Invented Book Matches
The handy, efficient blook match was invented in 1892 by Joshus Pussy; a Philadelphia attbrney, who whiled away waits between clients by sulpping out matches with his office shears, and cooking the ingredicties for the match heads on his strong. Pussy materials what he stove. Pusey patented what he called "flexible matches" the same year he created them, but they did not appear commercially until 1895.
