PAMPHLET WILL AID IN CITY PLANNING

A brochure describing the method of converting an alley into an easement has been prepared by the staff of the Detroit City Plan Commission and is now ready for distribution to those who are interested in doing away with alleys and obtaining more yard space.

In the publication entitled "You Can Get More Yard Space," the City Plan Commission presents in easy steps the method of enlarging recreation, work, or garden space in back yards by converting unnecessary alleys into easements. The brochure explains the means of getting Commission approval for the elimination of alleys and so making way for development of the area thus freed for other uses.

Questions on the method of removing refuse, the placement of utility poles and other problems are answered in the pamphlet which may be obtained by writing to the Detroit City Plan Commission, Ninth Floor Griswold Building, or by calling Cherry 3660.

FARMERS INVITED TO BUILDING CONFERENCE

Michigan farmers who are contemplating building new structures or remodeling old ones on their farms will be able to pick up many useful suggestions at the annual farm building conference to be held at Michigan State College December 5 and 6. All interested farmers and their families are invited to attend.

Answers to many of the problems confronting farmers when they attempt to build will be presented by Hugh Curtis, managing editor of Successful Farming, who is scheduled to speak at 10 a.m. on the opening day. Prefabrication, its advantages and drawbacks, will be reviewed by R. Y. Evans, of the Evans Products Company, Detroit.

J. D. Long, president of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers, will discuss farm building designs on the afternoon of the first day. He will then lead a panel discussion on building plans, building materials, plumbing and sanitation, electrical equipment and the farm kitchen.

Among several subjects scheduled for Thursday, the second day, will be a preview of the plans Michigan State College is making to promote farm building improvement in Michigan.

Many farmers, lumber dealers and other building supply company representatives, as well as carpenters and contractors, are expected to attend the conference. The gathering is sponsored by the M.C. department of engineering and the Michigan Farm Building Advisory committee.

Adler Reports at First Hand From Poland

The story of Poland destroyed and rising again is the gist of Philip A. Adler's first hand reports.

Mr. Adler finds Warsaw 80% destroyed but not without hope; inflation rampant but being gradually brought under control.

He notes the strange contrasts of stores filled with articles not even to be seen in London and Paris, but not a vestige of transportation visible.

He tries to find old friends and finds them vanished without trace; whole streets and sections have disappeared and with them 12 millions of Poland's population.

You will want to read these articles for the eye-witness information they contain about what happened to Poland under the Nazis; what is happening today and what may be expected in the future, for as Mr. Adler points out, on Poland depends the peace and welfare of all Central Europe.
