

Experimental Repair Is Success

LANSING -- A maintenance experiment that involved closure of a section of Detroit's John C. Lodge Freeway for 11 hours was termed "an unqualified success" by the State Highway Commission.

Closing of a two-mile section of the northbound freeway recently enabled workers to make repairs that ordinarily would have been spread over seven weeks.

Not a single accident that could be attributed to the closure occurred while workmen made repairs in the early hours of Sunday, June 9, between Milwaukee Ave. and Chicago Blvd.

Success of the project encouraged state, Wayne County and city road officials to begin studies in preparation for brief closures of other sections of Detroit's freeway network for maintenance, said Henrik E. Stutz, state highway director.

"Knowledge gained from these closures will be of great value when it becomes necessary to resurface the Lodge and Edsel Ford freeways," he said.

Some 320,000 vehicles use the two freeways on an average day.

The pilot project demonstrated a safer means of repair than the usual system of shutting off one lane at a time. It also is more convenient for the traveling public, since repairs are made at a period of low traffic volume.

Repairs cost 80 per cent less than under the usual maintenance system, although these are offset by additional costs of lighting, temporary signing and pay for Detroit police assigned to direct traffic to alternate routes.

Termite Tips

NEW YORK--Stepped on anything lately? It's the time of year for termites. That's the reason for the question.

Dr. Ralph E. Heal, executive secretary of the National Pest Control Association, says spring's the time to watch for such mites. He says you shouldn't panic if you see one or more. The bugs won't make off with your rafters overnight. But if you see one or more, call the exterminator.
