WASHINGTON DIGEST

must be firm. That is what negotiations so difficult. To convince the "others" we mean what we say, the United States must state its decisions firmly and emphatically, outline exactly what we will do and will not do; what we will permit Russia to do and not do. Our firmness has to depend on our words. We cannot use force, because we have not the force available to us.

This, however, does not mean we cannot succeed, because I am optimistically assured the Russians are weaker than we are. Although their military forces on the continent of Europe are stronger than those of the Allies, it is believed that the Russians lack the economic, physical or moral strength to engage in a major war and they know that in the long run the rest of the world can develop a greater power.

Publicly they have not the influence, either, to risk withdrawal from the United Nations. They know they could not take a sufficient number of other nations with them and thus, withdrawal would mean ostracism and threats from the rest of the world. This the Russians know as well as we do.

LEAVE DOOR OPEN FOR CO-OPERATION

Is there hope? My informants answer yes, but it will be a long haul.

This is why: Russia cannot fight a major war for five or ten years. She might seize all of Europe temporarily, but she realizes she could not hold it, that she would be defeated in the end.

It would take five to ten years for Russia to build a force strong enough to risk a war. Meanwhile America hopes and believes that if the door of co-operation is left open, and if by example the Russians see that co-operation will benefit Russia, not hurt her, internally and externally, then either the powers will change their policy, or the other friendly element will force them to do so.

This does not mean there will be a revolution in Russia. The loyalty to the present system or the power to enforce loyalty is too great. But it means that American statesmen feel they can hold back the non-co-operators without risk of war until Russia is convinced that she can benefit more through co-operative methods than by force of arms.

VETERANS NEWS

From the OFFICE OF VETERANS' AFFAIRS LANSING

WAA OFFICES ISSUE VETERANS PRIORITIES

Out of every 15 veterans of World War II in Michigan, one of them has placed an order to buy surplus goods from War Assets Administration.

The total number, 40,000 want more than 60,000 separate items. A total of 8,064 have been certified for items on the "set-aside" list, goods held for sale to veterans only and which can be purchased for personal as well as business uses. Included are many hard to get items.

In August, 1719 veterans were certified to buy items on the set-aside list for personal use and 606 wanted items for their businesses.

Many of these orders will be filled during the next month, during which the WAA will conduct an intensive drive to sell all the items on the set-aside list.

Items on which veterans get a priority next to that of the Federal government, include everything from airplanes to screwdrivers, 30-foot boats, soap, TNT, foodstuffs, clothing and utensils. Not all items will be available. One Michigan veteran wants to buy a General Sherman tank. Another inquired about the possibility of buying a whale.

Veterans may obtain certificates for purchase in nine Michigan cities in addition to the Regional office in Detroit. Two of these are on a full-time basis, 352 Keeler Bldg., Grand Rapids, and 320 Peoples Building and Loan Association Bldg., Saginaw.

Other offices and the days on which WAA certification officers are present are:

Ann Arbor, 219 East Ann St., Council of Veterans Affairs, Wed. 10 a.m. to 12 p.m.
Farmdale, 2254 Woodward Ave., Veterans Bureau, Monday.
Flint, 422 N. Saginaw St., U. S. Employment Service, Thursday.
Jackson, County Bldg., Soldiers and Sailors Relief Comm., Monday and Friday.
Lansing, 12A Michigan Theater Bldg., Veterans' Administration, Tuesday and Thursday.
Pontiac, 416 Empire State Bank Bldg., Wednesday and Thursday.
Royal Oak, 115 S. Troy Street, Tuesday.
