Individuals, If You Please

By the time this paper is published, and you have the opportunity to read these words, the annual school election of Farmington Township School District will be a thing of the past. But as this is being written, the balloting is still in progress, and the results are anybody's guess.

Each member of the School Board was elected only because the residents and parents of this community felt him qualified to represent their interests in school affairs. Without that confidence of the voters he could never have been elected to serve in the capacity of a school trustee. As such, it is up to him to operate as an individual, carefully weighing each matter that may come to his attention, and after determining, to his own satisfaction, the action that will best serve the district and prove most worthwhile to the children, it is his duty to cast his vote that way. Each member of the Board was elected individually, and therefore must serve individually, not as a member of a group.

We in Farmington are primarily interested in the maintenance and advancement of our system. This we hope to accomplish through unified effort—but guided by the thoughts, decisions and actions of five board members.

The campaign preceding this election was characterized by some unpleasantness and personal attack. This is not the answer to any problem—and certainly not the basis for a progressive school board. We do not want so-called cliques directing the actions of the board, nor do we desire new cliques to spring up.

With each member of our school board conducting himself as a representative of the voters, and working for the children of the district, we are assured of a board justly deserving our confidence and cooperation.

A Share In Victory

"Lucky Seventh", the current War Loan has been termed, and for those who believe in luck the phrase has an appeal. But we prefer to bank on certainty, and certain it is that by oversubscribing the loan, Americans will be providing means to hasten complete Victory.

In a statement on V-E Day General Eisenhower said that the victory in Europe belonged to every citizen of the United Nations "who has done his or her duty whether in uniform or in civilian life." In the United States, the purchase of war bonds constituted an important part of that duty, and those who had purchased without stint felt particularly rewarded. Now opportunity is offered to obtain a specific share in the Pacific victory.

No one can know as well as the lads who do the fighting, the vital necessity of sufficient, first-grade military equipment, such as has been furnished through war loan funds. When we have examples before us of men returned from the battle zones, or now home after liberation from prison camps, who are putting all their money into war bonds, we cannot do otherwise than follow the course they have set.

How can we do less than subscribe every available dollar to meet the goal of the Seventh War Loan?

BITS OF THIS AND THAT

By ELMER T. FOCKLINGTON

MY CRITIC

There is some one who knows it, whatever I do, Who knows if it's perfectly honest and true; And if I am tricky, dishonest and mean Every act that I do by that some one is seen. From friend from foe I may hide what I am But there's one who will know it if I am a sham. And he'll know it as well if I'm honest and clean As he will if I'm crooked, deceitful and mean. 'Twould hurt me to feel that by others I'm blamed But 'twould hurt me far worse and would make me ashamed. If this some one I've mentioned took notice and felt That all was not right in some deal I had dealt. Yes, I want to retain the respect of this one Who knows what I do just as soon as it's done; And I don't want to feel, "There's a knave or an ass" Whenever I happen to look in the glass.

Old you know that Michigan's lagging campaign for sale of E-bonds would go over the top in 24 hours if you and I and other citizens transferred just 7 cents out of every dollar in savings deposits into war bonds?

We didn't either.

Seven cents, already saved, isn't going to cost anybody anything. Invested in war bonds, it will earn 23 1/3 per cent additional return in 10 years. That's the astonishing bargain. The world's best investment, of the E-bond.

We were interested in a warning from the senate finance committee, of which Senator Arthur Vandenberg is a member, that inflationary pressure has reached an all-time high. The amount of money deposited in banks is tremendous. Louis J. Nims, commissioner of revenue, predicts another buying surge in Michigan as soon as reconversion is completed and consumer goods are available at stores.

King Ruled Three Years
 From 1532 to 1535 Munster was dominated by the Anabaptists, the sect of infant baptism. John of Leiden, leader of the sect, made it part of his short-lived kingdom of Zion, naming himself as sovereign. Difficulties between citizens and martial bishops kept Munster in turmoil. Opposition to church rule of public affairs eventually cost the city almost all of its liberties. Citizens got control of local administration in 1603 when the domain of the bishopric was transferred to civil use.

Looking Back Through The Enterprise Files

TEN YEARS AGO (June 27, 1935)

Himmelspach Completes Term

One of the most actively constructive and enjoyable six months terms the Farmington Exchange Club has completed in recent years will end July 1. Throughout the first six months of 1935, more interest has been taken in the club due to its increased activity, the members have shown more enthusiasm in the projects undertaken by the club and there has been a marked improvement in the attendance of the regular luncheon meetings. To Joseph Himmelspach retiring president, should go a good deal of the credit.

Scientific World Mourns Loss Of Dr. Grace

Deep regret in the scientific world mingled with a sorrowing of his Michigan "home-folk" as last rites were said in Thursday morning for Dr. Serpius P. Grace, Farmington's most distinguished native son. His death on Sunday in the East came almost three years to the day after he had returned to Farmington to be lectured at a dinner in his honor.

Mrs. Schroeder To Have Transfusion

Mrs. Louis F. Schroeder, of Farmington, who for the past six weeks has been suffering from streptococcal infection of the ankle in St. Joseph's Hospital, Pontiac, is expected to return to her home at 2324 Grand River within a short time. It was expected that Mrs. Schroeder would be submitted to a transfusion of a pint of blood today to speed her recovery.

FIVE YEARS AGO (June 13, 1940)

Supervisor Coe To Resign Office

Supervisor Arthur Coe of Farmington Township Board will turn in his Michigan "home-folk" as last rites were said in Thursday morning for Dr. Serpius P. Grace, Farmington's most distinguished native son. His death on Sunday in the East came almost three years to the day after he had returned to Farmington to be lectured at a dinner in his honor.

Warner And Mrs. Lee Re-Elected

Howard M. Warner and Mrs. Florence E. Lee will continue as members of the Farmington School Board, District No. 5, following Monday, June 18, in a spirited election. Conducted for the first time under the petition system, the election drew a large vote. The election was preceded by rather heavy campaigning on the parts of all four candidates and the good-sized vote attested to the interest which the electors held in the balloting.

Baptist Summer School To Open June 17

The annual Baptist Vacation Bible School will open Monday, June 17, according to Rev. Gilbert Miles, Baptist pastor. The school will last two weeks and will conclude Friday, June 25, with a program at 11 a.m. church at which time demonstrations will be given of the work done during the two weeks.

er buying surge in Michigan as soon as reconversion is completed and consumer goods are available at stores.

In the meanwhile, why not buy more bonds?

We wonder what the late Governor Luren D. Dickinson would say, or think, about the coming Governors' Conference at Mackinac Island. You will recall that Dickinson smashed the front pages with a lurid description of "high life" and "sin" at a governors' conference which he attended in the East.

Forty-three of the forty-eight state governors have already accepted the invitation of Governor Harry F. Kelly to attend the Mackinac Island sessions, June 30-July 4. Reservations were exhausted several weeks ago at the Grand Hotel.

Conference rules limit admission to duly accredited persons—governors and members of their staffs and press and radio representatives. As it is possible that President Truman will be present—arrangements have been already made to house 35 secret service agents! —the national spotlight will be on Michigan June 30-July 4. To be announced soon: A new summer home for the governor at Mackinac.

If there's any "sin" and other scandalous goings-on at the 1935 Governors' Conference, we hope to know about it—and tell you about it. Why? We'll be there!

The Michigan Tourist Council, newly recreated by the state legislature and appointed by the Governor, has good reasons to be concerned over postwar prestige of
