the importance of revenue. Rather the legislature should "keep in mind that the first necessity is to make it possible for the liquor traffic to be adequately and completely policed so that abuses may be developed with the resultant social evils. Profits should be secondary to this aim."

It is likely that law enforcement will be strengthened in Michigan simultaneously with a continuation of the monopoly system which enjoys more public acceptance than it did six to eighteen months ago. The reversal of thinking illustrates the power of information. We have discovered we're better off than we thought we were.

Pleat Marks
As an extra precaution against pleat marks in pressing, slip strips of paper under the folds. Use the same trick to prevent marks when pressing seams, darts, facings, pockets, flaps and neckties. Pin pleats only if they refuse to behave. When pleats are in groups, let first group dry in position before pushing off board to make way for the next.

Elizabethan Sugar
Queen Elizabeth of England first introduced sugar into her domestic household as an article of diet in the middle of the 16th century. Prior to that time the limited amount produced was mainly used for medicinal purposes.

legal spirits and both systems are regarded in their enforcement expenditures.

"Either system can be policed satisfactorily; however it has been true in certain areas in open states that individuals of very undesirable background have practically taken over the wholesale liquor business and when this has been true frequently serious repercussions have followed.

"Under present conditions with the existing shortage, which is definitely a very real one and one which will continue to be progressively worse before any material change for the better can be expected, it would seem very dangerous for any state to seriously consider a change either from the monopoly to the open system or from the open to the monopoly plan. It is impossible to foresee the many aspects of this many sided question. In brief, however, it may be stated that in the open states greater supplies to a minor degree are available at greater convenience to the public in more attractive retail establishments.

"In the monopoly states the citizens enjoy lower prices, greater revenues to the state and greater control over the industry from distiller to consumer."

It is Lock's belief that the legislature should not over-emphasize

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...
"Judge, remember that place up in the mountains where we went trout fishing last year?"
"I sure do, George. We had a great time up there, didn't we?"
"I'll never forget it. But this will interest you, Judge. I heard just yesterday that the revenue men raided a big still right near there. Guess that's where all that high-priced moonshine we heard about has been coming from."
"Wouldn't be a bit surprised. I saw in the paper the other day where the Government has raided thousands of such stills during the past year."
"Sounds sort of reminiscent, doesn't it, Judge?"
"Exactly and it's not hard to figure out. As soon as the distillers stopped making whiskey and devoted their entire facilities to the production of industrial alcohol for the Government, the racketeers muscled in again."
"I hate to think of how that might have spread, Judge if the Government hadn't found it possible, without interfering with our war effort in any way, to permit a short resumption of legal whiskey production recently."

INVISIBLE SABOTAGE... Production of highly sensitive instruments for war can be halted by air-borne particles 100 times smaller than the naked eye can see. Some products are ruined by only a slight contamination of the atmosphere. Air that is fit to breathe may not be clean enough for certain manufacturing processes. These tiny particles cannot be removed by ordinary mechanical filters. But cleaning the air by electronic precipitation traps particles as small as one 250,000th of an inch... and even removes tobacco smoke and oil mist. The process is now limited to use in vital war installations, but will be available after the war to hospitals, radio stations, offices, stores, restaurants, and in homes as well.
