Valentine exchanges were in order at our schools and at little home affairs all over our community this last week.

Mason is the Methodist evangelist, who spoke several times at the Neighborhood Church and also at the Clarenceville M. E. Church last spring. Friends here hope he may arrive soon for another stay in this locality.

The Neighborhood Church was open as usual at 7 p.m. Sunday evening. A song service was followed by a devotional program in which half a dozen persons took an active part. A service that should be both profitable and interesting is being planned for next Sunday evening.

The Sunshine Sisters held their annual Valentine exchange at the regular meeting in the Neighborhood Church last Wednesday afternoon. The usual devotional and Sunbeam service preceded, most of the ladies making interesting or amusing contributions. Time was taken to sing "Happy Birthday" for Mrs. Charles Armstrong whose birthday had been celebrated.

The FLOP He Didn't Count On

Mr. D. was walking briskly to work on a crisp, snowy morning when sk-i-d! His legs went from under him. Broken hip. Months off his feet. But insurance covered everything.

U.S. Employment Service Lists Jobs

More than 1000 "selected" job openings in various Michigan communities are on file at every local office of the United States Employment Service in the state, Edward L. Cushman, State Director stated today.

The new list of "selected" openings is available because the particular skills they require are not immediately available in the communities in which the jobs are listed.

Included in the selected list is a wide variety of opportunities, many of them calling for high skills, for college degrees, or for specialized talents.

Sending this list of opportunities for employment to all local offices in Michigan, makes those positions available to all veterans and other workers who can qualify anywhere in the state. Cushman said.

Among the openings are those for: accountants; auditors; architects; chemists; editors of trade papers; compositors; engineers of assorted types; factory layout men; machinery and tool designers; plant engineer; draftsmen; radiators; design engineers; librarians; pharmacists; social workers; play ground director; nurses; bacteriologists; floral designer; detailer; heating and ventilating draftsmen; dental checker; die checker; x-ray technician; laboratory technician; physical education instructor; government radio operator (2nd class license); dairy husbandman; (show); stock clerk; telegraph operator; stenographers and typists and many, many others.

Pull "information upon wages, hours, specifications and locality of each of these jobs may be secured in this area at the Northwest Office of the United States Employment Service located at 10785 Grand River.

ed a few days previous. The next meeting of the Sunshine Sisters will be held in the Neighborhood Church on Wednesday afternoon, Feb. 27th. This date will be Longfellow's birthday and ladies are urged to bring for the Sunbeam session quotations from that poet.
