

Wetting Shoes
Use a minimum of water for shoes that take soap and water cleaning. Remember to wipe them with a damp cloth instead of dunking in a basin. Keep your drying shoes away from heat and sunlight, as both tend to harden and crack shoes.

Training Station
The hundreds of buildings that comprise the great U. S. Navy Training station in northern Idaho are scattered over an area of more than 30 square miles and are connected by approximately 57 miles of streets.

WEST POINT PARK

By L. A. Ault

Mr. and Mrs. George Middlewood, Farmington Road, left Friday to spend the week end in Buffalo, New York.

The Armstrongs of Norfolk and Mayfield, left this Monday for a vacation trip through northern Michigan.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sidelinker have returned from a visit with relatives in Flint. Their granddaughter, Miss Gloria Sidelinker, has also returned from a vacation spent with relatives in Connecticut.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Tallman of Mayfield Ave. made the trip to Flint and back Friday. They were accompanied by Mr. Tallman's stepmother, Mrs. Mary Tallman, who was returning to her home after a visit of several weeks with relatives in this vicinity.

Freda Ault was visiting in Highland Park Tuesday.

Mrs. M. E. Ault, accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. Edwin L. Johnson and the Misses Marion Lee and Anne Johnson, visited Mrs. Edward Stromski in Wayne Wednesday. Mrs. Stromski's husband, well-known in this locality, is at present in very poor health and a patient under observation at the Wayne Clinic.

Telephones were installed in a number of West Point Park homes this last week. Others are anxiously waiting their turn to get service.

Many folks are stopping by to inspect the cotton growing in Mrs. Emerson Ault's vegetable garden. It is an attractive plant and the cotton bolls most interesting. Victory gardeners, most of whom are now out of work because of reconversion or the strike situation, have been greatly disappointed as well as righteously incensed because of recent deprivations of thoughtless youngsters. In an age when "Food Fights for Freedom" and when cupboard shelves are likely to be somewhat bare if their owner has not exercised vigorously with hoe and cut-worm dope, it is a pity that tomato fights must be waged all over acre lots, melons still green miserably cut to bits, cabbages thrown to the high ways and bean vines ruthlessly destroyed. If hunger becomes prevalent this winter, a certain lawless element among the youth of this community should be obliged to experience its pangs. Incidentally, it is not difficult to discover the identity of culprits and prosecutions may take place.

Relatives in West Point Park have received announcement of the birth of an eight pound six ounce son last Wednesday, Sept. 11th to Mr. and Mrs. Johnson Porter, near New London, Ohio. Mrs. Porter is the former June Ault and is the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Ault.

Jimmy and Judy Muir, Shady-side Ave., have completely recovered from their chickenpox and seem not to have communicated the disease to any of their playmates. This last week Jimmy entered the kindergarten of Pierson School.

Miss Dolores Ault, who graduated from Farmington High School last June, has now enrolled for post graduate work.

Miss Dolores Vinson of Detroit was out this last week to visit with her parents, the Vinsons, on Mayfield Ave. Mrs. Vinson, the mother, has been quite ill.

Mrs. Nelson and her small sons of Norfolk and Hubbard have been on the sick list but are now much better and the eldest of the two boys has been enrolled in the kindergarten.

REPORT ON THE RUSSIANS—
W. L. White, W. L. White went to Russia with Eric Johnston when the Soviet government put aside its long-standing rule of secrecy and allowed these American visitors to go to the places they wanted to go, ask the questions they wanted to ask, and get the answers to those questions. He saw Russia from the Caspian Sea to the Finnish front, and from the depths of Siberia to an American air base in the Ukraine. The story of his journey takes us to the best-known of the great countries of the world.

This is first of all an exciting narrative. Superb reporter that he is, White has made the most of the drama, the conflict — and the humor — that were the constant accompaniment of this tour of Connecticut Yankees in the Socialist fatherland. We meet the Russians, high and low, as they go about their daily tasks, as they argue with the visiting Americans, as they explain the part they are playing in the Soviet scheme of things. And we see the farms and factories the battlefields and boom towns, where communist theories get the acid test of practice.

The picture of Russia and the Russians that Mr. White presents is an unvarnished one. He has neither lightened the dark spots of Russian disregard for individual life and liberty nor obscured the great accomplishments of the Soviet economy in war and peace. This is a book that we need now if we are to see clearly and think straight about Russia and its people.

THE ART OF THINKING — Ernest Dimmet. A witty, kindly and very wise continental gentleman, with a hint of Voltaire in him, holds an informal conversation with the reader. The result is a vivid enthusiasm for straight thinking.

Ernest Dimmet is a Frenchman, — but he writes in English with a style so clear and humorous that it tickles the palate of the mind.

The shadow of the textbook does not darken its pages, but in them the educator and the parent will find a small gold mine of useful lessons.

Mr. Dimmet sets forth deftly helps to thought which in his long career as scholar, writer and preacher, he has found useful. By clearly showing us how to arrange the data in our minds, he gives us a real recipe for becoming as happy as — and perhaps much wiser than — kings. The final chapter contains a brilliant discussion of the nature of creative thought. Though we may never set pen to paper we may all of us be more or less creative in our mental processes.

The book is intended for average minds equally remote from genius which knows no mental obstacles and from stupidity to which everything is an obstacle.

When the last page of this fascinating book is turned the wings of ambition have been attached to the reader's mind.

THE PATTERN OF SOVIET POWER — Edgar Snow. Now that the war in Europe is over and the struggle in the Pacific is entering its decisive stages, it becomes more and more urgent that Russia's aims in the post-war world should be more clearly understood. Edgar Snow, author of People On Our Side, Red Star Over China, and Battle For Asia, here interprets the actualities and the aspirations of Soviet Russia's role in Europe and the world in terse brilliant and evocative language, he outlines the reasons for Russia's insistence upon secure European and Asiatic borders. He reports, from first-hand observation, the program the Soviets have formulated in Poland, the Balkans, Germany and on their Mongolian frontier. He describes the Russian plan for de-Hitlerizing Nazi Germany and the measures taken to prevent the creation of an antagonistic Poland. He discusses the relationship between the Soviet Union and the Kuomintang Government of China, Katschek, particularly in view of Russia's probable participation in the war against Japan. His chapters on the political leaders of Russia are among the most revealing in his book.

This book is a timely and important contribution to one of the most vital problems of our time.

Pure Organic Compound
Sugar is the pure organic compound produced in largest quantity in the United States, according to Chemical and Engineering News. Production of sugar is 22 times that of total production of coal-tar intermediates, while 75 times more sugar is produced than isopropyl alcohol. Other pure organic compounds produced in lesser quantities in the United States for use in industry are aniline, phthalic anhydride, formaldehyde, phenol, coal-tar dyes, and glycerol.

Feeder Hotels
Before the war less than 5 per cent of the nation's hotel business was handled by tourist camps. These small establishments are expected to provide much greater competition in postwar years, and some hotel operators, principally in the West and Southwest, have already begun to prepare by buying "outpost inn" to use as "feeders" for their main establishments.
