Brides Make Top Buyers

A study of consumer purchasing made recently reports that the bridal market represents more than $4 billion in annual retail sales.

The total represents spending on major and lesser household furnishings, plus such other items as luggage, tableware, and clothing, said the Sindlinger & Co. research department.

Sindlinger screened more than 31,000 households either by direct call or telephone interviews questioning 613 first-married newly-weds.

It concluded that the bridal market accounted for $1.9 billion alone in home furnishings and appliance products from electric broiler, blender, dishwasher and furniture to wall to wall carpeting and electric blanket.

Prefer Spray Over Flu Shots

Dead flu viruses sprayed directly into the respiratory tract are superior to standard shots in protecting a person against influenza, a University of Florida doctor reports.

Results of tests on more than 2,000 prisoners showed the spray gives greater protection during a flu epidemic, shorter time of illness for those that become ill, lowered incidence of side effects and greater ease of administration than the shots.

Dr. Robert H. Waldman, post-doctoral fellow in the department of microbiology at the university, gathered his data during the Asian flu epidemic that hit the Florida State Prison at Raiford in January.

The spray was 79 per cent effective against the epidemic that struck the prison, whereas flu shots were only 23 per cent effective.
