See Farther
As everyone who has climbed a hill or mountain knows, the higher up you go, the farther you can see.
Standing on level land, or in a boat on water the limit of vision, the horizon, is about three miles away. Say the Better Vision Institute. If you go up in an airplane, at 1,000 feet you can see (if your eyes are up to snuff) about 39 miles. At 2,000 feet the seeing distance is 53 miles, and at 5,000 feet, 87 miles. Range of vision is computed by multiplying the square root of the altitude by 1¼ miles.

Help Cleaner
Pin on a note to help your cleaner identify spots. He can analyze any stain, but it's simpler to be told just what the stain is. Especially mark tea, coffee, fruit juice, catsup and mustard stains.
