Dear Enterprise:
I'm not very good at writing letters, but I thought it would be a very good idea to stop a while and drop the Enterprise a line to let you know how glad I am to hear from you. It means a lot when you can get a little news from home. I would like to say hello to everyone on the staff, and to all the townfolks. I am now a standby to ship out, and it might be any time now (I HOPE). So long for now, and thanks.

Yours truly,
Dick Banghart.

S/Sgt. John J. Kerr is recuperating at a base hospital in England, from wounds which he received in Belgium. His parents have just received the Purple Heart awarded him, and which he sent home. He asks that "the gang" write him. His address may be obtained from his parents, 26013 Student, Detroit 23, or telephone EVergreen 6279.

Fort McClellan, Alabama
February 28, 1945
To the Editor:
Thank you very much for sending me your newspaper. It helps me to keep track of the fellows from Farmington.

The Blue and White page contains very many familiar names. I am just beginning my third fifteen weeks at The Infantry Replacement Training Center, Fort McClellan, Alabama.

There are very many fellows here from Michigan. We are in a very long dry spell; it has lasted four days so far.

The latest war news is available to us here in maps and lectures because we do not have much time for leisure time reading.

Yours truly,
Kenneth E. Wray.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Pratt received word a few days ago that their son, Pfc Wilfred R. Pratt had been wounded in action in the Philippines. His brother, Pfc Robert J. Pratt is in the Philippines also, and by help of the Red Cross the two brothers met. They were very happy to see each other, and had a long visit, for it is the first time they had seen each other in two and a half years. Thanks to the Red Cross, Wilfred is doing well.

The following poem was written by Jerry Westerman, who is entering the service, by his friend, Lane Campbell.

Twinkle, Twinkle, Little Star,
In the window, where you are
Shining brightly for the boy
So filled with life and youthful joy.

So good of heart, so pure of soul,
So willing now to set a goal
Whereby he'll lend his helping hand
To any allied nation's land.

So willing now to give his time,
And leave his loved ones far behind,
If need be, yes, he'll give his life
That others may not suffer strife.

What more could any boy possess
Than qualities like these?
Oh yes,
We'll miss him each passing day,
Till he returns to us to stay.

From boyhood he has grown to man,
Now off to serve his Uncle Sam.
That some day all the world
may be
A freedom land for you and me.

Careless words now oft are spoken;
Vows we make so lightly broken;
But love of true friends cannot part;
In thought we'll be where'er thou art.

Each night at bedtime we shall pray:
God spare our boy another day.
Give him glories, proudly told;
Don't let our blue star turn to gold.

Good luck, best wishes, for all the happiness that can be expected, with a quick and safe return.
