

REGULAR ARMY CAN FURNISH SECURITY

Captain F. A. Trumpf, local Recruiting Officer, stated today that the new Regular Army can now offer you security beyond comparison of any job you may now hold in civilian life. The man that enlists or reenlists in the Regular Army is guaranteed this material security:

1. He is assured of his pay each month at the following rate:
7th Grade (private) $50.00.
6th Grade (private first class) $54.00.
5th Grade (Corporal) $56.00.
4th Grade (Sergeant) $78.00.
3rd Grade (Staff Sergeant) $96.
2nd Grade (Technical Sergeant) $114.00.
1st Grade (Master Sergeant, 1st Sergeant) $138.00.

With a 5 per cent increase on base pay for each three (3) years' prior service, up to a maximum total of a 50 per cent increase after 30 years service.

2. Commutation of Ration: An enlisted man assigned to and present with a unit having messing facilities, if authorized (which is usually the instance of married men who have their wives or families with them) is allowed a monetary allowance in lieu of messing with his organization. Also, an enlisted man on authorized furlough draws 65¢ per day while on furlough away from his organization.

3. Monetary Allowance in Lieu of Quarters and Family Allowance:

BARRACKS FIRED BY PRISONERS

CAMP McQUADE, CALIF. — Official U.S. Signal Corps Photo — Smoke and flames from barracks fired by prisoners during a disturbance last week at Camp McQuade Disciplinary Barracks, near Watsonville, California. The prisoners, behind hastily erected barricades, used clouds, stones and timbers to prevent fire fighters and guards from entering this section of the compound. Resistance was finally quelled using tear gas, but without resort to firearms or serious injury. By that time, however, a total of thirty-six buildings were completely demolished.

for Dependents: Family allowance for dependents is a measure for the duration plus six months, except that such an allowance will continue throughout any period of enlistment contracted prior to July 1, 1946.

4. Retirement Benefits: After his own request with annual retirement pay computed as follows:

not less than 20 years' active service, a soldier may be retired at 2½ per cent of the average annual rate of enlisted pay (including longevity pay) which he received during the 5 months immediately preceding retirement, multiplied by the number of years of his active service not in excess of 29, or, he may retire at three quarters of his base plus longevity pay after 30 years' service.

5. National Service Life Insurance: The benefits of National Service Life Insurance Act are applicable to all persons in active military service. Premium rates for such insurance compare more than favorably with like coverage by commercial companies.

6. G.I. Bill of Rights: Under the provisions of the G.I. Bill of Rights an enlisted man is entitled to many benefits. The benefit most widely discussed and of most potential advantage to the young men is that of education. All men, regardless of age, occupation, or previous education are entitled to up to one year refresher or retraining course if they meet the requirements. An ex-service-man can attend any approved school provided it offers the courses he needs and he can meet the school's requirements. If he wants to continue his elementary high school, or college education—he can. He can attend a trade or technical or business school of any kind, or get apprentice or industrial training in any trade he selects. If he wants to go to a medical or law school, he can do that. And if doesn't have to be a school in his own state, either.

The Federal Government, through the Veterans Administration, pays to the school he attends: all tuition fees, library fees, laboratory fees and other usual school expenses, up to $500 for an ordinary school year. This does not, however, include board, lodging, and travel expense. To help meet the cost of these, he is paid: $45.00 a month if he has no dependents, or $90.00 a month if he has one or more dependents.

7. Medical and Dental Care: To the man presently in the Army, medical and dental services are provided without charge, and are accepted pretty much as a matter of course. However, they are important, especially as a man grows older. Families of men in the Army are entitled to these services wherever facilities permit. Doctors, dentists and hospital bills make a pretty sizeable dent in the average civilian's yearly income — it takes just about one good hospital bill to ruin a budget. A fair average value of such service as estimated by the Office of the Surgeon General is about $100.00 per year for a single man and about $250.00 per year for a married man.

8. Food and Clothing: The same quality and quantity of food as prepared and served in the Army would cost at least $60.00 per month if obtained other than through the facilities of an Army mess.

The cost of the Army of the clothing and shoes initially issued to an enlisted man plus cost of a year's replacements furnished due to normal wear averages $215.00 dependent on his type of duty and place of station.

Does your present position afford you such security? Why not inquire in person at the local recruiting station, 52½ West Huron Street, Pontiac, Michigan, or have a representative call upon you at your convenience.

Glove Care

Care of ladies' gloves is almost as important as care of shoes if they are to give their maximum amount of service. When putting on gloves, each finger should be "worked" down separately. In removing gloves, first loosen the fingertips by pulling them slightly. They may then be turned inside out and wiped off over the hand, but they should be turned right-side-out and the fingers smoothed out before being put away.
