Ever Hear of a LAZP

PROBABLY NOT. Every year, electric lamp bulbs are doing a better and better job.

But lamp bulbs are often overworked in winter-when the days are dark and the nights are long. In fact, the average lamp bulb in the home is lighted almost twice as long in January as in July.

To spare yourself needless bother, be sure you have plenty of spare bulbs on hand. Your dealer has them-in all sizes-and all modestly priced.

Remember, too, that you can exchange burned-out bulbs for new ones at any Edison office. There's no charge, of course.
