireplace. Mrs. Ault served the vegetables and Dolores for their simplicity rather than gaudy decoration and where there might be plenty of pause for silent worship and meditation. He stated that in his opinion, men who undergo the genuine stress of modern living, do not care for swinging songs and choruses and over-dramatic sermons.

Another feature of the meeting was a duet by Mrs. Peterson and her sister, Mrs. Sisko. About twenty persons were in attendance and at the close of the afternoon enjoyed a hearty buffet luncheon.

Mother, Jelly Making Is Fun!

FROM the beginning of history, connoisseurs of food have always appreciated the grape. Most and poetry have always sung its praises. And while it is true that the grapes of the old country were good, it is a well-known fact that American soil is particularly well adapted to this fruit. And with whatever type of grape is available, there is one thing certain, it will make a delicious sweet spread.

Modern recipes assure us of a perfect product, and they save both time and energy. Every batch of fruit means half-a-cup more glasses and the rich flavor of fully ripe grapes. Try these today.

GRAPE JELLY
(Makes about 11 medium glasses)
5 cups juice
6 1/2 cups sugar
1 box powdered fruit pectin

To prepare juice, stem about 3 1/2 pounds fully ripe grapes and crush thoroughly. Add 1 1/2 cups water, bring to a boil, and simmer, covered, 10 minutes. Place fruit in jelly cloth or bag and squeeze out juice. Measure sugar into dry dish and set aside until needed. Measure juice into a 5 quart autoclave. Place over hottest fire. Add powdered fruit pectin, mix well, and continue stirring until mixture comes to a hard boil. At once pour

In sugar, stirring constantly. Continue stirring, bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1 1/2 minute. Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Paraffin hot jelly at once.

CONCORD GRAPE BUTTER
(Makes about 12 medium glasses)
5 cups pulp
7 1/2 cups sugar
1 1/2 bottle fruit pectin

To prepare fruit, stem about 5 1/2 pounds fully ripe grapes and crush thoroughly. Add 1 1/2 cup water, bring to a boil, cover, and simmer 5 minutes. Place in large sieve lined with double layer of cheesecloth. Drain 4 cups juice and use for cooking grapes. Measure sugar into dry dish and set aside until needed. Measure juice into a 5 quart autoclave. Place over hottest fire. Add powdered fruit pectin, mix well, and continue stirring until mixture comes to a hard boil. At once pour Submarine Sailor — Gregor Felsen. At an Australian port a submarine took on supplies, then, under cover of darkness, it slid quietly away, heading for the open sea—under sealed orders.

Cave was the young commander. On his shoulders rested the full responsibility not only of carrying out a perilous secret mission, but of bringing his crew safely back to port after carrying out that mission. Every man aboard was a friend; everyone willing, ready to die in the service of his country.

Noising its way through the and his cousin, Phyllis Ault, presided at the piano.

Rev. Axel Edwards was assisted at the 6 o'clock Vesper meeting in the Neighborhood Church Sunday evening by Rev. Lester Ault.

Rev. Edwards is leaving soon for a business trip to northern Michigan and will not be preaching again at the Neighborhood Church until the first Sunday evening in September. However, the services for the next two Sundays are to be taken care of by other speakers.

The Bolyards of Hubbard Ave. are vacationing in northern Michigan this week.

The condition of Mr. Funk of Shady-side is still considered very serious.

A new baby daughter arrived at the Cheard home, near the Eboricks property, the middle of last week.

Mrs. John Varhol, Shady-side Ave., is being laid up with bad ankle, the indirect result of an automobile accident in which she was injured a few years back.

It is understood that Mr. and Mrs. Beard have sold their Hubbard Ave. home and will be moving to Bedford.

In the absence of Mrs. Gordon Vance, who, because of rheumatism, has been much indisposed lately, it was necessary to borrow a pianist from another part of the community for the evening service at the Neighborhood Church Sunday evening. Mrs. Jack Oman proved an acceptable substitute.

Mrs. Ralph Voorhees and Mrs. Clinton Ault spent Friday together in Detroit.

Mrs. Edward Stange and Edward, Jr., visited in Detroit Saturday.

Mrs. Margaret Martin was reported on the sick list the first part of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Owens from Detroit were visiting relatives in West Point Park Sunday.

Last week Mrs. Norman Kaurenean found it necessary to have a physician treat several wounds inflicted by a neighbor's dog. The animal does not seem vicious but apparently resented Mrs. Kaurenean's attempt to lead her small son, of whom the dog is very fond, into his home.

Roger Graham, Billy Soos and other Boy Scouts who were at the Scout Camp in northern Michigan all of last week, returned home early Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Buckingham attended the funeral of the latter's grandfather near West Branch last week.

Lester E. Ault and family from Washington, Pa., also Merle Adams from near Pittsburgh, all of whom have been visiting in West Point Park for the last ten days, returned home Monday of this week. Accompanying them as far as New London, O., were Mrs. Emerson Ault and Miss Iona Ault, who will visit with Mrs. Ault's second daughter, Mrs. Johnson Porter, for two weeks.

ocean, fathoms deep, the doughty submarine met the enemy head on and let go its deadly cargo of torpedoes. Again, hunted by the enemy, it lay huddled on the ocean's floor, its batteries running low, while depth bombs rattled its machinery and an amateur surgeon managed to perform successfully a touch-and-go appendectomy. Here its such thrilling adventure as comes seldom between the covers of a boy's book—doubly thrilling, because it has been cleared by the Navy Department and so is completely authentic.

Some Follow The Sea—Gregor Felsen. Who comes closer to the grim reality, with all the tremor and thrill of war at sea than the man in the Merchant Marine? No one, thought young Chris Hollister, 17, when he signed up. Yet even Chris had not anticipated the whole truth, for during his very week at sea he encountered more excitement than he had ever known.

He shipped on an old freighter, carrying a cargo of horses to England. The boat was torpedoed and the horses stampeded, plunging along the sagging decks, instinctively looking to human beings for help, and at last sinking into the sea. Chris, who was not motion picture hero, but just an average boy, more sensitive than he had realized, learned his first lesson in Wednesday evening of last week. Emerson Ault came home Saturday evening to spend the weekend with his family and have the opportunity of visiting with his brother, Lester, from Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Austin Ault escorted a large group of folks, mostly Pennsylvania visitors in West Point Park, to Greenfield Village and back Wednesday forenoon of last week.

The visitors were particularly interested in "The Covered Bridge," which Lester Ault, who does editorial work for a newspaper, was instrumental in having brought to Greenfield Village from Pennsylvania some years ago.

For the first time in sixteen years the five Ault brothers were all able to meet at the same time and place. They are Clinton, Austin and Russell Ault, who reside in West Point Park, Emerson Ault, whose work took him all over the U.S.A. and Lester Ault from Washington, Pa. They celebrated by a four-hour croquet game on Russell Ault's lawn and neighbors testify to the fact that excitement ran just as high among them as with their sons and daughters during the previous evening while they were so engaged five daughters-in-law gathered at the home of "Mother Ault" and visited together in fitting fashion. Thus Sunday evening, August 20th, 1944 will long be memorable in the minds of the Ault people.

Marvin Peterson is now training in Florida. His wife expects to visit him soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Shauler and children, Dwight and Carol Lee, have returned to their home on Farmington Road after a vacation at Wildwood Beach, Quincy, Michigan.

Miss Carol Holzer of Farmington Road was a visitor at Cedar Point last Thursday.

At this last Bible School Wayne's uncle, Lester Ault, gave a talk on "Samuel, the Prophet."
