THE "FINAL BATTLE"

"The only course for Germany is to fight to the bitter and west of the Rhine." General Eisenhower has told war correspondents. Shown in the shaded area of this map is the size and location of the battle-ground. He said crossing the Rhine would "amount to a naval operation." It was pointed out that Rhine bridges can be or have been blasted by bombers. Small stars show locations of the key Rhine bridges. On the fighting front (1) The French 1st army moves north, strikes up the Moselle toward Koblenz, and pushes below Metz and (4) bitter counter-offensives meet the drive on Cologne and the advance from Gelsenkirchen.

Carrot Vitamins
Carrots, celebrated for vitamin A, also have vitamin C. Fresh from the garden they rate as moderately good in this vitamin, but improper handling and cooking may destroy most or all of the vitamin C. Those who eat carrots freshly pulled are lucky, so far as vitamin value is concerned. Research says that mature carrots are richer in vitamin, and flavonoids than young, tender "baby" carrots, so the gardener will be wise not to gather them too early.

ALEC TEMPLETON TO APPEAR IN DETROIT CONCERT

Humor in music is a rare and almost indescribable art. It would be difficult to reduce it to words. It simply has to be heard. For that reason, to spend an evening with Alec Templeton is a great treat. He plays a few measures from a Mozart sonata, and he chuckles gleefully as he proceeds to show how Grieg, Wagner, Tchaikovsky or Debussy would have treated them. Then comes a Bach Fugue, and suddenly it turns to a typical Rachmaninoff melody, simply because he has brought out prominently an inside part. And, quelling at random, he will take a few measures here and there from the Volga Boat-Song, Debussy's Reverie, Chopin's Ballade in A-flat, and Tea for Two, and from such an astonishingly diversified material, he will extract a stunning improvisation, taking his listeners through contrapuntal intricacies, weaving the themes together in uncanny fashion and enjoying himself at all times while displaying his genius for mimicry with occasionally a ironic bit added to his delicate wit.

Alec Templeton will appear at the Masonic Auditorium on Monday evening, December 4th.

A surprise party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Tamm last Saturday evening in honor of Will and Fred Tamm on their birthday anniversaries. About 30 guests played games and enjoyed a lovely evening. Mrs. Tamm serving a lovely lunch, including a beautiful birthday cake. Guests were from Detroit, Northville, Pontiac and Farmington.
