In Peace . . .

as in war, America's Press has served as a Voice of Freedom — a Guardian of Liberty.

In recognition of this service, October 1 to 8 has been set aside as National Newspaper Week.

Never in the history of any country have its people enjoyed such freedom of expression. Our progress as a people and as a nation has come as a result of a free, unhampered press. It has not been without challenge. Our history is full of blocks against man's right to print what he sees and believes in. Before our Constitution was written, editors fought at gun points for their ideals and rights.

In establishing our Democracy, our forefathers wrote into the First Amendment of the Constitution, the provision for freedom of speech, of press, of religion and the right of assembly. As our Constitution is the people, so is our free press the people.

The record of America's press throughout the years has been one of service. Whether a large metropolitan daily or a small "grass roots" weekly—the results are the same. The record stands for all to see.

In spite of shortages, trying conditions and endless hours, America's Press drove on to do its part in winning the war. Its unprecedented coverage of war news gave the American people a far more accurate and informative picture of what its fighters were doing, than any press in the world. Its support of the Seventh War Loan campaign reached the staggering total of 62 million contributed lines. Thousands of weekly papers sent copies free to their community's sons overseas. They backed 100% every local drive from the American Red Cross to the community scrap drives. They gave of their time, of their space, as a public service, so that we might live again in peace.

National Newspaper Week, 1946, is more than just recognition of a job well done. It is a dedication of a free and unshackled press. It is a moment's pause in our endless march for something better. A moment to survey the real meaning of a free press.

The future peace of the world, the strengthening of our democracy, the improvement of our community are challenges we must not ignore. You can depend on your newspaper.

We rededicate ourselves on this 3rd day of October, 1946, as a public servant — your Voice of Freedom — your Guardian of Liberty.

October 16 . . .

is a deadline. If you call yourself an American—if you recognize your responsibility to yourself and your country—if you are appreciative of your rights and privileges—you will register before October 16.

Everyone living in the City of Farmington must register before October 16, regardless of your previous registration or voting record. This is the new law.

If you live in Farmington Township it is not necessary for you to re-register.

Thus far only about 125 of the eligible voters in the City of Farmington have registered. In other words, if the election was held today, only about 125 out of 750 Farmington citizens would be allowed to vote.

Is this a representative number? Is this the way you want it?

The people of Michigan on November 5 will elect the state's officials. They will vote on a number of vitally important questions. This is your business! It is up to you to cast your vote. You can't do it unless you register before October 16!

Register now at the office of the City Clerk. Don't put it off!

By GENE ALLEMAN

The controversial sales tax diversion amendment, sponsored originally by mayors of Michigan big cities and now supported by public school teachers, is due for a showdown in about 30 days.

On November 5 the registered citizens of Michigan—those who qualify by registration laws to cast a ballot—will make a fateful decision.

This column has presented both sides of the issue pertaining to diversion of one-third of the state sales tax revenue to local governments, plus freezing of a state aid formula into the state constitution that would remove public school appropriations from the legislature.

It is becoming increasingly apparent that public school teachers, caught in the post-war inflation, are badly underpaid and are in need of better salaries. Kim Sigler and Murray D. Van Wagoner will not dispute that fact.

It is also becoming more and more apparent that the voters has not to give way if Michigan voters authorize a $270,000,000 bonus for Michigan War veterans and also authorize a bumper state aid formula for the schools and cities. If both of these proposals can be put into effect without badly disrupting state services, which for the most part involve people in home town communities, has been a subject of considerable concern with administrative officials at Lansing.

Democratic nominee Van Wagoner has referred recently to the likelihood of the two proposals being approved by the voters on November 5. This likelihood, he warns, increases the need of Michigan having an experienced state administrator in the governor's chair to know how to handle the new problem.

State Treasurer D. Hale Baker, who is nominated for the same office on the G. O. P. ticket, has sharpened his pencils recently and arrived at an estimate that the $270,000,000 veterans' bonus would require the additional expenditure from the state general fund of approximately $17,500,000 a year for many years to come. This amount, significantly enough, is a little more than the surplus accrued in the general fund during the 1935-36 fiscal year after all disbursements had been made.

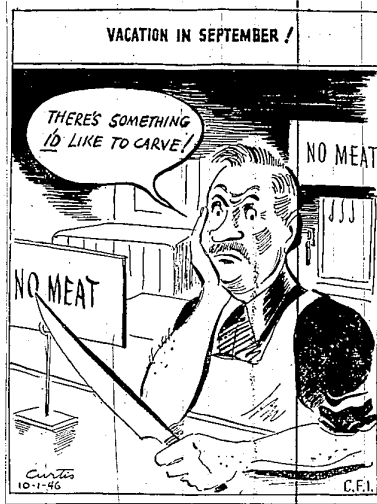

Being assured that the office of John D. Morrison, State Auditor General, indicates a year's surplus of approximately $16,200,000. Had the veterans' bonus been in effect at an estimate that the $270,000,000 bonus would have been no surplus at all.

It is generally concluded that the veterans' bonus (Ballot Proposal No. 3) has a much better chance of being approved by the voters than the sales tax diversion amendment (Ballot Proposal No. 2).

We have noted little if any attack on the bonus proposal. We have noted considerable controversy—pro and con—about the projected school aid and big city amendment to secure state money.

Therefore, when the latter issue is being considered on its merits it seems logical to take for granted that the bonus will be approved. Personally, we believe that such is the case.

If such is the case, you arrive automatically at a point where the much less talked about surplus-bonus does not exist, as the above reasoning indicates. Retail department store sales are currently running about 50 per cent over the same period one year ago—an astonishing fact, but nevertheless quite true. How much longer the post-war inflation boom will continue is anybody's guess, although government economists have been warning in consistent unison that a readjustment or recession is due sometime in 1947 and that we should get ready to see supply and demand prices in normal balance. It was actually not so long ago—during the Frank Murphy administration in fact—when the auditor general's office was buying red ink by the gallon. A treasury deficit grew into millions. Welfare demands were high, and people could not be left to starve. A deficiency was created by the welfare load, and Republican politicians began to make political capital out of the fact that the Democrats were running the state into debt and that it was high time the voters turned to Republicans to do something about it. Sure, it's right on the record.

VETERAN NEWS

When a Veteran is receiving out-patient treatment from a physician who has been authorized by the Veterans' Administration, and it becomes necessary for the physician to issue prescriptions, the veteran may have such prescriptions filled at a local drug store without cost to himself under a new plan.

The plan was formulated by the Veterans' Administration in cooperation with the Michigan State Pharmaceutical Association and the Office of Veterans' Affairs. It is immediately effective.

The plan operates as follows: The physician writes the prescription on his regular printed prescription blank which must contain the statement, "I am authorized to treat and prescribe for the above named Veterans' Administration patient"; the veteran may then take the prescription to any pharmacy participating and have it filled with no cost to himself, provided he does this within ten days; upon receiving the medication from the pharmacist, the veteran signs a receipt acknowledging delivery of the medication, which receipt also appears on the prescription blank.

The Pharmaceutical Association has contracted with the Veterans' Administration whereby the individual pharmacists bill the state association, which in turn is reimbursed by the Veterans' Administration. "It is necessary that each individual pharmacist who participates sign a contract; however, himself, and the Association agreeing to the plan. More than 2/3 of the Michigan pharmacists have already entered into the agreement and it is expected that the plan will be 100% operative in the state shortly.

All medicines and drugs as well as such items as syringes, hypodermic needles, atomizers, hot water bottles, icebags, bed-pans, etc., are included in the plan. Medication which can be issued on this prescription plan. A uniform price schedule has been adopted.

This plan eliminates the necessity for a veteran to pay for his own medication, and it makes out-patient treatment. It makes it easy for the veteran to have prescriptions filled at the pharmacy of his choice in his home community.

Shady Garden Flower In a screened greenhouse, the alfalfa plant makes a fairly showy garden flower, colorful and fragrant, with attractive racemes hanging 20 to 25 flowers open at a time in the height of bloom. As a hay plant it is not so showy, because alfalfa is mowed before it comes into full bloom. In a garden, too, it would not make a good display because it would be open to the attention of bees and there probably would be enough bees to spoil the show of flowers. Where alfalfa is grown as a feed crop, a brilliant show of alfalfa bloom is bad news for the farmer. Many open flowers are an indication of a light seed crop. The explanation is that the small blossoms of alfalfa stay bright and fragrant for several days—provided they have not been fertilized or pollinated. But as soon as the pollination is completed the flowers wither. It is longer needed to attract bees, and turn its attention to development of seed.

Among the bible citations in this message (Luke 11:13) "For whosoever exalteth himself shall be abased; and he that humbleth himself shall be exalted."

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p.455): "God selects for the highest service one who has grown into such fitness for it as renders any abuse of the mission, an impossibility.
