

New Sewing
Classes Will Begin April 10

A wide variety of sewing classes will begin the week of April 10 in seven Hudson stores, including Northland, Westland and Downtown. Registrations are now being taken in the pattern department of each store.

Everything from basic sewing to crewel and needlepoint will be offered. Other classes include intermediate sewing, fashion knits, tailoring, pants perfection, knitting and crocheting, a course to teach both men and women how to make a man's sports jacket and a special class for men.

With the exception of the pants perfection class which will meet two hours a week for three weeks, all classes meet two hours a week for six weeks.

Course In Retirement
Is For Young And Old

SISTER BENEDICTA MARY

Sr. Benedicta
Will Conduct
Student Tour

"Looking Ahead To Retirement" is the name of a new course being offered this spring at the YWCA, 25940 Grand River, Detroit. The course is for men and women of all ages. It is designed to give helpful information and direction for retirement security to young marrieds, singles or those approaching retirement. Such subjects as wills, investments, mutual funds, insurance, social security and real estate will be discussed in the six-week course. Joseph Mayo, Pat McCourt, William Byrne, and John B. Carlin Jr. will be the instructors.

REGISTRATIONS FOR THIS and a variety of spring courses are now being taken at the YW. Classes begin the week of April 10.

Y Club Plans
Card Party

The Women's Service Club of the Northwestern YMCA will hold its annual card party Thursday, April 13, in the game room of the Y, Seven Mile and Lahser, Detroit. Proceeds will go towards youth activities. The party will be from 12:30 to 3 p.m. Tickets will be sold at the door for $1.50 per person and baby sitting will be provided. Coffee and dessert will be served.

A course in interior design will cover basic principles of design, including space and scale, color, texture, fabrics, floor and wall coverings and accessories. It is hoped to present it in a way which will help individual members understand how to apply it to their own particular situations. Projects will be assigned. Laura A. Topalian will be the instructor. She is a graduate in interior design of Wayne State University. Two other new courses being offered by the YW are one in black history and one entitled "New White Consciousness." The latter will deal with the consequences of racism. Both classes will be offered for nine weeks and begin April 12. The YW's education course on alcohol addiction and its place in the American social structure will also be offered for a nine-week term beginning April 12. This course is for anyone who has ever had a drink or served one. Special emphasis is put on the role of hostess with tips on how to serve alcoholic beverages without unintentionally becoming "pushers" of what has been called America's "number one drug." The class format will be extended to include information on the reaction of various tranquilizers and common medications with one another or combined with alcohol. The course will include a field trip. There is a $5 registration for the course, which is entitled "Reflections in a Glass."

New Commission
On Women Gets
EMU Approval

A commission on Women has been given the green light at Eastern Michigan University and is expected to become operative in the fall. The proposal for the commission, submitted by the executive board of the Faculty Women's Club, recently was approved by EMU President Harold E. Sponberg. It says "all matters of equity for women shall come within its jurisdiction." This is interpreted to mean women students and staff members as well as faculty.

THE 10-MEMBER body will "give continuing direction to an all-institutional program for women... handle the complaints and... administer periodic reviews of the implementation of institutional programs and policies." Specific areas of concern will include identification and elimination of discriminatory employment practices, development of recruiting practices in jobs for women, and education of employing units on the availability and suitability of women for jobs at all levels. The commission will also "review all publications of the institution to assure that they promote a positive image of women and other minorities."

FOR STUDENTS, it will "review policies, climate and customs regarding the admission, financial support and counseling of women students." Members of the commission, to be appointed by President Sponberg, will include representatives of the three colleges, the applied science departments, the university library, and administrative, professional and non-academic personnel. One undergraduate and one graduate student will round out the list.

Great-Grandparents
Look Back 62 Years

There have been lots of ups and downs, pleasures and troubles, for Louise and Fred Smith since their marriage in Sault Ste. Marie back in 1910. But now, 62 years and 27 great-grandchildren later, both can look back and say "We've come through it all pretty well."

Auburn. Both natives of the Soo area, they spoke their vows in her parents' home. They lived in Sault Ste. Marie until 1916, then moved to Detroit and finally to Plymouth, where they had farm property on Joy Road. After selling to the Calvary Baptist Church, they tried living in the north again for a couple of years, but came back to Plymouth to stay several years ago. "Had to save on the telephone bills," Fred Smith said.

recipe for 62 years of happy marriage. "I don't think any couple could ever say they never had an argument," Mrs. Smith said. "So somebody has to give in." But neither would offer advice to their great-grandchildren or other youth of today. "They're living in a different world," says this great-grandfather.
