

"MICHIGAN AND THE OLD NORTHWEST" — LaSalle in Southern Michigan

Way of Iroquois, the party crossed southern Michigan to the Detroit River.

Michigan's inclement April Dawn of April 3... the men found clothes frozen.

A fire was risked, bringing not Iroquois, but friendly Mascouton warriors.

At Niagara La Salle learned of loss of Griffon and of supply ship from France.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubenette of Detroit were Sunday afternoon visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Lances, Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Johnson were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McLaughlin of Detroit.

Archie

COMIC FAVORITE
OF MILLIONS

Archie is coming to town.

Freckled, confused and lovable Archie and his friends—sweet Betty, faithful Jughead, and glamorous Veronica—are the youngsters in the newest and already one of the greatest comic strips.

Archie has all the troubles and tribulations, all the excitement and fun of all high school kids. Troubles, yes! Wouldn't you, too, if there were two girls in your life? In Archie, Bob Montana portrays the turmoil of the teen-agers, with fun galore for everybody who is—or who ever has been—teen, years old.

NEWS FROM FARM-BELT CIVIC ASSOCIATION

DID YOU KNOW...

That membership cards for the Farm-Belt Civic Association have been designed and will be ready for distribution shortly?

That nominations for directors from the eastern half of our territory have been made?

That Mr. Walter Dixon, Commissioner of Scouting for Livonia Township, has been given the honor of receiving a Scout's Training Award for completing five years service and the required training? The award was made at the Detroit Area Council's Annual Fellowship meeting. Mr. Dixon, a member of the Farm-Belt Civic Association, has been active in scouting for the past ten years.

That an account with the Farmington State Bank has been established for our Association?

That the Palmer family, 20015 Meridian Road, are together again for the first time since the beginning of the war? Sgt. Albert Palmer is home on a two week furlough. Three of his brothers have but recently been discharged from service. The two older boys served with the Navy, Jack for 22 months as an Aviation Radio Technician, and, West, for 20 months as a Coxswain. West, during nine months in the South Pacific participated in the first landings on Okinawa.

Next week promises to be a highly entertaining program, with Wendell Brown in charge. Earl Chamberlain, secretary to Senator Homer Ferguson during part of his term in Washington, and present secretary to Federal Judge Ernest O'Brien will talk on Abraham Lincoln.

Soap Jelly

A jar of soap jelly made from scraps melted in hot water will do more than save soap. It makes it easier to wash as you go when baking, because you can just dip a brush into the jelly and clean up odd pieces without bothering to get out the dishpan.

Men as Subjects for Books

Handing Shorts
Usually shorts hang best by their waistbands. If there is too much fabric thickness, pin only the back, letting the back and front separate for quick drying. Hang socks by their feet. Lay rayon hose flat on towel, away from direct heat and sunlight.

Liver's Functions Studied
Proof that the pancreas secretes, in addition to insulin, another life essential substance which enables the body to utilize fat just as insulin enables it to utilize sugars and starches, was demonstrated recently.

Hard Roll Filling
Here's an excellent use for hard rolls: Cut tops from hard dinner rolls, scoop out centers and fill with leftover meat mixture. Replace top. Pour gravy over rolls and heat in oven.

With Howard Thayer in charge of last week's Exchange Club meeting, the Club members were treated to a dissertation on "Water," given by Rev. Russell W. Sawyer of the Franklin Community Church. The subject was "thoroughly covered, and provided considerable amusement."

Also greatly enjoyed was a letter read by Tony Crier Emory Hutton, expounding the writer's view of the 30-hour week, which he strongly advocated for everyone.

W. J. Prisk will speak on "Industrial Relations" at the meeting on February 20, Roy Plimton being in charge of the program. All members, and their wives, as well as numerous guests who have been invited, are looking forward to the annual dinner dance to be given at Botsford Tavern on Wednesday evening, February 27. A gala evening is anticipated.

FEW PHEASANTS

According to the Michigan Conservation Department Michigan pheasant hunters may as well become reconciled to the fact that next fall's shooting won't be much better generally than during 1945's poor season. In good pheasant areas, such as the Thumb, the prospects are brighter.

"Two favorable breeding seasons in succession may be necessary to restore pheasant populations to the high levels of the early 1940's," according to Durward L. Allen, conservation department biologist. Allen, who is in charge of the department's wildlife experiment station at Rose Lake, points out that a wet period in the climatic cycle has been responsible for widespread breeding-season losses in pheasants with drastic reductions of bird populations from New England to the Dakotas, and that the end of the wet cycle isn't in sight.

Intensive field work at the station shows pheasant numbers to be at the lowest point in seven years. Groups of three to five hens are sometimes seen, but cocks for the most part have been solitary. Experimental food patches of corn have seldom been visited. Food has been plentiful and readily available to the birds. The spring breeding stock will be the smallest yet seen at Rose Lake since 1941. A single good breeding season, however, may do the trick in the state's better pheasant areas.

The department is pushing plans to step up production of pheasant eggs and birds at the Mason game farm and is encouraging hunters to press the winter campaign against foxes. Organized hunts are gathering momentum.

MORE YOUNG FOXES

The state's fox population is planning a bigger and better crop of young foxes for 1946. Field men at Rose Lake recently followed 13 fox trails, 10 of which were double tracks. The breeding season for foxes is February and March. This information comes from the Michigan Department of Conservation.

Rose Lake foxes spend much of their time hunting rabbits and meadow mice. Several rabbit kills have been found and nearly every trail shows abundant evidence of mousing. One animal dug for mice 15 times in half a mile, and another tried 14 times in the same distance. It is difficult to determine from tracks when an attempt succeeded. Meadow mice are particularly abundant on the Rose Lake area this winter and probably constitute the most available food supply for all carnivores. According to Darrell Knuts, a department trapper-instructor, the fox is not the efficient rabbit-catcher he is credited with being. He says that for each rabbit caught, half a dozen get away, judging by records of the snow. He believes, also, that the fox is considerably less successful with pheasants than with rabbits. A fox is probably not much more apt to catch rabbits than a hard-hunting dog.
